DEMOCRACY OF GEORGIA SWEEPS ON MACON FOR NOMINATION OF RIVERS, RUSSELL TODAY

M'DONALD SLATED TO BECOME HEAD OF UTILITY GROUP

Blind Public Service Commission Member To Be Its Chairman Under Reorganization Plan, It Is Revealed in Macon.

KNIGHT, M'WHORTER TO BACK NEW CHIEF

Purge of Gov. Talmadge's Appointees Expected After Rivers Assumes His Office as Governor.

By L. A. FARRELL.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 6.—Walter R. McDonald, of Augusta, blind member of the Georgia Public Service Commission, is to be the new chairman of that body after its reorganization with the installation of Commissioners James A. Perry, Perry T. Knight and Matt McWhorter, it was authentically reported here tonight.

McDonald will supplant Jud P. Wilhoit, of Warrenton, who remains on the commission as a member. Wilhoit was elected chairman of the group appointed by Governor Talmadge when he removed McDonald, Perry, Knight, Albert Woodruff, of Decatur, and Jule W. Felton, of Montezuma, three years ago.

Sought by Others.

The blind member of the board will be supported by Knight and McWhorter, it was learned here tonight. Perry also has been seeking the chairmanship, which he held at the time of his removal, and it is understood that Wilhoit, who, with McDonald, will be the only other member of the present setup on the board after November 15, also sought to retain the chairmanship.

The decision of McDonald, McWhorter and Knight to pass up both Wilhoit and Perry in connection with the chairmanship and give it to McDonald

Swedish Flier Unsighted Since Gotham Takeoff

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Somewhere above the Atlantic the green and red monoplane of Kurt Bjorkvall, Swedish flyer, drummed along tonight toward Stockholm on a non-stop flight attempt.

Late in the day there had been no report of his position. The ship, the Pacemaker, carried only a radio receiver.

As the 31-year-old Bjorkvall thundered along in a solitary search for glory, a dashing blond passenger who unexpectedly didn't get to go with him sat secluded in a club near New York.

She was the Baroness Eva Von Blixen Finecke, who has motored alone in Africa and shot lions in its jungles. It had been announced all along that she would share the controls with Bjorkvall, but she went to the air field today to be turned aside by the flyer with an eloquent "No!" spoken twice.

Precisely why, none learned. The Swedish newspaper which had been backing the flight had withdrawn its support and Bjorkvall had bought the plane to make the trip on his own.

Falls to Death From 102-Foot Smoke Stack

11 Planes Will Tour Nation for Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Representative Samuel Rayburn, of Texas, chairman of the Speakers' Bureau of the Democratic national committee, announced tonight that an aerial caravan of 11 planes would leave here tomorrow, trailing banners 12 feet long urging the re-election of President Roosevelt.

He said the planes would fly over every state in the Union between now and election day. Many more planes will be used just before the election, he said.

FALL OF 102 FEET IS FATAL TO NEGRO

Man Who Climbed Tall Cartersville Chimney Defies Rescue Attempts.

By STILES A. MARTIN, State News Editor.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Oct. 6.—Defying all efforts to give him aid and threatening to attack anyone who attempted to rescue him, an unidentified negro man, after staying atop a 102-foot smokestack here for more than 18 hours fell tonight and was instantly killed, his body being badly mangled.

Discovered on the top of the huge chimney early today, where he had climbed some time during the night, and fortified by a number of bricks loosened at the top by a recent bolt of lightning, the negro threatened to use the missiles on anyone who attempted to climb the inside ladder and give him aid. In his defiance, he hurled several bricks down, which, however, did not strike anyone, nor do any other damage.

Attracts Big Crowd.

His presence on the smokestack attracted a crowd estimated at 20,000, jammed traffic on the Dixie highway, near which the stack is located.

The crowd dwindled toward night, as flashlights were played upon him. Policemen and firemen watched him tonight and the negro engaged them in conversation during the evening. At about 10:30 o'clock, he was seen to be hanging by his fingers to the rim of the chimney, then he fell.

A few cents and an Atlanta street car ticket were found in his pockets. There was nothing to identify him, he being considered a "floater" here.

The negro was discovered early today on the huge unused stack at the plant of the water, gas and electric light plant of Cartersville. A negro helper heard cries, looked all around him, and as his eyes began to get larger and he thought he was "hearings things," he happened to look up to the top of the smokestack and there

KEY VETOES PLAN; PAY RESTORATION RESTS ON COUNCIL

Let Those Who Do It Accept Responsibility for Wrecking City's Credit, Says Mayor's Message.

Hope that non-school employes of the municipality will receive reinstatement of half of the 10 per cent cuts now in force against them rests upon whether or not council, at its October 19 session, overrides Mayor Key's veto to the measure, approved Monday by council.

Despite approval of the reinstatement late Monday by Acting Mayor Ellis B. Barrett, Key yesterday sent to the clerk's office for the paper and affixed his veto, asserting he wished to place the responsibility for wrecking the city's credit on those who do it.

In a terse but pointed message to council, Key said passage of the measure, which would require $35,000 for the rest of the year, would hurt those it is intended to help because it would force them to hawk scrip which the municipality must issue for November and December salaries at huge discounts.

Key's Veto Message.

Text of the veto message to council follows:

"I am returning, without approval, resolution which contains provision for a 5 per cent increase in pay of city employes now being paid more than $100 per month, or decreasing the reduction from 10 to 5 per cent.

"I apprehend that there is no one in the city government who would not be glad to see this done, if the city was financially able to do so. It is not a question of willingness, but it is a question of ability to do it.

"The budget commission report and the statements made by the chairman of the finance committee show that the increased revenue found by the budget commission was not sufficient to meet the imperative demands of the several departments of the city government.

City Must Run.

ROOSEVELT'S SON IS NAMED IN PROBE

Elliott Allegedly Was To Receive $500,000 for Selling Airplanes to Moscow

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The senate munitions committee tonight made public what it said was an affidavit by Anthony H. S. Fokker, former German airplane manufacturer, stating he had signed a contract in 1934 to give Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, a commission of $500,000 in connection with the sale of military airplanes to Russia.

Committee officials said the affidavit was made public by order of Chairman Nye, Republican, North Dakota, as a result of published charges the committee was withholding information.

(Young Roosevelt, who is in Oklahoma City, informed of the accusing affidavit last night, denied he ever made a contract with Anthony H. G. Fokker to sell military planes to Russia. Roosevelt said he had contracted with Fokker in February, 1934, to sell airplanes, but that the planes to be sold were not military ships and that the contract expressly stipulated that Roosevelt was not to sell to foreign governments or to the United States government, or to officials of such governments.)

They said it was taken by Stephen Raushenbush and Joel Earnest, committee investigators, and quoted Fok-

YANKS WIN, 13-5, TO CLOSE SERIES

American League Champions Score 7 Runs in 9th for Easy Victory.

By ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The New York Yankees blasted their way back to the baseball heights today with a farewell salvo of base-hit shrapnel that crushed the last lingering hopes of their intercity rivals, the battle-worn Giants, and tore another whole page out of the record books.

Riddled by the long-range guns of the American league champions, crippled but still fighting up to the very last with all the resources at their command, the Giants finally crumbled under a ninth-inning barrage that produced seven runs and swept the Yankees to a lopsided conquest, 13 to 5, in the sixth and final game of the all-New York battle for the world baseball championship.

As the tumult and the shouting died down for 1936, following as devastating an attack as any World Series has ever known, the "Bronx Bombers" emerged with a decisive victory, four games to two, in a series that set a flock of new hitting and scoring records, besides scaling fresh heights for attendance and receipts with a return to boom-time baseball prosperity.

Fourth Victory in Row.

The Yankees not only squared accounts with their metropolitan rivals in World Series play, with two triumphs for each club in four battles for the game's highest stakes, but registered their fifth championship conquest in eight attempts and their fourth in succession. Following up their sweep of the 1927, 1928 and 1932 battles with the National league, the Yankees now boast a record of 16 games won out of 18 played.

Four pitchers, led by the hard-luck victim of the third game, Fat Freddy Fitzsimmons, failed to check the tidal wave of Yankee base hits this afternoon. The Giants got off in front and finally forced the Yanks' southpaw foe, Vernon (Goofy) Gomez, to cover in the seventh inning, but it was an uphill battle for them nearly all the way.

The National leaguers simply did not have the power to match their rivals, particularly in the "clutches," and their emergency defense finally

Here Is Full Agenda Of Macon Convention

MACON, Ga., Oct. 6.—(AP)—The schedule for the state Democratic convention here tomorrow (Atlanta time) follows:

10 A. M.—Preliminary session of state Democratic convention in Macon auditorium. Band concert will precede meeting.

12 Noon—State Democratic convention called to order in the Macon auditorium.

3 P. M.—Convention scheduled to adjourn.

U. S. COURT RULES LABOR ACT VALID

Board, However, Told It Has No Authority at All in Intrastate Disputes.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Ruling on two parallel cases, the United States fourth circuit court of appeals today upheld the National Labor Relations Board's authority in interstate commerce, but declared it had no power in intrastate business.

The court said it would enter a decree enforcing the board's order that the Washington, Virginia and Maryland Coach Company cease and desist from discouraging its employes from joining a union, and that the concern offer reinstatement to discharged employes with back pay.

The board was held without authority, however, to exercise similar supervision over Foster Brothers Manufacturing Company, Inc., a Maryland corporation making bed springs, day beds and other furniture at Baltimore.

In the latter case, the court rejected the board's contention that the point at issue differed from that in the NRA and Guffey coal decisions of the United States supreme court in that the Baltimore manufacturers imported raw materials from other states and sold finished products outside Maryland.

CLARK DENOUNCES LANDON PROGRAM

Missouri Democrat Tells Macon Convention No Issue Has Been Created.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Senator Clark, Democrat, Missouri, told the Georgia Democratic state convention tonight that the Republican presidential nominee, Governor Alf M. Landon, has "created no issue with Mr. Roosevelt upon which he himself is willing to stand."

"On relief, on the farm problem, on social security he tells you that President Roosevelt has been wrong," Clark said. "But on none of them does he offer any alternative except to do the same thing at less cost. And yet sound actuaries tell us that his proposed variations from Roosevelt's farm program would cost five times as much without increased benefits to farmers.

"His social security program is a fraud on its face in view of the fact that during 12 long, weary, tragic years his party, under the same ownership which now controls him, not only failed but wholly refused to pass any legislation whatever looking toward social security.

"Landon Blocked Action."

"Moreover, it is a fact known to all intelligent men and women that Landon himself blocked any remedial action whatever in Kansas looking toward social security until after his nomination for president.

"Governor Landon, if you or your party were ever in sympathy with the principle of social security, why did you wait for a year and a half after passage of the act by congress under the Roosevelt administration? Why did you wait until after your nomination for president to call a special session of the Kansas legislature to conform to the federal act?

"You go to New York to express your interest in education. Governor Landon, will you explain why your state is 48th in the American Union in state aid to public schools, why 7,000 teachers in your state re-

PARADE FEATURES NIGHT FESTIVITIES

Delegates Hear Address by Senator Bennett Clark After Dinner in Honor of Leaders, Wives

By L. A. FARRELL.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 6.—A jubilant Georgia Democracy converged upon Macon tonight, ready to enthusiastically return control of the party to the hands of supporters of President Roosevelt under the leadership of Governor-designate E. D. Rivers here tomorrow.

Every hotel was filled and hundreds were still without accommodations tonight as leaders of the Rivers organization completed plans for assuming control of the party machinery, when Rivers accepts the gubernatorial nomination and Charles S. Reid, of Atlanta, becomes the new chairman of the state Democratic executive committee.

In addition to the more than 6,000 delegates named by the Rivers organization, there are additional thousands of visitors here awaiting the sound of the gavel for the convention.

A harmonious session appeared assured despite reports that friends of Judge O. J. Franklin, of Eastman, would carry to the convention floor his fight to contest Judge Eschol Graham, of McRae, for the judgeship of the Oconee superior court circuit. There appeared little chance of the convention going into this case, however, even if the supporters of Franklin seek action on the floor.

Victory Parade.

Governor-designate Rivers led a victory parade through downtown Macon early tonight, a parade several miles long, participated in by a preponderant number of the Rivers-Russell delegates here to take charge of the party of their fathers once more.

The parade, a big event on the pre-convention program, also was fea-

Grid Team in Huddle Struck by Lightning

CANTON, Ohio, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Lightning struck the Lehman High school football squad at practice late this afternoon, killing Don Cornell and injuring 11 others, including Coach Jimmy Robinson and Assistant Coach Wilbur Billings.

The injured were rushed to Mercy hospital. All were released with the exception of Coach Robinson. Hospital attaches said he was in a serious condition, his lower limbs paralyzed.

Wallace Ferrell, witness, said the two teams were scrimmaging just before the fatal bolt struck.

"The varsity was in a huddle listening to instructions from Coach Robins," he said. "There was a blinding flash of light and members of the team fell to the ground.

Cobb Says: Salads, Too, Have Changed

By IRVIN S. COBB.

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 6.—About once in so often, you meet the man—it's always a man—who knows how to make the perfect salad dressing, and, on the slightest provocation, does so. The trouble with this party is, when you get him off of salad dressings, he's practically a total loss.

Nevertheless, a decent salad dressing—and a decent salad—are boons to humanity. The right commingling of astringent, bitterish green things with a smooth, bland dressing—there you have something. But often we are confronted by a monstrosity featuring whipped cream, nut kernels, sweet cheese, preserved fruit, even marshmallows or pickled ginger.

Such an atrocity is never a salad. Put a crust on it and it might pass for pie, but would be very low-grade pie. Maybe, though, I'm no proper judge. Times have changed since, but, in my early days, the regular salad course was chewing tobacco.

DEMOCRATS TO RATIFY RIVERS CHOICE TODAY

tured by the presence of a large number of floats, designed and manned by county delegations here for the session.

The Roosevelt-Russell-Rivers theme predominated in the parade Governor-designate and Mrs. Rivers rode in the first car with Mayor Herbert Smart, of Macon, and Chairman Leon S. Dure, of the Bibb county commission.

Senator Russell rode in the second car.

Immediately after the parade, Governor-designate and Mrs. Rivers, members of the Rivers family, Senator Russell, who also will be nominated here tomorrow; Senator and Mrs. Walter F. George, the Georgia congressmen and their wives were honored guests at a dinner given by the Georgia Affiliated Women's Democratic Clubs, of which Mrs. J. T. Rollison, of Waycross, is president.

Address by Clark.

The program was cut short in order to permit those in attendance to go to the auditorium to hear a pre-convention address by Senator Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri, son of the late Speaker Champ Clark, who spoke as a representative of the Democratic national committee.

A governor's ball, sponsored by the Macon convention committee, completed the pre-convention program for tonight.

The Rivers' organization, interspersed with a large number of supporters of Senator Russell, was in full control of the situation.

Hugh Howell, of Atlanta, retiring chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, will call the convention to order at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning and will preside pending the election of Congressman E. E. Cox, of Camilla, as the temporary chairman. After Judge Cox's election, Howell will retire from the stage, removing from the party command in Georgia its last vestige of Talmadgeism.

Keynote Address.

Judge Cox will deliver his keynote address and declare that nominations for the permanent chairman are in order. Mr. Reid is slated for this post.

Then will come the nominations of George S. Googe, of Savannah, and Mrs. Helen Williams Coxon, of Ludowici, as vice chairmen, and Mrs. F. A. Stowe, of Toccoa, as secretary.

The convention also will ratify the selection of 60 of the 120 members of the new state committee. These 60 members were nominated in caucus tonight. Under the rules, the convention names 60 district members of the committee and the chairman later adds 60 state-at-large members. Chairman Reid is expected to fill out the committee promptly in order that the party may make a fight for an overwhelming Roosevelt majority in November.

Rivers Backers Named.

The new state Democratic executive committee will be composed entirely of Rivers supporters. This was assured tonight as the various district groups met to nominate their members and the 10th congressional district, the only district supplying delegates appointed by the Rivers opposition, reported six nominations of Rivers supporters.

Delegates from the tenth district representing Walton and Clarke counties, which were appointed by Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens, participated in the district caucus, but none of those nominated were from either of these districts. The district groups named six committee members each. The balance of the committee, 60 members from the state at large, will be named in a few days by Chairman Charles Reid.

Nominations Revealed.

The nominations reported to the convention headquarters tonight follow:

First District—W. B. Scott, Chatham county; Joe Law, Burke county; Mrs. Charles J. Wadsworth, Jenkins county; Mrs. Julian C. Lane, Bulloch county; Andrew J. Bird, Candler county; B. A. Conner, Montgomery county.

Second District—Mrs. W. F. Scott, Thomas county; Mrs. A. B. Conger, Decatur county; W. H. Duckworth, Grady county; Judge A. L. Miller, Calhoun county; Sheriff Sid Howell, Early county; J. Harold Saxon, Brooks county.

Third District—Watts Powell, Dooley county; William Brisindine, Peach county; Willis Battle, Muscogee county; Allen Chappell, Sumter county; Mrs. T. R. Moye, Randolph county; Mrs. Nora Lawrence Smith, Turner county.

Fourth District—R. L. Turner, Henry county; W. M. Dallas, Upson county; Mrs. Kathleen Hogan, Carroll county; C. A. Byers, Spalding county; J. R. Gay, Meriwether county; A. O. Blalock, Fayette county.

Fifth District—Harry Monroe, Fulton county; John L. Conner, Fulton county; Hugh Burgess, DeKalb county; H. H. Howard, DeKalb county; E. J. Newmeyer, DeKalb county; William T. Dean, Rockdale county.

Sixth District—J. Howard Ennis, Baldwin county; Warren Grice, Bibb county; Mrs. Victor Davidson, Wilkinson county; Mrs. Frank A. Dennis, Putnam county; W. B. Williams, Jones county; R. Earl Camp, Laurens county.

Seventh District—Mrs. J. I. Matthews, Paulding county; Mrs. T. Grady Head, Catoosa county; Groover C. Byars, Floyd county; W. W. Munday, Polk county; Dr. Roy Richards, Gordon county; J. Ralph Rosser, Walker county.

Eighth District—Mrs. L. L. Patton, Lanier county; Mrs. Calvin W. Parker, Ware county; Harley Langdale, Lowndes county; Hadley Brown, Glynn county; Lamar Murdough, Telfair county, and Fred Ricketston, Coffee county.

Ninth District—Dr. J. S. Golden, Pickens county; T. Jack Lance, Towns county; C. S. Hubbard, Habersham county; Mrs. Pauline Neal, White county; Mrs. Claude Williams, Hall county; H. O. Camp Barrow county.

Tenth District—Dr. J. R. Wilson, McDuffie county; Mrs. Fred Tappan, Greene county; Reece Watkins, Oglethorpe county; Clark Edwards Jr., Elbert county; J. E. Eubanks, Columbia county, and Mrs. Will Gholston, Madison county.

Following the perfection of the convention organization, the nomination of Senator Russell will be placed before the convention by the Rev. J. Edd Fain, of Fitzgerald. Senator Russell arrived early this afternoon, announcing his speech of acceptance would be extemporaneous.

"This is Ed Rivers' party," the junior senator said. "I do not want to do anything that will detract from the Rivers celebration. I shall be happy to have my small part in it."

Rivers' Nomination.

Immediately after the nomination of Senator Russell, the nomination of Rivers will be laid before the convention by former Senator W. H. Duckworth, of Cairo, classmate of the governor-designate at Young Harris College years ago and his former law partner. The nomination will be seconded by Albert Foster, of Madison, a long-time Rivers supporter.

The platform committee met late tonight and gave its final approval to the platform, the gist of which was made public last week. It calls for free schoolbooks, old-age pensions, better rural roads and a general improvement in public health facilities, all measures advocated by Speaker Rivers in his successful campaign for governor.

Although the convention is well under the control of Rivers supporters, the delegates from two counties were named by Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens, who carried Walton and Clarke counties in the governorship race. It was reported here tonight that these delegations, which are headed by Tate Wright, of Athens, who managed the Fortson campaign, will join the other 157 in voting for Rivers for governor.

Joy reigns everywhere in Macon tonight. Numerous bands are parading up and down the streets playing time and again, "Happy Days Are Here Again." Hundreds are without sleeping accommodations, but they do not seem to care. They are here to celebrate and do not want to waste any time sleeping. It is a grand celebration, and Macon is receiving the plaudits of the visitors for the fine program it has laid out.

PROGRAM OF LANDON SCORED BY SENATOR

ceive an average of the measly pittance of $25 a month for teaching the youth of the land?

Landon Questioned.

"During the time that Mr. Landon has been governor of Kansas," Clark said, "relief in that state has been provided for 80 per cent by the federal government and 20 per cent approximately by the counties. The state government had contributed nothing. Now under the Kansas fiscal system the counties depend entirely for their revenue upon direct taxes upon realty and personality.

"The net effect, then of Governor Landon's relief policy has been to shoulder the whole burden of relief onto either the federal government or the county governments and to relieve income taxpayers or corporation franchise taxpayers of any part of the burden.

Farmers Bear Burden.

"In other words the effect of Mr. Landon's policy has been to saddle the cost of Kansas' contribution to relief, small as they have been, upon the farmers and the home owners. They and they alone have borne the burden of relief while the big oil companies, the big pipeline companies and other corporations have escaped scot-free under Governor Landon's remarkable policy of economy.

"No wonder the du Ponts, Morgans and Rockefellers have been willing to contribute vast sums for the election of a candidate whose proven ideas on taxation run so closely to their own charted courses.

"Landon's campaign will be like its favorite flower, the sunflower. Blatant and noisome as that flower is in its brief existence, it dies early in November."

The plane bringing Senator Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri, here tonight was forced to land on a rain-soaked field in darkness.

Landing lights are being transferred to a new field, and when the pilot of the private airplane bringing the senator here came over the usual landing place he circled it six times before alighting. It was a perfect landing.

The senator laughed at his experience.

"No state has been more ably represented in the United States senate and house of representatives than is Georgia now with your present delegation," Senator Clark said.

George, Russell Praised.

He lauded both United States Senators Walter F. George and Richard B. Russell Jr.

Clark said Russell's victory over Governor Eugene Talmadge had "heartened the Democrats all over the nation."

The senator, defending the Roosevelt administration's experimentation in government, said Thomas Jefferson himself was the leader in such a movement.

"I would rather take the word of Thomas Jefferson on his own theories of government than John J. Raskob, Jim Reed, Al Smith or even your Governor Talmadge," he added.

The senator's remarks were frequently interrupted by applause.

Plunkett Presides.

R. G. Plunkett, Macon attorney, chairman of the distinguished guests committee of the convention, presided.

Clark was introduced by Congressman Braswell Deen, of the eighth district.

Clark said the "average Republican of the rank and file" is just as honest, just as straight-forward as the Democrat.

"But," he added, "he is not so well informed as the Democrat.

"I always have said that if we could get a Republican young enough we could make a good Democrat of him."

There were laughs and applause from the audience when Clark referred to Landon, the Republican presidential aspirant, as a "me, too" candidate.

REFUNDS ARE GIVEN STATE CANIDATES

Howell Greets Successor in Post as Head of Party in Georgia.

Hugh Howell, retiring chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, announced yesterday refund of approximately 35 per cent of the entrance fees paid by all candidates for statehouse offices in the September 9 Democratic primary.

"After paying all expenses of the state Democratic committee, there was enough money left in the treasury to pay a refund of approximately 35 per cent to all candidates, which I am very happy to do," said a statement issued by Howell.

"This is the first time I know of that a candidate for a statehouse office has received any refund on his entrance fee.

"All of the affairs of the old committee have been wound up, and I wish for Charlie Reid, my successor, the best luck in the world.

"In retiring as chairman of the state committee, I once again pledge my allegiance to the Democratic party, both state and national, and I shall co-operate to the best of my ability in piling up a tremendous vote in Georgia in the November election."

Reid will succeed Howell at the state Democratic convention in Macon today.

tion. We cannot spend all of our money on the pa yrolls, however, gladly we might do so if we were able.

"I assume that efforts were made to continue this action on into next year; otherwise it would be merely an idle gesture. In order to do this, there are certain things that will have to happen. First, the taxes of the people will have to be increased; or second, the deficit of the city will have to be increased; or, third, the credit of the city may be imperiled to the extent that it cannot negotiate its scrip and employes may have to negotiate the sale of their scrip on the best terms possible. Whatever view you take of this, it is going to lead to disaster and the disaster will fall the hardest upon those whom it is desired to help.

Place for Responsibility.

"I do not assume that this action is going to stop the measure, because there are sufficient votes in the council and aldermanic board to override this veto, but I desire to put the responsibility where it belongs and let those who are going to undertake to run the city government assume the burden.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS TO RULE FAIR TODAY

crash, will be back in harness today and ready to go, along with Buddy Callaway, of Macon, long popular with Atlanta race fans. Callaway's car was disabled Sunday soon after he had set a new track record. It was the first time he has ever suffered motor trouble in a race here. He has repaired his machine and is ready to try for some of the cash prizes today.

Other big features of the day's program will be various events to be held in the Educational building, starting at 10:30 o'clock with the Boys' High band playing. Students from the Goldsmith school, Gordon school, Key school and Joe Brown Junior High also will have a part in the morning program.

Afternoon Program.

In the afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock, Boys' High, Moreland Avenue, Capitol Avenue, R. L. Hope school, R. E. Lee, of Thomaston; Bass Junior High, Hoke Smith Junior and Commercial High will share in presenting two hours of educational features.

Decatur Boys' High, Commercial High and Murphy school will present two hours of fine entertainment on the night program, starting at 7:30 o'clock on the stage in the Educational building.

With education and farming the backbone of every country, today's Southeastern Fair program is probably the outstanding of the eight days' exhibit at Lakewood park.

Today's program has an appeal to every person in the city and county, from both educational and amusement standpoints.

4-H Features.

In addition to assuming full charge of the fair activities, the 4-H Club council has arranged numerous special features for the day. They include a team of girls from Dougherty county in a demonstration of individuality of dress, knitting by Chatham county girls, table linens by Treutlen county girls, better methods of setting the table by Crisp county girls, and improved ways of lighting the home by Floyd county girls.

Boys from the 4-H clubs will demonstrate improved farming practices, conservation of wild life resources, treating of seed to control diseases, soil erosion, raising pigs, managing beef and dairy calves, raising poultry and forestry.

Specialists with the extension service of the college of agriculture under the direction of G. V. Cunningham, of Athens, also have exhibits and demonstrations planned for today.

Georgia's 4-H club organization is the largest in the United States, with more than 50,000 club members enrolled, and the city, county and state will honor its members at the Southeastern Fair today.

Today is only the beginning of youth's reign at the fair, for Friday and Saturday will be given over principally to the youngsters.

Friday will be School Day, with a pony show and rodeo, and the spelling bee outstanding features. Bicycle races for boys will be featured on Saturday's Georgia Press Day.

Kiwanis Day Is Wet.

Georgia's Kiwanians were greeted with overcast skies and heavy rains in their day at the fair yesterday, but the program as arranged was carried out with few exceptions.

The afternoon grandstand performances were rained out and the night parachute jump was cancelled.

"Happy" McCloude will jump from a plane at 9:45 o'clock tomorrow night in a feature of the Shrine day.

Jesse Draper, president of the Atlanta Kiwanis Club, and Mike Benton, president of the fair, were hosts to visiting Kiwanians yesterday at a barbecue dinner at 6 o'clock in the Agriculture building.

Forrest Traylor, Arthur Falkinburg and Joe Shaw assisted Draper in welcoming visiting Kiwanians, with clubs from Atlanta, Marietta, Rome, Cedartown, Cartersville and Blue Ridge.

Fulton county employes will not be given a half-holiday, but will have a chance to visit the Southeastern Fair, Dr. C. R. Adams, chairman of the county commissioners, announced yesterday. Every department has been issued instructions to arrange work so that every employe who so desires may have time off to visit the fair.

M'DONALD TO HEAD PUBLIC SERVICE BODY

will result in the reorganization of the entire committee personnel, it was said here.

Curtiss A. Mees, the present engineer and rate expert of the commission, probably will be replaced, as will other officials of the department who are appointed by the commission.

Future Rate Structure.

What effect the reorganization of the commission will have on the rate structures of the state remains to be seen. In the recent campaign in which McWhorter and Knight were elected, along with Perry, further reductions in light and power rates were promised. The commissioners all are pledged to continue the fight started by Wilhoit and his associates for lowered freight rates to the north and east, as well as a lower schedule on intrastate traffic.

The McDonald-McWhorter-Knight coalition comes somewhat as a surprise. Heretofore, both McDonald and Knight have been extremely friendly toward Perry, the latter having served as vice chairman under Perry's regime as chairman. It is understood Knight will be the vice chairman under the reorganized setup.

New Secretary Seen.

A new secretary to replace Jack Forrester, a Talmadge supporter, also is considered likely. The commission will be reorganized immediately after the general election, as the three new members will take office as soon as the results of the voting are certified. They are running for both short and long terms. They have no opposition in the general election.

Purge in Prospect.

A far-reaching purge of Talmadge appointees from the affairs of the state government, except those confirmed for definite periods by the last state senate, is in prospect immediately after Governor-designate Rivers takes office next January.

This was authoritatively established here today as members of the incoming senate gathered to participate in the state convention tomorrow.

Paramount is the state highway board, which Speaker Rivers, during his campaign, promised to reorganize, pledging himself to take the highway department out of politics and see "that it uses the state's money for the building of roads and bridges." There is some talk among members of the general assembly of creating a new highway board, dividing the state into five districts, if the present members of the board are unwilling to step aside.

Present Set-Up.

Chairman W. E. Wilburn, of the present board, has until January 1, 1938, on his present term. He is completing the term to which J. P. Wilhoit, of Warrenton, now chairman of the Public Service Commission, was appointed by Governor Russell January 1, 1932. Wilburn has extensive banking interests at Oglethorpe, Ga., and it is generally expected he will tender his resignation immediately after Talmadge's retirement.

Judge Max L. McRae, of McRae, the south Georgia member of the board, is serving at the pleasure of the present governor. His term expired January 1, 1936, and he never has formally been reappointed. It is understood Judge McRae also will bow out January 1, leaving Rivers to name at least two of the three board members. Should Talmadge decide to send McRae's name to the senate, and should McRae permit him to do so, it is considered extremely doubtful if the appointment would be confirmed.

John A. Heck, the north Georgia member of the board, was confirmed for a six-year term ending January 1, 1939, by the last senate. He is known to want to continue on the board, but whether he will be permitted to do so is not known at this time.

Several Urged for Post.

In south Georgia, a number of persons are being recommended to the incoming governor for appointment to McRae's post. These include M. L. Tift, of Albany chairman of the county commission of Dougherty county; Joseph D. Mitchell, of Waycross, clerk of Ware superior court; Dr. J. B. Kennedy, of Statesboro, and W. L. Miller, banker and leading citizen of Governor Rivers' home town of Lakeland.

A number of men are being urged for the place now held by Wilburn.

In north Georgia, in the event Heck leaves the board, the friends of Judge J. B. Jones, of Gainesville, are urging him for the post. Likewise the friends of J. J. Mangham, of Bremen former chairman of the board who was ousted by Talmadge, are urging his reappointment, while from Lumpkin and surrounding counties there are coming indorsements of John Moore, of Dahlonega, chairman of the board of county commissioners in Lumpkin county.

Future Setup.

While there is talk of reorganizing the board into a five-member body, that talk includes the making of the chairman a permanent official, who would serve full time. It also has the other four members as officials who would serve only two or three days a month, limiting their salaries and expenses to around $100 a month each. In the event the reorganization plan is put through, the highway board appointments, while important politically, would not be sugared plums, as the remuneration would be too small.

In any event, the Governor designates the chairman of the board, and inasmuch as McRae's place will be the first one filled it is considered most likely that whoever is appointed for that post will succeed McRae as board member and Wilburn as chairman.

Superintendent of Banks.

It was learned here today that Governor Talmadge is planning to send the name of Senator John Beasley, of Glennville, to the senate for superintendent of banks, provided Beasley believes he has a chance of being confirmed. It is understood Beasley does not want the appointment unless he is reasonably sure of a chance of confirmation. R. E. Gormley, of Cuthbert, the present commissioner, supported Governor Rivers in the recent campaign. It is not known if Rivers plans to reappoint him. It is understood Talmadge has placed the Beasley appointment up to Beasley himself.

It is a foregone conclusion that the general assembly will disapprove of Talmadge's action in suspending State Treasurer George B. Hamilton and Comptroller General William B. Harrison. The general assembly has such a mandate from the voters. It is likewise a foregone conclusion that Hamilton and Harrison will be paid for the time they have been under suspension.

Carreker Will Quit.

The two Talmadge appointees to the revenue commission, Chairman G. B. Carreker and Commissioner Pat Crowe, has little hope of being confirmed. Although here are reports that friends of Crowe are asking members of the senate to confirm him, Carreker is expected to step aside immediately after Rivers takes office.

Governor-designate Rivers has been urged to name W. E. Matheson, of Hartwell, chairman of the commission. He formerly held the post now held by Crowe, being dropped by Talmadge when he refused to join in the Talmadge dictatorship of state finances. Matheson warmly supported the Rivers' candidacy, and the new governor is known to feel kindly toward him.

In the event Mitchell is not placed on the highway board, his friends are urging him for appointment to the revenue commission post now held by Crowe.

As matters stood here today, there appeared no tendency on the part of either Rivers or the general assembly to kick out appointees confirmed by the previous senate, but it did appear that none of those unconfirmed would be permitted to stay.

Game and Fish Post.

There are a number of applicants for the post of game and fish commissioner, now held by Z. D. Cravey. Cravey's term does not expire until late next year, and none of the Rivers' organization is giving it consideration at present.

Governor-designate Rivers is known not to be giving consideration to any appointments. He has stated so publicly. However, his friends and the friends of various aspirants for places are showing considerable activity. To all of them Rivers listens intently and repeats that he is not now considering appointments. He, nevertheless, is keeping all of these things in mind.

ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT NAMED IN ARMS QUIZ

ker as saying he made the agreement with Elliott Roosevelt after discovering he could not procure an exclusive sales agency for Douglas airplanes to Russia "because it had been given to Mr. Elliott Roosevelt and certain partners in business with him."

President Linked.

In the alleged affidavit, Fokker said he had been informed by his agent, through a third party, that President Roosevelt had approved the contract made by his son, but objected to Elliott traveling abroad to sell airplanes.

Fokker's agent was quoted as saying he desired Elliott Roosevelt to travel abroad with him in an effort to sell airplanes to various governments, "counting on the willingness of high foreign officials to receive Mr. Roosevelt as the son of the American President."

This arrangement fell through, the Fokker agent reported, according to the affidavit, after Elliott had discussed the plan by telephone with the President and "had been told by the President that he had objections to Mr. Elliott Roosevelt's traveling abroad in this connection, but had approved the contract with Mr. Fokker."

$5,000 In Cash.

Fokker was quoted in the deposition as saying the contract transaction was concluded with "a cash payment of $5,000 for Mr. Roosevelt, and the payment of a further check of $6,666 through a brokerage house which it was difficult for Mr. Roosevelt to accept in view of the President's disputes with Wall Street at the time."

Fokker and an agent for him both were quoted as saying the check had never been cashed or returned but that they had finally stopped payment on it.

In the affidavit made public by the committee, the reason for the alleged contract with Roosevelt was explained as follows:

"Having discovered that the Douglas Aircraft Company had made arrangements with Mr. Elliott Roosevelt and his associates to sell Douglas planes to Russia, Mr. Fokker then approached Mr. Rosevelt who had been introduced to him by Mr. Douglas, and made a contract with Mr. Roosevelt for the sale of military Lockheed planes.

"Mr. Fokker states that he met Mr. Elliott Roosevelt in Mr. Douglas' office at the California plant of the Douglas Aircraft Company in early 1934 and that Mr. Stratton, Mr. Douglas and Mr. Roosevelt were present.

"At this and other times Mr. Douglas conveyed to Mr. Fokker his impression that Mr. Roosevelt could swing the Russian business. . .

"Questioned concerning why he had signed an agreement which provided for such a large commission, that is, $500,000 to Mr. Roosevelt and $500,000 to himself upon the completion of the sale, Mr. Fokker explained he had not felt the prices which it was proposed to charge the Russians for these 50 military planes were at all reasonable; in fact he had thought them notably excessive but that he had been persuaded by Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Roosevelt's associate, Mr. Stratton, that Mr. Roosevelt had enough influence with the Import and Export Bank and the Russian Purchasing Commission, then in the country, to swing the deal at that excessive price."

Discussing the contract further, in the alleged affidavit, Fokker was quoted as saying in making the contract he "relied upon the attitude taken by Mr. Douglas, of the Douglas Company, and concerning the expected influence of Mr. Elliott Roosevelt on the Import and Export Bank and on the Russian commission coupled with the general expectation that Russian debt negotiations then taking place would result in Russian purchases of very considerable amounts in this country."

Order Refused.

Fokker stated, the affidavit said, the price calculated by Elliott Roosevelt and his associate and offered to the Russians was "so high that the Russians would have nothing to do with the whole business and had not bought any of the planes."

Fokker was questioned concerning correspondence he had with Carter Tiffany, of New York, his American business representative, in the course of which Tiffany stated, the alleged affidavit said, that he felt Elliott Roosevelt and his business associates "have done nothing but chisel in your affairs under 'prestenses.'"

Fokker replied, the affidavit said, he had not had that impression originally "because of the confidence expressed by Mr. Elliott Roosevelt and Mr. Stratton of their ability to swing the deal at the high price."

Flying Reporter Is Off for Rangoon With 2 Others 3,000 Miles Behind

Kieran in Athens With Average of 3,000 Miles Per Shirt.

By LEO KIERAN.

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Oct. 6.—(By Wireless.)—The end of the fifth day on my fascinating, bewildering dash around the world found me in Alexandria today.

At Athens, last night, I had a delightful dinner as a guest of the Femina Club, and stayed up late, visiting the Acropolis and also the Odeon. There was much excitement in Athens when an editor was injured in his newspaper office. The police refused to act, while Dictator Metaxas held an official dinner, with detectives swarming all around, in the Hotel Grande Bretagne, where I stopped.

I left at dawn on a two-hour flight across the Mediterranean to Mirabelos, Crete, to refuel. We had tea aboard the former yacht Imperial, now used as an off-shore station of Imperial Airways.

We were off in half an hour and landed early in the afternoon in Alexandria, a beautiful, colorful city. The people were very hospitable and interested in the 'round-the-world dash.

I drove through the city and found much that was interesting. There were very few purely native stores, however, most of the shops displaying many advertised brands of British and American products.

I returned to the Hotel Cecil, where, in a huge room, I "dressed" for dinner with the first linen change since the start of my trip. The dark brown shirt I put on ought to be good as far as Bangkok, making an average of 3,000 miles per shirt.

The barber at the hotel insisted I needed a haircut, but I had to beg off, since I must arise at 3 a. m. for the takeoff to Baghdad, which I will reach six days out from Times Square, winging my way to India.

Ekins' Sensational Lead Is Credited to KLM's Fast Schedule.

JODHPUR, India, Wednesday, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Shooting into a 3,000-mile lead in a trio-cornered race around the world, H. R. Ekins, flying reporter, sped toward Rangoon, Burma, today by way of Allahabad, the "City of God," and Calcutta on the Bay of Bengal.

The writer took off from Jodhpur airport aboard a Klm-Royal Dutch air liner at 4:34 a. m. and expected to race across central India to Allahabad 342 miles away in three hours.

From Allahabad the route split the Hazaribagh mountain range to Calcutta and thence to Burma across the Bay of Bengal and over the Arakan Yoma mountains. Ekins hoped to arrive in Rangoon before 6 p. m. for an overnight stop.

Almost 3,000 miles behind in Alexandria were Dorothy Kilgallen and Leo Kieran. They were to leave for Bagdad aboard a British Imperial Airways biplane far behind schedule. Ekins seemed certain to catch the China Clipper at Manila October 16. Kieran and Miss Kilgallen, too, have an excellent chance to connect with the Clipper, as they are less than a day behind schedule.

Of the flights yesterday, Ekins left Basra, Iraq, at 5 a. m. local time, flew 711 miles to Djask, Persia, then 592 miles to Karachi, British India, and thence 382 miles to Jodhpur. Miss Kilgallen and Kieran, on the other hand, made only a single hop—a long flight from the marine airport outside Athens, Greece, to Alexandria, where they arrived at about 3 p. m. local time to spend the night.

Ekins' sensational lead was due largely to the fact that KLM, with fast American equipment, maintains a faster schedule than Imperial.

PUBLIC SERVICE BODY POSTPONES HEARING

The Georgia Public Service Commission yesterday announced postponement from October 13 to October 20 of the hearing on an application of the Saint Andrews Bay Transportation Company for Class "A" certificates to transport passengers and property between the Georgia-Alabama line and Columbus via Blakely, Cuthbert, Lumpkin and Cusseta over state highways Nos. 62 and 1.

PITTMAN ORDERS JURY TO PROBE LYNCHING

Judge, in Charging Whitfield Body, Describes Act as 'Wholesale Murder.'

DALTON, Ga., Oct. 6.—Declaring that "lynching is wholesale murder by those who participate or stand by to aid others in the commission of the crime," Judge Claude C. Pittman, in his charge to the Whitfield county grand jury, ordered the body to investigate the lynching here on September 6, last, of A. L. McCain, negro, who was being held in connection with the attempted attack on a woman.

In his charge relative to the lynching, Judge Pittman said:

"Since the last term of court, you have had a lynching in this county. A crowd of men who constituted themselves as guardians of the law and order in this community and for their purpose said 'We are the law, we are the order, we are the executioners. To hell with officers, courts and jurors. You are too slow for us. We are not willing to trust in the deeds our fathers have done, live by the laws our fathers have made, or respect the officers and jurors that we ourselves have selected.'

"I charge you that death by lynching—it is the killing of a human being with malice aforethought. It is the deliberate, malicious, intentional killing of a human creature, and that makes murder. All who participate, aid and abet another in the commission of a crime are equally guilty with the actual perpetrator of the crime. Therefore, lynching is whole sale murder."

BALDNESS CAN BE AVOIDED

● Twenty-five years ago there was no known method of preventing baldness. Today, the reliable Thomas method is helping more than 1600 persons each day to avoid baldness, get rid of dandruff, stop falling hair, and promote normal hair growth.

● Thomas treatment is basically sound and is proved by more than 18 years of success. It can help you, too, to retain your hair and to promote hair growth. AN EPOCHAL CONVENTION

Not in many years has a Democratic convention in Georgia been faced with as vital responsibilities as the one which convenes today in Macon.

Of paramount importance, and in keeping with the mandate of the September primary, the representatives of the Democratic hosts of Georgia must move toward the reinstatement of constitutional government in Georgia. The chaotic condition in the state government resulting from the dictatorial policies of the present administration constitutes a Gordian knot that must be severed by a new declaration of Democratic principles.

There must be a clear and ringing declaration of support of the Democratic administration at Washington, approval of which was registered in no unspoken terms by the voters in the state contest for senator and governor.

A path must be drawn, in line with the indorsement given the platform upon which Speaker of the House Rivers conducted his successful campaign for governor, to the many reforms necessary in the operation of the state government in order that the people of the state may receive the maximum of governmental service at the lowest cost.

The pointing of the way to the solution of these vital problems is a herculean task—but that it will be accomplished in a manner to best serve the interests of the people and the state is assured by the caliber of the delegates who will make up the Macon convention.

The 6,000 men and women who comprise the convention represent the highest quality of the Democratic leadership of the state. Every county delegation is composed of Democrats who have proven through long service their devotion to the best interests of their party and their state.

Such a convention, under the able leadership of the candidates named at the September primary, is certain to clear the way for the elimination of the evils that have developed in the conduct of the state's affairs under the present administration.

A new era in constitutional government, and in efficient and economical public service, will be formally inaugurated when the representatives of Georgia Democracy gather today to enunciate the principles and policies overwhelmingly indorsed by the people at the September primary.

An analyst of the candidates says Mr. Roosevelt has a ready smile, but no sense of humor. Mr. Lemke, on the other hand, is claiming Massachusetts.

THE MEMORIAL PARK

The unanimous approval of city council of a resolution offered by Mayor Pro Tem. Ellis A. Barrett for the appointment of a committee to co-operate in the revived movement to secure the establishment of a great memorial park on the site of the battle of Peachtree creek is a forward step toward the consummation of a long-sought project.

The movement to create a memorial park and highway connecting the battlefields of Kennesaw mountain and Peachtree creek with the great Confederate memorial on Stone Mountain and other adjacent historical sites was launched more than a decade ago, and had progressed rapidly when the economic collapse of 1929 brought it to a temporary end.

At that time army engineers came to Atlanta and gave full approval of the plan to create a great park on the area over which the Confederate and Union armies engaged in mortal combat, and the construction of a broad highway along the route followed by the armies to the desperate encounter along Peachtree creek.

Congressman Ramspeck introduced a bill calling for the necessary federal appropriation for the work, but the troubled years of economic unrest has made it impossible to secure the united co-operation necessary for the consummation of a project of such great proportions.

The government has, however, gone forward with the undertaking to create a great memorial park in connection with the national cemetery and the Kennesaw mountain battlefield site. From this park it is proposed to construct a magnificent memorial highway to Peachtree creek, which would be parallel to Peachtree road. The proposal contemplates the eventual extension of this combination of memorial parks and highways on to Stone Mountain.

The project would exceed in size, beauty and historic importance even the memorial park system stretching along the Potomac at Washington, and would bring thousands of tourists to Atlanta every year.

Under the leadership of the Atlanta Historical Society, a movement is now on foot to secure active co-operation in the furtherance of the project by the city and county governments, the Chamber of Commerce, the U. D. C. and other public and patriotic organizations.

The action of city council in naming a committee for this purpose should bring a new revival of interest in this fine undertaking.

SMITH CHARGE CHALLENGED

Roscoe S. Conkling, for a quarter of a century a leader in Republican ranks in New York, but now chairman of the Progressive Republican Committee for Franklin D. Roosevelt, sharply questions some of the statements in the recent address of Al Smith, especially that referring to the candidacy of Roosevelt for governor of New York in 1928.

This able and conservative New York public leader points out that—

As a matter of fact, I am able to state on the very best authority that every leader was for the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt, and that Edward J. Flynn, secretary of state, was calling Mr. Roosevelt at Warm Springs every day for a week, telling him that Candidate Smith wanted him to run, and begging and pleading with him to run. It was only after the insistence of Smith that Roosevelt owed it to the party to strengthen the ticket by accepting the nomination, that Franklin Roosevelt consented.

Others like myself who saw Franklin Roosevelt endanger his very life in campaigning for Mr. Smith can only wonder at his obtuseness in believing that the public so soon forgets.

The Republicans have been able to secure at best only cold comfort from the long desired indorsement of Landon by former Governor Smith. It is unfortunate from their standpoint that the one-time "Happy Warrior" coupled his attack with revelation of his personal antagonism to Roosevelt. The people of America are innately too sportsmanlike to approve of a man's attacking a friend who has all but given his life for him.

The history of Smith's desertion of Roosevelt reveals a trait of character—the desire to either rule or ruin—that will, as Mr. Conkling predicts, "result in hundreds of thousands of Progressive Republicans, who may have been on the fence, deciding to vote against Mr. Smith's candidate."

Not Here Now.

The past summer's influx of tourists from England, America and half the world besides into Scotland must have done a great deal to convince humanity of the Scot's passion for accuracy, suggests a correspondent. Sign posts which indicate their distances from towns to an eighth of a mile are, of course, commonplace in Scotland. School children, and children too young for school, tell strangers how to get to their destination with a wealth of details.

Any Scot from whom one inquires the way to a place is liable to indicate the roads one must not take as well as the path to be followed, thus: "Ye gang doon the hill and there's a road tae the left aside the kirk, but ye dinna tak' that, and then there's a street that gangs across the brig that we ca' the Red Briggie, but ye dinna tak' that."

But surely pedantic accuracy excelled itself in Langholm, where an old woman, being asked where So-and-So, the blacksmith had his shop, replied: He doesna hae his shop there noo. He's deid." The Scot does indeed have little respect for the intelligence of strangers.

Afraid of the End.

Of the late Lord Arthur Balfour, whose biography has just been written by his niece, Mrs. Blanche Dugdale, it is said that "serious fiction was perhaps the only class of book upon which he was cautious of embarking. He never began a novel until he was assured that it ended well." I think many of us share the Lord Balfour's prejudice. I never read novels, except the stories of Knut Hamsun, because Hamsun never kills his dramatis personae in the last chapter. He lets them live on, and surprises you perhaps a year or two hence by taking up the thread and leading them onward a few more steps.

That is as it should be in my estimation. I thoroughly agree with the hero in the book of Unamuno, who comes to the author in the last chapter and says to him: "Look here Don Miguel. I suspect you are about to kill me, like so many authorrs do in the last chapter or in the last chapter but one. I object to the process. Finish your book if you like, but leave me go away. I did you no harm. I amused you enormously. Let me go!"

Unamuno argues that since he is the character's creation, he has also the right to make him disappear when the author judges the time has come. A violent quarrel ensues between author and his chief character. I don't know how it ends, for right there I stopped, fearing an evil denouement.

Talmudic Tales

BY DAVID MORANTZ.

NUMBER 435.

(Based upon the legends and philosophy found in the Talmud, which work contains the civic and canonical laws and traditions of the Jewish people, dating back as far as 3,000 years.)

QUESTIONS I'VE BEEN ASKED.

What is the perpetual lamp? In the synagog, just in front of the Ark, is suspended the Ner Tamid, the perpetual lamp. This is kept burning day and night as commanded in Exodus 27:20. "And thou shalt command the children of Israel that they bring unto thee pure olive oil beaten for the light, to cause a lamp to burn continually."

What is the significance of the perpetual lamp? "Symbolically, the perpetual lamp attests the firm conviction of Jews that the light of instruction will always issue from the synagog," says William Rosenau in "Jewish Ceremonial Institutions and Customs." "The light, impalable and never extinguished, may be regarded as typifying the spiritual and indestructible flame of religion," says Morris Joseph in "Judaism as Creed and Life."

"The Ner Tamid, which burns continually day and night, is a symbol representing our conviction that from the synagog shall continually come forth the light of instruction, the light of comfort and blessing, and the light of love and peace," says M. Friedlander in "The Jewish Religion."

Due to the extensive interest in Talmudic Tales, 128 of the legends and over 500 pearls of wisdom have been collected in an attractive book of 195 pages, handsomely bound in grained blue vellum cloth, with gold-stamped title. Autographed by author. Suitable for gifts or prizes. Price $1.50 post paid. Address orders to "Talmudic Tales," care The Atlanta Constitution.

Good Morning.

BY LOUIE D. NEWTON.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Dr. Prince E. Burroughs, for the past 26 years educational secretary of the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, with headquarters in Nashville, is spending this week in Atlanta as the guest preacher at the First Baptist church, College Park. In an address to the Baptist ministers Monday morning, Dr Burroughs was requested to give a report of the recent World Sunday School convention, held in Oslo, Norway. It was a most interesting and informative interpretation of one of the notable international religious gatherings, meeting once every four years. The next session of the convention will be the fiftieth anniversary, and will be held in South Africa in 1940.

Dr. Burroughs told us that there were 3,200 registered delegates at the Oslo gathering the past summer, representing 61 countries. There were 900 persons registered from North America and 750 from England and Wales. Dr. Burroughs estimated that there 1,200 to 1,500 persons in attendance at Oslo who did not pay the registration fee, making a total attendance, ouside of Oslo of at least 5,000 people. He told us that the king of Norway not only personally welcomed the convention to Norway, but presided throughout one of the sessions. He said that the king was dressed in a typical businessman's attire and that he entered into the meeting with all the ease and poise of any other delegate. The king and queen opened their summer home to th visitors for an afternoon tea.

It is a matter of interest, I think, to note that there are twice as many persons in Sunday school in North America as the rest of the entire world, some 26,000,000 in number, whilst in the rest of the world there are only 13,000,000 people in Sunday school. Dean Luther Allan Weigle, of the Yale Divinity School, is chairman of the executive committee of the World Sunday School convention, and Dr. Burroughs quoted Dean Weigle as saying at Oslo that the task of the Sunday school in the days ahead will be to take the program of Bible study to all ages and conditions of life—that it is to ..itally reach the whole gamut of life. The many able men and women who are today giving much of their thought and time to the steady advancement of the mission and message of the Sunday school should hasten the fulfillment of Dean Weigle's ideal. Certainly we can say that the people of this part of the world are fully committed to such a program and purpose.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

GESTURE WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—It certainly looks like the millennium has arrived in Europe—if you do not look too close.

Headlines are shouting: "Paris cuts tariff 15 to 20 per cent." Published opinion is responding: "Most important step any great nation has taken since the world economic crisis started;" "Complete reversal of French economic policy of self-containment;" "World trade revival seen."

Unfortunately, descriptive adjectives often add up to more imposing conclusions than cold figures.

If you will set your pencil to the French action and perform a simple arithmetic upon it, you are likely to conclude the millennium may be still around the corner. The tariff decreases turn out in reality to be increases. The additional tariff protection automatically granted by devaluation more than offsets the rate decreases.

FIGURES The realities of the situation become apparent if you put your pencil to the problem of a dollar watch being exported from the United States to France. Before French devaluation, the watch would cost the French importer 16 francs plus the tariff. For the purposes of simplicity, assume the tariff was 25 per cent. The watch would then have cost the Frenchman 20 francs.

But now, under devaluation, there are 21 francs in the dollar, instead of 16. The French cost of the watch becomes 21 francs plus the tariff. Reduce the tariff 15 per cent, and the current French cost of the watch becomes 25 francs.

Thus the net effect of devaluation and a 15 per cent tariff reduction is an increase of 5 francs in the French tariff protection on this hypothetical American dollar watch.

French manufacturers are said to figure that devaluation gave them generally the equivalent of an additional protective ad valorem surtax of 40 per cent. This figure may be too high, but, whatever it is, it more than offsets the encouragement to immediate world trade involved in the tariff reductions.

BENEFITS These icy figures do not, of course, take into consideration the purely psychological effects of French action, which are really encouraging. For instance, the United States did not even make a gesture toward the reduction of our tariff rates when we devalued. The reason the French are doing it is to put a ceiling on domestic prices. They do not want that competitive French-made dollar watch, for instance, to increase too much in price.

What France is doing is solely in her own interest. It is not final. She may eventually devalue further. She will have trouble with her prices. Also there is the problem of French wages, which are still low.

But, at least, her action has started world peoples to thinking and talking about such remote objectives as stabilization, trade and economic peace. In the minds of trade realists here, that is something.

AMERICAN LEAGUE Those confidential United States proposals for a neutrality pact with Latin America are really intended to be an invitation to the League of Nations to go and do likewise in Europe. That is what is in the mind of at least one top official here.

The proposals are simple plans to get Latin-American nations to adopt the present neutrality law now in effect here. One important additional provision is made: Neutrality bans would be applied against nations which go to war without formal declarations.

Just what United States officials are up to in also suggesting a consultative commission of nations in the western hemisphere is not yet clear. The proposal specifies that the commissioners shall be foreign ministers of the respective countries, that they shall pay their own expenses and pool the expenses of the commission. In that routine, it works just as the League is organized. But just how important the commisison would be has not yet been determined.

There are several proposed drafts and in none is there any mention of specifications, such as how often the consultative commission should meet.

CHANGE Behind the current political debate over the social security program lies the inside fact that its New Deal sponsors long ago decided many changes would have to be made in it. They began discovering faults in their plan even before the President signed the bill.

Most important is their conversion to the theory that it will be unwise to establish any such huge reserve fund as the act now calls for. A substantial number of brain trusters have privately come around to this view. The President himself is said to have changed his mind about it since he signed the act.

The situation is not ripe for such a public announcement now, and it may therefore be denied, but you may bet more than a nickel that the reserve fund theory is definitely out, and that there will be an overhauling of the act act next year, no matter who has charge of it.

The Squeal Of the Politician.

Charlie McGrew, deputy clerk of the federal court here, recalls that old story about the meat packers in Chicago who made use of every part of the hog except the squeal and were seeking means to utilize that.

Charlie says he was in New York recently and visited the Rockefeller Foundation. In the washrooms there they use those gadgets which blow a blast of heated atmosphere on your hands, for drying purposes, thus eliminating towels.

Charlie says he believes some efficiency expert has found a utilitarian use for Al Smith's "hot air," and adds that he is daily expecting word they have devised a use for "the squeal of the disappointed politician."

I Hope She Reads This.

There is a little girl in Atlanta who deserves a special word of commendation. She is the young lady who waits on me every noon at my favorite lunchery. Who brings me the hot rolls and the hotter coffee, the beef stew or "Plate Lunch No. Two," or the cherry pie with ice cream.

There isn't a waitress in the city who greets her customers with a happier smile or who serves their wants more happily. Her cheeriness and gaiety add pleasant sauce to lunch and, though I can't tell you the name of the establishment, help to keep the place crowded with customers.

A True Musician.

A true lover of music, they inform me, is a man who puts his ear to the keyhole while a coloratura soprano is singing in the bathroom.

How to Spend Money.

It may be superfluous to suggest new ways of getting rid of the money most of us struggle so hard to earn. There may be a few plutocratic souls whose problem is to find ways and means of expending the unearned increment, but to most of us the great question is to find the quarters and half dollars needed for essentials.

However, just as a matter of curiosity, some day go into one of those stores which carry in stock everything your dog can possibly use. You'll be surprised.

The matter of dog food is, of course, basic. There are, in any good store of the type, a score or more of different varieties. Bulk food and canned. Food for puppies of varying ages, for big dogs and for little dogs. Food that analyses according to the particular needs and tastes of your pet. Food for different days of the week and for different feedings on the same day. (Though one meal a day is best for a dog, as a matter of fact.)

Costume And Toiletry.

Of course you will want the very latest word, the dernier cri, in harness for the mutt. There are elaborate affairs of pads and straps and ornaments that will set you back several days' pay, if you are just an average wage slave. Collar and leashes mean added expenditure and, if the animal is delicate, a blanket coat for winter's chill must be provided. And this doesn't provide for sleeping warmth, either. Dig deep into the bankroll and step into the kennel department. Also, if you like to travel with the creature, there are snappy contraptions in which to carry him in car, on train or bus or steamer.

To keep him looking well you'll need, as a matter of course, a good supply of shampoos and hair tonics, in addition to the special dog soap you must use in his bath. And special disinfectants for bath and kennel. Then he'll need special nail trimmers and a wire comb.

Another Shelf.

You haven't looked at the dog medicines yet. He may be entirely healthy but you really should give him a periodic course of treatment with condition pills, just to keep him well. And a few other staple remedies should be on hand in case of emergency.

A supply of rubber balls and a rubber imitation bone, with special chocolate flavoring, to exercise his legs and jaws.

There are many things I haven't mentioned here. But just go to one of the right stores and look around. You'll find 'em.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Saturday, October 7, 1911:

"Governor Smith yesterday ordered the state printer to cease the publication of the colonial records and to return the manuscripts to former Governor W. J. Northen, who has the work of compiling the records in charge. The action was taken by the governor following a statement of the cost of compiling the colonial, revolutionary and Confederate records, which was furnished him by Mrs. Cobb, the state librarian."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Thursday, October 7, 1886:

"Four additional subscriptions were received yesterday by Captain R. J. Lowry to the fund to secure the location of the school of technology. They were from W. L. Traynham, $100; T. L. Langston, $50; J. M. High, $50, and J. H. Goldsmith, $25."

Imaginative History.

James Lawrence was born in Burlington, N. J., 32 years before he became one of the best known naval heroes, in the battle between the U. S. S. Chesapeake and H. M. S. Shannon in Boston harbor. A naval hero, that is, everywhere except Boston. When it was proposed that posthumous honors be voted Captain Lawrence, the Massachusetts legislature refused! Instead it voted a resolution: "Resolved, that in a war like the present, waged without justifiable cause, and prosecuted in a manner which indicates that conquest and ambition are its real motives, it is not becoming a moral and religious people to express any approbation of military or naval exploits which are not immediately connected with the defense of our seacoast and soil." Lawrence is chiefly remembered because he is supposed to have said, "Don't give up the ship," as he lay dying. He didn't say it, and the crew did give up the ship! An imaginative newspaperman invented the phrase and attributed it to Lawrence in his story of the battle.

Hayes' Election Delay.

Rutherford B. Hayes was born in Delaware, Ohio, three months after his father died. His election as nineteenth president was not declared until two days before the inauguration. He secretly took the oath the day before the inauguration to forestall a Democratic coup d'etat!

FAIR ENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Good Pitching Or Bad Hitting. NEW YORK, Oct. 6. — Our home-talent World Series may be creaky and somewhat bush around the edges but the homefolk around here are getting used to it now that it has rounded the week-end and settled down for a run. The Yankees had 11 runners left on base in losing the fifth game to the Giants, 5 to 4, and there is a delicate question before the populace whether we have been witness to good pitching or punk hitting. Probably it was a little of both or pretty good pitching and pretty bad batting. Whatever the answer may be, the Yankees had many chances to take it away and settle the question Monday but flopped resoundingly so they moved the frankfurters back over the Harlem river to the Polo Grounds and will fight it out there if it takes all winter.

Although our Yankees got ten hits off Hal Schumacher of our Giants, no hit that they did get sounded anywhere near as loud as those which three mighty men of the Yankee cast didn't get in the third inning when Di Maggio, Gehrig and Dickey approached the tee in that order and didn't do a thing with the bases full. Di Maggio struck out, Gehrig scuffed a few delicate fouls and struck out too and Dickey hit a fly to left to solve a pregnant situation.

Strong Man Was "Goat." In this inning and again in the next ensuing turn of the Yankees' Schumacher walked the first two hitters to create his own problem, which may be excellent pitching, though there be those who have to doubt it. In the fourth, after Selkirk and Powell had walked, Lazzeri forced Selkirk at third and Red Ruffing hit into a double play to end the crisis. Gehrig had another chance to win the money with two on and two out in the ninth, but the Yankees' strong man, the hero of so many happy endings, couldn't get that nine-ounce object out of the infield and his total for the day was as futile as some of his other efforts have been great. It is a puzzling, exasperating thing to see a player who can do anything that humankind has ever done to a baseball with a bat, unable to strut his stuff in moments which yell for big achievements. His calves are like oaks, he has the hams of a draft horse, his big, bare arms and massive hands suggest enormous power and the frisky grace with which he gallops around his position at first reveal the energy of a great athlete in his prime. Sunday he was the head man of the ball game and it would have been hard to imagine then that another day he would toil so earnestly and fail of feats which to him have been just ordinary strokes of business for a dozen years in a row.

Out at Plate. He did get a single in the second and thundered around to third when Ott, of the Giants, cuffed a ball for an error. But a moment later he was out at the plate in a tremendous plunge against Gus Mancuso's comparatively slight physicque in a belated and slightly confused attempt to score. His thinking was a little fuzzy here for he hesitated while a play was made at first and made his charge from a dead stop after the putout there. Mancuso saw him coming, dug in, took the ball and 215 pounds of muscle and bone at the same time and shut off the run with a nonchalance that belied the shock. He didn't even rub, though Gehrig got up with lime from the base line on his arms, wondering if he hadn't crashed into a cast-iron monument.

Our Giants led off with two doubles by Moore and Bartell and three other hits to score three runs in the first inning. Our Yanks did not catch them until the sixth when the score was 4 to 4 and, when the game went into the tenth it just seemed that for the Yankees to win would be a miscarriage of justice. They didn't deserve if for Schumacher, notwithstanding that they hit him often, struck out ten of them and was toughest when he was dealing with the upper portion of the batting order.

Pitcher Bore Burden. Moreover, Schumacher was carrying the burden of other men's years and infirmities with a stationary, nonhitting first baseman in Bill Terry and with Travis Jackson, a waning survivor of the era of John McGraw, hobbling around third. Both of them will be absent from the lineup next year but just now they are playing out their string in the games which are supposed to be the highest expression of the sport. They try hard but it isn't in their legs any more to do what World Series athletes ought to do and any Giant pitcher who wins a game is carrying more weight than his opponent.

There was a loud, black, rolling raspberry from a group in the grandstand as the teams changed sides in the ninth inning intermission. It had the unmistakable sound of the World Series ovations delivered for Herbert Hoover on two occasions in Philadelphia in the days when recovery was just around the corner. Inquiries proved that Mr. Hoover is still the same old popular idol of the series for it was indeed none other than Mr. Hoover had just come out to crunch a few peanuts and watch a game of ball for himself. It might be said in justice to the attendance that the booing was brief and localized and that the rest of the house, if they had known what was going on, would have raised a counteracting cheer. As a private citizen, Mr. Hoover has a right to crunch peanuts and watch a ball game without molestation.

Young Indian Chief.

Makataemishkiakiak, called Black Hawk, died at 71, after having acquired an immortal reputation as one of the greatest Amerindian warriors and orators. Though a Pottawattamie by birth, he became war chief of the Sacs and Fox at 17, and head chief of the Sacs at 21.

It was against Black Hawk that Abraham Lincoln fought as a soldier.

There Is No Way To Dodge a Wreck If You Can't Get Out of a Rut

BY ROBERT QUILLEN.

Few people blessed with friends have escaped hearing the ungrammatical wail: "I have worried about it until I feel like I'm going crazy."

The usual reply is the inaccurate assurance that crazy people always consider themselves saner than anybody else, and therefore one who doubts the security of his own sanity is in no danger.

But there is ample evidence that worry or brooding can develop an obsession from which the mind cannot escape, and then the victim enters some institution as a "mental case" and is called a maniac-depressive.

The usual cause is a long-cherished business threatened with bankruptcy, some sin that gnaws at the conscience, the infidelity of a husband or wife, the perseverity of a son or daughter who has lost all semblance of good sense and is riding merrily to the devil, or one of those bitter, sullen, repressed, nerve-straining quarrels called "family trouble."

Whatever the cause, constant brooding over it can unsettle the mind, and nobody seems immune.

Mental disease is increasing, and much of it is almost deliberately self-made.

But, you will say, it is natural to worry.

How do you know it is natural? The chief motive of all nature is self-preservation. We naturally do the things that are necessary to our welfare and avoid the things that would destroy us.

No form of excess is natural, but a perversion and abuse of natural powers. And since worry is harmful and may be fatal to reason, it is not natural but a misuse of a natural emotion and a deliberate self-indulgence. It is deliberate, for it can be stopped, in the beginning, by an effort of will.

When anything begins to prey on your mind, it is possible to develop a saving selfishness, mentally wash your hands of the matter, and grimly and cheerfully indulge yourself in some other interest.

There is salvation in the state of mind that prompts the salty and profane Americanism: "To hell with it."

Hollywood Today

By SHEILAH GRAHAM.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6.—Mary Astor took a large bite into an oversize steak—we were lunching at "Lucy's" just down the street from Columbia Studios, where the brunet actress is under contract—and soliloquized sadly.

"Some women are born with an unhappy faculty for attracting and marrying the wrong kind of man. I'm one of them. Ann Harding, my closest friend, is another. There's nothing we can do about it, either. The world is full of nice men, but we just have to pick the wrong man for a husband.

"And when we realize our mistake and want freedom, we can't go to our husbands like other women and tell them. No, we have to fight, and not only that, but, in California, we must divide half our property with them. The community law, in my opinion, is terribly unfair to women. It's another way of making a wife pay her husband alimony. I had to buy out Doc Thorpe's half share in my Toluca Lake home after our divorce, before I could call it my own."

Miss Astor sighed with her memories. Aided by gentle verbal prodding from the interviewer, she continued the first discussion of her private affairs since her successful action to regain custody of her four-year-old daughter, Marylyn.

"I'm so happy to have my daughter back with me." Miss Astor's brown eyes softened and food was temporarily forgotten. Little Marylyn was returned to her mother October 1 for the nine months of each year allotted her by the court.

"She was so cute the first time she saw me working in a studio," her mother reminisced. "It was during the making of 'Dodsworth,' and I'd slept in the studio three days to dodge reporters. I couldn't stand being parted from Marylyn another minute, so I sent for her to visit me on the set. The script called for me to walk across the room. Marylyn watched me open-mouthed. 'Is that what mummy calls working?' she said finally in a loud voice."

Miss Astor has no objections to her daughter becoming a film actress. "But not until she grows up. I think it's so bad for children to work in studios. Apart from the effect on their characters, they are all spoiled—they can't help it. Even Shirley Temple is getting spoiled. They tell me—the life is too unhygienic for a child. It's bad enough for a grownup to spend seven or eight hours a day in a hot, airless studio and never to see the sun, but, for a child, the damage is irreparable."

Miss Astor was little more than a child herself when she came to Hollywood from Quincy, Ill., 16 years ago. She attributes her screen longevity to the fact she never had been a star. "The average star only lasts five years—featured players like myself can go on indefinitely—beginning as an ingenue and ending in character roles."

According to the actress, there is no recipe for success on the screen. Neither beauty, intelligence, and or acting ability does the trick. "Look at some of those who've made good—if you doubt me."

Following the publicity accorded the custody fight, Miss Astor believed she was through with pictures. "I was terrified when Irving Briskin, of Columbia, sent for me a few weeks ago. I was sure he was going to tear up my contract. It was a great relief when he said, 'I want you to make a picture for me. ("The Lady From Nowhere"). You start in three days' time."

The one role above all others Miss Astor would like to play is the gentle, good, Melanie in "Gone With the Wind."

"The part calls for someone to be negative and completely colorless in face and physique. God knows I'm negative."

By this time, Miss Astor had finished the largest lunch your correspondent ever has seen consumed by a film luminary.

"Goodbye. I'm off for a golf lesson," she said, and added in reply to a query. "Yes, I'm good at most games—except tennis."

HEALTH TALKS

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

Why don't you teach your readers, asks one of them, that cure can be bought and health will come only through correct eating and living? Tell them to serve health and not to be looking for a cure or a savior for the sins they commit. I write from experience. On your suggestion I underwent injection treatment for hemorrhoids, which cost me $180, and in a few weeks I had the same trouble again. Not until the cause was removed did I enjoy health again, and that I did myself. (C. F. K.)

The trouble is nobody will bother with an ounce of prevention until he needs a pound of cure.

C. F. K. has more confidence in correct eating and living than I have. I believe right eating habits and good general hygiene will prevent hemorrhoids, but I doubt that reform in this respect will remove the penalty of sin in the way this layman implies. Rather, I fancy, what happened in his case was this: He had not one or two, but, say, half a dozen hemorrhoids. At each sitting the doctor injected one. It required perhaps two months in all, with treatments at intervals of a week or 10 days, at the patient's convenience. (These treatments are no more painful and detain the patient no more than ordinary dental treatments do, when something is wrong with a tooth.) Then about the time the doctor obliterated the last pile, C. F. K. began eating somebody's health food or refraining from smoking before meals or cutting down on his physic dope and like a regular Yankee, having paid 180 bucks to a doctor, felt sore about it and tried to withhold credit where credit was due. That is the essence of 99 out of 100 testimonials that mislead gullible folk every day.

You who haven't hemorrhoids—yet—will pay no attention to this, but anyway I'm going to mention some of the common causes of this exceedingly common trouble. The knowledge may at least enable some victims to obtain proper treatment or prevent them from being deceived by fake pile cures.

Hemorrhoids, otherwise called piles, are varicose (swollen, enlarged, dilated) veins. Unless they bleed or become inflamed (painful) the patient may be unaware of their presence. Many persons with hemorrhoids have erroneously assumed that the interval between attacks of inflammation or bleeding meant cure.

Where the veins about the sphincter muscle at the orfice are enlarged the coadition is called internal piles or hemorrhoids; if veins below the sphincter are enlarged it is called external hemorrhoids.

The veins of this region empty directly into the portal system carrying blood to the liver. Therefore, any congestion of the liver or any overloading of the portal system is likely to predispose to piles.

The hemorrhoidal veins and the veins into which they empty have no valves. Therefore in the erect position there is the weight or pressure of a column of blood upon the walls of these veins. Our upright posture is one cause of piles.

Our common addiction to physic—laxatives, cathartics, purgatives, enemas, suppositories and other unnatural "aids"—is a prolific cause of piles.

2 GEORGIA COLLEGES TO GET NEW BUILDINGS

Contracts Are Let by Regents for Plants at Tifton and Carrollton.

Contracts totaling $30,145 covering the construction of two buildings in the university system were awarded yesterday in Atlanta by the building committee of the board of regents to C. O. Smith & Co., of Hazlehurst, it was announced by the board.

The contracts call for the construction of a library building at the West Georgia College, Carrollton, costing $13,200, and a dining hall at the Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College, Tifton, costing $16,945.

Members of the building committee present were Miller S. Bell, chairman, of Milledgeville; George C. Woodruff, of Columbus; R. P. Burson, of Monroe, and Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System of Georgia. Others present were R. H. Driftmier, supervising engineer of the university system; President I. S. Ingram, of the West Georgia College; President George C. King, of the Arbaham Baldwin College; President J. C. Rogers, of the North Georgia College, Dahlonega.

The building committee rejected all bids submitted for the construction of a dining hall-auditorium at the North Georgia College, Dahlonega. It was announced that bids would be received again on this building at an early date.

The construction of these two buildings will begin at the earliest possible date after the approval of the construction contracts by the Atlanta PWA office, it was stated.

Funds for the construction of these buildings are provided by the state of Georgia and PWA on a 55-45 basis. The award of these two contracts gives the university system a building program now under construction amounting to $1,000,000, regent members said.

The erection of the building at the Tifton institution will release space for additional library purposes while the space made available at the Carrollton institution by the erection of the library building will be used for classrooms.

Chancellor Sanford stated that the library work now being required of students in the university system has caused him great concern over adequate library space at all of the institutions of the system.

SIX ATLANTANS FINED ON RIOTING CHARGES

Men Charged With Disturbance at Talmadge Meeting, Plead Guilty.

DALTON, Ga., Oct. 6.—Six men, said to be from Atlanta, indicted here by the Whitfield county grand jury on charges growing out of the disturbance at the speaking here of Governor Eugene Talmadge the day before the primary on September 9, pleaded guilty and were fined $150 each and given probationary sentences of 12 months on each charge in the penitentiary.

The men, listed as Raymond F. Gee, Jack Bond, Paul Smith, J. D. Garrett, J. T. Head and J. W. Rogers, appeared in court yesterday accompanied by Adjutant General Lindley Camp, pleaded guilty to all the charges before Judge Claude Pittman and paid the fines.

Monroe Neel, of Cartersville, signed the pleas.

The men were indicted on four charges. One each charged assault and battery on Joe Jeff Moore, a Whitfield county deputy sheriff, and on Lucia Broom, a local textile worker. Another charged the six men with rioting "In that they were by violence interrupting a public gathering and threatening in concerted action, personal violence to persons at said gathering." Governor Talmadge was named in the rioting charge because of a remark he made about the disturbance, Solicitor Gener. John Mitchell said, but Talmadge was not indicted.

The fourth indictment charged the men with "carrying concealed weapons, a blackjack, knucks and pistols to a public gathering, the same being a political gathering and a public speaking by a candidate for the United States senate in the Democratic primary on September 9, the said candidate being Governor Eugene Talmadge."

A pistol taken off one of the men was claimed by General Camp as his personal property and it was returned to him by local officers yesterday.

The disturbance occurred on Tuesday, September 8, the day before the September primary, when Governor Talmadge spoke here in interest of his candidacy for the United States senate.

During the disturbance, Sheriff T. J. Bryant arrested the men, said to be bodyguards of Governor Talmadge, on a warrant sworn out by Deputy Sheriff Moore. They were later in the day released on $300 bond.

NEGRO ON TOP OF STACK DEFIES RESCUE, FALLS

sat the negro, who is apparently about 45 years old.

The negro, who was thought demented or certainly slightly "off," could give no intelligent answers as to where he was from. He said once he was from Florida and later said he was from near Augusta. He gave his name as Pinkie Frazier, and spelled it out for the huge crowd below who asked him to repeat his name. He said he was afraid to descend the ladder because he thought the crowd would harm him. He also mumbled something about having committed a crime and was "getting away from them."

Traffic Congested.

Early in the day the crowd around the plant grew. Thousands came and went all during the day. The plant is one mile south of Cartersville, on the main route of the Dixie highway, heavily traveled, and all vehicles attracted by the crod, either stopped or halted, causing a traffic congestion throughout the day at that spot. Even the train crews on the near-by railroad slowed down their engines to view the unusual sight.

The chimney has not been in use for 15 years, since the city quit manufacturing its own power. When it was built, metal spikes were imbedded at given distances on the inside, which formed a ladder to the top. The stack is about 15 feet wide at the base and is eight feet across at the top, the thickness of the rim being about 12 inches, it was said here. The negro spent most of his time lying flat on the chimney top. Occasionally he conversed with the crowd below, although the distance was so great that it was hard to understand what he said.

Frowns on Food.

Tempting him with offers of food also failed to jar him from his resolution not to come down. "No, I am not hungry," he told questioners when they invited him down to eat.

At first it was thought it would be an easy matter for someone to climb the steps and aid in the rescue, even to the point of reassuring him there was no danger in the attempt, but as the would-be rescuer neared the top of the inside of the stack, he defied him to come any farther, saying he would attack him with bricks.

Efforts to attract his attention from ouside while someone climbed to the top, were thought impractical, because anyone would be at a disadvantage even if he reached the top and the negro was still hostile.

Many remedies were offered by the onlookers. His situation was the source of much amusement to many of the negroes who stood around.

"Give me a live chicken," said one, "that will bring him down." "Go get a watermelon," said another and when he was reminded it is not melon season, he said, "Well, then, get a pumkin' and tell him 'hits a watermelon, that'll fetch him down."

The local negro preacher yelled up to him that unless he came down voluntarily, "You sho' is nearer heaven than you ever will be again."

Still another negro suggested that if they would send some ham gravy fumes up the chimney that would bring him down.

A large crowd milled around the spot all day and well into the night.

A. M. E. CONFERENCE OPENS TIFTON SESSION

TIFTON, Ga., Oct. 6.—The South Georgia conference of the A. M. E. church opened here today in Allen Temple church, with Rev. R. W. Williams, pastor, and Bishop W. A. Fountain, of the Georgia diocese, presiding. This being the first of the eight annual conferences to be held in the state, many church leaders are in attendance.

Presiding Elders I. G. Glass, E. Lowery, H. E. Davis, I. J. Johnson, H. W. Grant and A. R. Easter, the presiding elders of the conference assembled the pastors of their respective districts in a pre-conference meeting in an effort to have them arrange the financial and numerical budget to be submitted to the conference.

BLOOD TRAIL LEADS TO BURGLAR SUSPECT

Otis Malcomb, 834 McDaniel street, was arrested on suspicion of burglary yesterday by Patrolman H. D. Freeman, after W. M. Summerling, 888 White street, S. W., reported he had routed a burglar who entered his bedroom with a hammer blow over the head.

Noting a trail of blood, Mr. Summerlin came upon Malcomb on Lee street and pointed him out as the man who had entered his house.

Mrs. E. L. Couchran, 451 Moreland avenue, N. E., reported burglars entered her house early yesterday during her absence and stole a purse containing $51.

How often should one change their eyeglasses? . . . we are often asked. And, the answer is, it depends on . . . a lot of things.

Age, general condition of health; reading and working habits—these and many other things contribute to the condition of the eyes.

The safe way is to have the eyes examined about once a year by a capable optometrist, and thus avoid all risk. Otherwise, how could one know?

THE RETURN OF JOAN

BY JOSEPH McCORD

INSALLMENT XXXIII.

But it was queer what ailed that car.

Deeds was spared the effort of rousing himself earlier than usual. He was called by a hurried tapping on his door.

"Yeah?" he muttered sleepily. "Who is it?" Jere Kendall's voice, low but urgent, brought him hurrying to the door.

"McCune!" his host breathed excitedly, as he leaned against the closed door for support. The little man's face was chalky under its tan. "Get into some clothes . . . out on the beach. There's something wrong . . . I'll call Mr. Beckham. . . ."

With the last word, he opened the door and was gone, his slippers pattering along the hall.

Deeds caught up his trousers and shirt, wriggled into them hurriedly and found his shoes. At the head of the stairs he almost collided with the parson who had made a similarly hasty toilet.

"What's the matter?" the Rev. Mr. Beckham demanded quietly. "Is someone hurt?"

"Don't know," Deeds threw over his shoulder, leading the way down the staircase.

Jere Kendall was behind the counter, the telephone receiver to his ear and one finger rattling the hook.

"I . . . I'm trying to get help . . ." he stammered. "The phone's dead . . . can't get central . . . anything. . . . This is a terrible thing!"

Deeds reached a long arm over the counter and caught Jere's shoulder.

"Drop that!" he ordered. "What's happened? Quick!"

"Came down as usual. . . . Jere gulped. "Then the two doctors and young Gaston . . . had on bathing suits. They said they were going to swim before breakfast . . . you know. Then I heard someone call . . . ran out on the porch and . . . and . . ."

"Go on!" said Deeds.

Jere Kendall drew a deep breath before replying.

"When I got out on the porch . . . Doc Sloan seemed to be hauling . . . Gene out of the water! John waved to me . . . said something . . . I thought he wanted me to phone and . . ."

But Deeds was already out the front door, with the Rev. Mr. Beckham close at his heels. They saw three figures on the sand at some little distance below the cottage, one of the three was prone, motionless.

It was Gene Gaston.

Deeds caught one glimpse of the face, pillowed on a bare arm to keep the nose and mouth from the sand. He was startled to find himself thinking that Gene smiled . . .

Sloan Elledge, gray wet hair hanging over his eyes, was astride Gene's slender form applying artificial respiration with dogged persistence. John knelt close by, pudgy finger tips on Gene's wrist.

"He . . . he isn't . . . gone, is he?" Deeds choked.

"I fear he is . . . I fear he is. Poor chap."

"But . . . how did it happen? How could it happen?"

Sloan took up the explanation in measured tones; there was no break in the rhythm of his relief measures. He did not raise his face.

"Young Gaston heard us . . . stirring around early. Came over and asked . . . if he could join us . . . in our before-breakfast swim. He went in the water . . . a little ahead of us . . . swam out in deep water. John saw him go under . . . came up once before got to him . . . I couldn't find him right away. Finally did and got ashore . . ."

His voice trailed away. Deeds and the clergyman watched Sloan in a species of fascination and for what seemed a timeless interval. His labors appeared endless, fruitless. At last, he rose to his feet and pushed the hair out of his eyes.

"Sorry," he announced. "No use."

"We can't stop!" Deeds broke in harshly. "We've got to save him . . . here! I'll work. You show me how . . ."

Sloan stepped aside with a shrug.

After a few murmured suggestions from John Elledge, Deeds settled down to his task grimly, his jaw set. His one idea was to maintain the fixed cadence that might start those lungs to functioning. He could not realize that the inert form under his hands was Gene . . . the Gene he had talked to such a few hours before. This couldn't be the answer to the boy's trouble . . . it wasn't fair. Joan wanted to help . . . she'd never forgive him, if he didn't save Gene. They mustn't let him drift away like this . . .

His mind and body was working so mechanically that Deeds never knew how much time elapsed until he was conscious of Beckham's voice in his ear, Beckham's kindly hand on his shoulder.

"I'm afriad it's of no use, my boy. I've seen it too often . . . and these doctors know."

Scarcely comprehending, Deeds allowed himself to be raised to his feet where he stood gazing down dumbly into Gene's quiet face.

"His poor mother . . . " Beckham said softly.

"I guess you're the one for that job," Sloan suggested tersely. "Maybe you'd better do it before we bring him to the house. Ask Kendall to come down and help us, will you?"

The minister hesitated.

"I am not familiar with procedure here, of course . . . but is it not customary to leave a body for the authorities to examine? In case of accidental death, that is?"

"There should be no question," Sloan answered quickly, "with two registered physicians as witnesses. However, it makes no great difference. I dare say Kendall has been telephoning already."

"Unfortunately, the phone is out of order."

Beckham did not see the sharp glance sent him from the doctor's gray eyes. He had stooped down and was spreading his handkerchief carefully over Gene's face.

"Then that means a trip for some of us," Sloan suggested. "Young Gaston had a car. Why don't one of you take it and run up to Waples? I suppose you can drive." He was looking directly at Deeds.

"Sure. But the car's out of order, too," that young man told him quietly.

"You mean it won't run?"

"I mean it won't run."

"What is the trouble?"

"I'm sure it shouldn't be serious. He was using the machine right along. Gaston probably was like a lot of other drivers . . . don't know there's anything to a car but gas and air and a steering wheel. John . . . you've played around with motors a little. Why don't you drop over to the garage with McCune and see what you can do?"

"I will see the boy's family in the meantime," Beckham volunteered with a shake of his head. "Sad task."

Deeds wondered dully if he were playing a coward's part in making his way directly to the garage and avoiding seeing anybody . . . that meant Joan. It would be easier to meet her after she knew. If only Beckham, or somebody, would tell her that he had done all he could to save Gene. If only she would believe. Deeds was beginning to be tortured by doubt.

Had he done everything in his power to save Gene?

Gaston wouldn't take him into his confidence last night when he tried to help the fellow. He couldn't force himself on Gene, but . . . Perhaps he should have insisted. Talked longer with him and tried a little harder. Who could have supposed the poor guy would find himself. . . .

Washed up!

The words Gaston had used when he found his car wouldn't run. Was it some sort of ironic prophecy? Had some fear laid its hand on him even then?

Deeds still was mulling it over despondently when John Elledge followed him into the garage.

"And here's the poor chap's car," the doctor sighed with a shake of his head. "Just as he left it. Sad. We're here today and gone tomorrow." He climbed heavily into the roadster and made an ineffectual attempt to start the motor. "Something wrong. . . . something wrong."

Deeds watched him climb out and open the hood.

"Mr. McCune. Will you be good enough to glance at the fuel gauge and see what it registers? I neglected to. That might be our source of trouble."

"She's got gas." Deeds did not move.

"You're sure of that?"

"Yes."

"Then we'll have to look farther . . . a little farther." Deeds could hear him whistling softly under his breath but could not see clearly what the plump hands were doing. In another moment, the doctor was back in the seat.

The motor turned over at the first touch and began its rhythmic beat. John raced it experimentally, then throttled it down to a subdued pulsation.

"There you are, my friend. All ready for the road."

"What was wrong?" Deeds demanded.

"A very little thing . . . but enough. Loose connection . . . one of the cables going into the distributor. They all should be gone over and tightened. But I think you will have no trouble between here and Waples."

Deeds' mind was working fast. He would take his oath that there was nothing wrong with that distributor head last night. It was one of the things he examined. Gene had accused some one of tampering with the car. Strange that Elledge would know exactly where to look for the trouble and repair it so quickly . . . fool not to have watched him more closely. No time to go into that now.

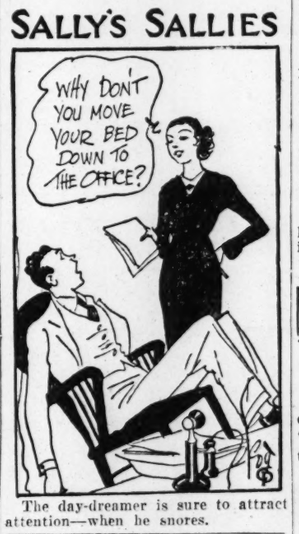
SALLY'S SALLIES



The day-dreamer is sure to attract attention—when he snores.

JUST NUTS

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

Try to remember to keep your mouth shut.

There are several rules which should guide you while sleeping on the 5:15. First, never try it unless you have a seat to yourself. Otherwise you'll probably end up with your head on somebody's shoulder . . . and that's something to live down if you have to take the 5:15 every day. Second, unless you are very sure of yourself, and know positively that you don't snore, it is a good idea to hold a book in your hand so that every time you doze completely off the book will crash to the floor and wake you up. That gives you a chance to rearrange yourself at the crucial moment. Third, try to remember to keep your mouth shut. With concentration this can be done. The effort to remember just before you fall asleep will, we've been told, sometimes carry over into the subconscious after you have fallen asleep. This will probably take practice. You might have some friend who travels on the same train check up on you and report at the end of each journey how you are progressing.

And unless you can abide by these very important rules, we suggest that you take along your knitting and try to keep awake.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

STRANGE AFRICAN BELIEFS.
III—Charms of Witch Doctors.

In many parts of Africa the witch doctors make use of "fetishes" or "charms." In fact, the charms are their chief stock-in-trade.

A pair of Chockwa witch doctors of East Africa.

A fetish may be a lion's claw, a lock of hair, a fingernail, a piece of skin, a tooth, an image made from wood or bone, or some other object. Whatever it is, the witch doctor tells the people it is a holy thing, and has great powers of magic.

One day a negro in Shemba-Shemba found that a knife he had owned was gone, and he believed it had been stolen. With little loss of time, he went to the witch doctor, and asked him to find who was the thief.

The witch doctor had a fetish for just that sort of thing, a wooden image "decked with tatters of every color." Taking this to the street, he began to whip it with a switch, striking it on the face and shoulders. Then he shouted to the man, "I will lay this charm down on the ground, and in the morning you will find your knife beside it."

The charm did not really work, but an American trader made it seem to work. It happened that his shop was close to the spot where all the switching and shouting had been going on, and he had heard the promise. He knew the witch doctor would keep trying to get the knife back for a week, if necessary. To save himself from hearing the noise again and again, he took a knife from his own stock and laid it beside the fetish that night. Next day the negro got a knife, and the witch doctor was honored for bringing it to him.

The return of that knife might be called an "accident," but there are cases on record where charms really have brought back stolen property. This is explained by the fact that black folk are afraid of the fetishes, thinking they have spirits about them, spirits with power for evil as well as good.

Witch doctors often wear masks of a fearful kind, and this adds to the worry of a person who has taken something which did not belong to him. He trembles as he hears a curse called against him if he does not return the stolen object. His fear often makes him step forward and say he is the guilty one.

Most charms are owned by the witch doctors, but they sell some to other members of the tribe. There is a profit in this trade: The people are willing to give a good deal in exchange for powerful charms. One negro woman obtained a fetish which she thought so good that she would not trade it for four cows.

CLARK SAYS MISSOURI SAFE FOR ROOSEVELT

Senator Pauses Here En Route to Macon, Expresses Confidence in Victory.

Senator Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri, as he changed planes in the rain at Candler field last night, paused long enough to tell reporters President Roosevelt will carry his state by a big majority in the November 3 elections.

The Missouri senator, who was the principal speaker at the Georgia Democratic convention last night in Macon, stopped only for a moment in Atlanta as he flew from Washington to Macon. A private plane carried him from Candler field to Macon.

At the airport, while his baggage was being transferred from the commercial to the private plane, the senator had little to say. He did comment that the national political situation looks very well indeed for the Democrats and that he had had two lunches but no supper.

A good part of the journey from the national capital was flown in the rain and weather reports indicated rain between Atlanta and Macon, but the visibility was said to be good and no trouble was anticipated.

Senator Clark was met by J. L. Conner, Atlanta businessman, who was appointed by Governor-designate Rivers to escort him to Macon. Mrs. Conner, their son, Frank Conner, 10, and Miss Louise Bishop also made the trip. H. W. Clay was pilot of the private six-seated tri-motored plane.

ENGLAND WILL BUILD ANOTHER QUEEN MARY

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Cunard-White Star line today announced it had signed a contract with John Brown & Co. for the construction of a sister ship to the Queen Mary.

The ship, which is expected to cost $27,500,000, will be built in the same berth as the present queen of the Atlantic. Keel blocks already have been started.

Stomach Gas So Bad Seems To Hurt Heart

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adlerika. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never felt better." —Mrs. Jas. Filler.

Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adlerika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and stubborn constipation.

DEVELOPMENT URGED FOR COOSA WATERWAY

Northwest Georgia Delegates Attend Session Held at Gadsden.

GADSDEN, Ala., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Industrial and business leaders from three states urged development of the proposed Coosa-Alabama waterway from Rome to Mobile today as a step likely to bring great expansion in steel, rubber, paper and other industrial production in the territory affected.

They spoke before a hearing conducted by army engineers of the Mobile district, directed by congress to report on the feasibility of the project, estimated to cost between $35,000,000 and $42,000,000.

Delegations from Rome, Dalton and Cartersville, Ga., Chattanooga, Tenn., and Birmingham, Mobile, Montgomery, Talladega, Anniston, Collinsville, Piedmont, Centre and Guntersville, Ala., attended in addition to scores of Gadsden residents.

Colonel Richard Park, in charge of the Mobile district engineers office, said his report to congress would include information gathered from all sources on the possibility of freight shipments to the gulf down the waterway.

A hearing, similar to the one here today, is set at Montgomery Thursday.

Representative Joe Starnes, of Guntersville, asked the engineers to consider the potential development of manufacturing in the Coosa and Alabama watersheds, in estimating freight. He said completion of the waterway would result in industrial expansion, producing freight not now in sight.

Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, of Dalton, argued that tonnage would increase after development of the waterway, as manufacturers took advantage of the low transportation costs.

H. H. Knight, traffic manager of Gulf States Steel Co., here, said a navigable channel to the gulf would be of great benefit to his firm, which recently announced an expansion program.

Other speakers included A. C. Michaels, superintendent of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company plant here; J. R. Hornaday, publisher of the Rome News-Tribune and president of the Chamber of Commerce there; Harry M. Ayers, publisher of the Anniston Star; C. C. Ackerson, general manager of th Agricola Furnace Company here, and F. Scott Roberts, president of the Alabama Textile Institute.

Electors' Drive for Party Funds Ready To Be Launched in Georgia

Finance Director Cam Dorsey Announces Seven Have Accepted District Chairmanships, With Three Others Yet To Be Chosen.

Coincident with opening of headquarters for the National Council of Roosevelt Electors at a downtown hotel, Cam Dorsey, finance director for Georgia, announced yesterday acceptance of appointments by seven of the 10 district chairmen for Georgia. Chairmen of the other three districts will be announced as soon as the nominees have accepted, Mr. Dorsey stated.

Opening of the Georgia campaign by the Roosevelt electors is a part of the plan outlined by the national Democratic committee by which it hopes to secure financial support for this year's presidential campaign from the rank and file of the Democrats of the nation.

The electors plan to organize the state thoroughly, with committees in every town and every village, no matter how small. Following appointment of the congressional district chairmen, chairmen for each county in each district will be named, on recommendation of the district chairmen. In turn, the county chairmen will name the chairmen for each town and each village in that county.

Mr. Dorsey is being assisted in organizing Georgia by Robert E. Clarke, divisional director and a member of the finance committee of the Democratic national committee. This is the first time in the history of the party, it was pointed out yesterday by Mr. Clarke, that a direct representative of the national committee has been sent to assist in an individual state campaign.

Contributions should be sent to the headquarters of the Roosevelt electors for Georgia, 512 Henry Grady hotel, Atlanta.

District chairmen announced yesterday included: Second, Fred Scott, Thomasville; third, James Woodruff, Columbus; fourth, Thomas R. Luck, Carrollton; sixth, Charles J. Bloch, Macon; seventh, Paul F. Akin, Cartersville; ninth, Hugh A. Carrithers, Winder; tenth, James H. Boykin, Lincolnton.

TERRE HAUTE MAYOR REWARNS BROWDER

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 6.—(AP)—If Earl Browder, Communist candidate for president, repeats his attempt to deliver a campaign speech here he will be arrested again, Mayor Samuel Beecher said today.

Browder was arrested when he arrived here September 30 for a scheduled speech and was held overnight in jail on a vagrancy charge which was dismissed the following day on motion of the state.

Announcement in New York by the Communist national committee that Browder would return here October 19 and again attempt to speak brought the declaration from the mayor of his intention to prevent any address in this city by Browder.

The mayor repeated his assertion, made upon Browder's recent visit, that "we are not going to allow Communism to become established in Terre Haute," and added: "I stand exactly where I stood before."

GRAND JURORS OPEN PROBE OF HARSH CASE

Alleged Laxity in City's Health Laws Also To Be Gone Into.

Investigation of the escape of George Harsh, life-term "thrill slayer," and Mark (Chicken) Chastain, from the Bellwood prison camp Sunday was launched yesterday by the Fulton grand jury, which also began a probe of lack of enforcement of city health laws.

Foreman Elmer L. Stanley and A. R. Dorsen, chairman of a special committee, announced yesterday that Harsh and Chastain, who were involved in a hit-and-run auto accident while on French leave from the camp, will be held at Fulton tower until after the investigation.

Harsh and Chastain will be called before the grand jury committee at 10 o'clock Monday morning as special witnesses as the probe gets under way, and county officials who might throw light on the matter will be questioned later, it was said. The prisoners will be asked about special privileges allowed them at the camp, it was understood.

The grand jury yesterday interviewed Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, in connection with specific complaints that handlers of food who must have city licenses are not being properly examined by physicians.

In many instances, the foreman said, applicants for the license have reported that doctors who signed their physical examination cards had not properly conducted the examination and had merely questioned them as to their physical condition.

Foreman Stanley said the grand jury will present a plan for segregation of first from old offenders in prison camps within a few days, but that it will not be ready for presentation when the county commission meets at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. It was expected the commissioners will hold a special meeting next week to receive the plan.

The grand jury will seek to determine why Harsh and Chastain were nattily dressed in civilian clothing at the time of their capture, it was said.

REBELS SIGNAL START OF 'FINAL' CAMPAIGN

Capture of 6 Towns Launches Push on Madrid; City Digs Up Streets.

WITH THE FASCIST ARMY, Oct. 6.—The southern Spanish Fascist army smashed nine miles closer to Madrid today and announced the "final drive" to capture the Spanish capital had begun.

Today's advance on the Maqueda-Madrid highway resulted in the capture of six important towns, the Insurgent command said, and brought the attackers to Santa Cruz Del Retamar, 37 1-2 miles from Madrid.

The towns taken were Huescas, Noves, Fuensalida, Portillo, Quismondo and Santa Cruz.

A second column of the army was reported at Torrejon, on the Toledo-Madrid road, about 22 miles from the capital.

MADRID PREPARES FOR STREET FIGHTING

MADRID, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The government tonight prepared to fight Insurgent Fascists in the streets of Madrid.

Volunteer workmen feverishly dug trenches across the city's thoroughfares and built pill boxes at street intersections.

Cement workers laid concrete artillery emplacements in the city's squares, while civilians spun the city with barbed wire barricades.

FRANCO DISSOLVES FASCISTS' JUNTA

BURGOS, Spain, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Fascist junta disappeared tonight under the dictatorship of General Francisco Franco as the Insurgents organized to take over the government.

General Franco, who would be dictator of a Fascist Spain, assumed supreme authority over Insurgent-dominated territory and created a "brain trust" to administer his government.

Sources close to the Fascist high command said General Franco had created seven technical committees as a secretariat to advise him and had empowered them to make their own minor decisions.

General Fidel Davila, considered second to General Franco in the plans for a corporative state in Spain on the lines of the Italian and Portuguese regimes, was named to head the secretariat.

Officers maneuvered 150,000 troops into a solid, tightly mobilized line before ordering the march against Madrid.

Katheryn Ford Here for Recital On Double Keyboard Piano Today

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG.

Katheryn Ford, only American pianist to concertize on the double-keyboard piano, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday morning for her unusual concert that is being presented at 10:45 o'clock this morning by the Atlanta Music Club at the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium. Non-members of the Music Club may obtain individual tickets at the door.

Mrs. Ford, a concert pianist of Boston, beginning her colorful career on the ordinary single-keyboard piano, is the second person ever to give concerts in America on the double keyboard, the first being Winnifred Christie, noted English pianist. Recently, however, many pianists have become interested in the study of the instrument.

It was while attending the World's Fair at Chicago three years ago that Mrs. Ford first saw the double-keyboard piano in the Hall of Science. Becoming interested from the beginning, she sought out Miss Christie at her hotel (Miss Christie was giving concerts on the instrument at the fair), and Miss Christie graciously turned over the keys of her apartment to Mrs. Ford for a day, leaving her to seek out the new avenues on the instrument alone. Mrs. Ford admits that from that first experience at the double keyboard she became so fascinated with the increased possibilities of musical and tonal effects she has continued serious study on the instrument ever since.

Mrs. Ford is most anxious that her public understand clearly she has absolutely nothing to do with the commercial end of introducing this new instrument to America, neither are her recitals in any sense of the word "demonstrations," but she gives concerts on the double-keyboard piano simply because she much prefers it as an instrument.

At present the instrument is only manufactured in Paris, Germany and Austria, and, until it is manufactured by an American concern, prices of the instrument will be so prohibitive in this country that it cannot possibly have a great effect on America's "piano world."

Asked why she prefers it, she replied "Because there are infinitely more fine musical effects that can be obtained on this new instrument. At times the results are almost orchestral. At other times it is possible to get the effects of two pianos playing. On the double keyboard we can more nearly approach the true interpretations of the great classic masters. Execution on the double keyboard is much easier, and it is a joy to the small hand, although don't misunderstand me by thinking that it is designed for the small hand alone, for it is not."

Mrs. Ford, who in private life is Mrs. Montague Ford, wife of a Boston businessman, received her training principally at Chicago Musical College under Alexander Raab, later becoming assistant to Mr. Raab. She is known not only as a concert pianist, but as a teacher and a composer. She makes all her own arrangements for the double keyboard. She is the mother of two daughters, although she looks young enough herself to be making her debut.

LABOR OF BRITAIN WANTS BIG ARMY

Leader Deplores 'Race,' But Votes Urge Sufficient Armament.

EDINBURG, Scotland, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The British Labor party announced today its members had voted by a majority of 1,061,000 in a card poll to support an armament policy which would make the nation safe against any "potential aggressor."

Its leader, Major Clement R. Attlee, declared in an address at the party's annual conference, however, the party could never support the government's "competitive" race to rearm.

After a day of argument in which the government's arms policy was sharply attacked by Attlee, Herbert Morrison and other speakers, the conference adopted a resolution reaffirming the party's view that Great Britain's armed strength should be consistent with her responsibility as a member of the League of Nations to support the "continuance of democratic institutions and the observance of international law."

Attlee asserted he recognized "the dangerous position of the world owing to Fascist dictatorship." He said he could not agree "that it is inevitable there must be another lineup for war."

AUSTRO-NAZI PACT DISPLEASES DUCE

Austria's Undersecretary Is Recalled From Rome to Vienna.

ROME, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Undersecretary Guigo Zernatto, of Austria, was recalled suddenly to Vienna, well-informed circles said tonight, to report on the expressed displeasure of Premier Mussolini with the trend taken by the Austro-German pact.

Zernatto talked with Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg by telephone after being received by the Italian premier.

Austrian sources said after the long-distance conversation and recall that a special cabinet meeting probably would be held in Vienna Thursday.

These sources said Mussolini told Zernatto he wanted to return to the policy of the late Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss regarding Italy rather than Germany as the protector of Austria.

Zernatto came here with several hundred youths of the Austrian popular front movement.

Reliable Austrian informants here said Mussolini had demanded that all so-called militia or political armies in Austria be fused into one group modeled after Italian Fascism.

These sources said also that Il Duce had expressed strongly his desire that Prince Ernst Von Starhemberg become commander of the fused group.

LIFE RAY'S INVENTOR RELEASED FROM JAIL

Freed from the city jail by a court order, Professor Frederick W. Reed, discoverer of the life ray, proposed to go into federal court here today to seek a permanent injunction against the constant interruptions of his travels by police of various cities.

Professor Reed was picked up in Atlanta Monday night by Detectives Leo Nahlik and M. L. Coppinger, who arrested him on suspicion at an Atlanta garage. He was held in police station overnight. Yesterday he developed a heart ailment and was allowed to make two trips to Grady hospital. During the afternoon Judge E. E. Pomeroy issued a writ of habeas corpus instructing police to release him on the ground he was being held without legal warrant and that no crime had been committed that would justify his retention by the police.

NYA CHIEF SCORES RELIEF 'SLANDERS'

Williams Denies Jobless Prefer Dole to Employment.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Aubrey Williams, executive directors of the National Youth Administration, declared tonight the government had "met the issues of the depression squarely."

"I believe," he said in an address here, "that it has given the people renewed hope for the future and renewed faith in the fundamental power of a democracy to make possible opportunity, security and freedom for all people.

"Starvation and hunger are not the only problems of unemployment. People in a democracy like ours are entitled to more than mere survival.

"There are those who defame the character of the unemployed by saying they prefer a dole to work. This is a slanderous untruth. They want work, to contribute their labor and talents so that the total well-being of the community in which they live will be increased. They want to hold up their heads in the self-respect that comes from earning one's own way.

"These are the reasons the government was not content with direct relief—why the President proposed and congress enacted a program of jobs for the jobless."

NEW YORKER IS HELD FOR ATTACKING GOLFER

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Waiving examination in magistrate's court at Rockaway Beach today, Carey Phelan, Long Island roadhouse proprietor, was held in $8,500 bail for the October grand jury on a charge of attempting to assault Bea Gottlieb, internationally known golfer.

Miss Gottlieb alleged Phelan attacked her at his Rockaway Beach resort Labor Day.

Illiteracy Is No Bar To Judicial Office

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Inability to read and write does not disqualify a person from serving as justice of the peace in Tennessee.

The question was raised in a letter to the state legal department.

After citing requirements as to age and residence, Assistant Attorney General John L. Neely wrote: "To answer your questions specifically, I advise that there being no educational qualifications, that a person who can neither read nor write may hold the office of justice of the peace."

BOMBING SUSPECT IS TREATED FOR CUT

EASTVILLE, Va., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Northampton county jail attendants called a physician tonight to treat one of two men charged with perpetrating the bomb-killing of Curry Thomas at Cape Charles last July 22, for a severe cut on the wrist and loss of blood.

Dr. H. Trower said he found Dr. H. R. Hege, 47-year-old Mount Airy, N. C., dentist, one of the two held for the eastern shore farmer's death, suffering from a half-inch cut on the left wrist near the radial artery.

County officers said Hege told them the cut was inflicted accidentally when he rolled over on his bunk and broke his watch crystal.

He is held with Ed Banner, 52-year old Mount Airy WPA foreman, on a charge of mailing the "wedding present" bomb which killed Thomas and injured his bride of six weeks at their home near Cape Charles two and a half months ago.

They were arrested Monday night.

TWO ARE FOUND DEAD FLOATING IN SKIFF

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Captain William I. Shockley, New Bedford's oldest whaling master who was once snatched from death between the jaws of a whale, was found dead today, his body floating with that of a lifelong friend in a skiff off Ricketons Point.

Fishermen who found the bodies lost that of Captain Shockley, 78, overboard as they attempted to bring them ashore.

Medical examination of the body of Charigs Manchester, 79, schoolday chum and lifelong friend of Captain Shockley, was ordered at once.

A rising sea forced searchers temporarily to abandon grappling for the body.

FORMER PRESIDENT OF WELLS-FARGO DIES

PASADENA, Cal., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Davis Gleason Mellor, 75, former president of the Wells-Fargo Express Company, died today at his Flintridge home of a heart ailment.

Mellor, who was born in Worcester, Mass., entered the employ of the company which figured so largely in the early history of the west as a messenger boy, rising to the presidency in 1922. He retired in 1925.

Surviving are the widow, and two sons, Davis Gleason Mellor II, of Pasadena, and Albert Davis Mellor, of Flushing, N. Y.

COUNTY WILL PROBE ANGELUS TEMPLE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The criminal complaints committee of the Los Angeles county grand jury will scrutinize the dispute over management of Angelus Temple, Deputy District Attorney U. S. Blalock said today.

Jacob Moidel, ousted Temple attorney, asked an investigation of a statement attributed to his successor, Willedd Andrews.

Blalock said the investigation will be held next Tuesday.

Andrews denied he had used the word "blackmailed" and said he had declared Aimee Semple McPherson "has been threatened, intimidated and coerced for the last time."

Mrs. McPherson is at odds with her daughter, Roberta Semple, over the temple's new business manager, Giles Knight.

GERMAN RELIEF DRIVE LAUNCHED BY HITLER

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Reichfuehrer Adolf Hitler, thundering charges that post-war Germany was "brought to the brink of an abyss through Bolshevist machinations," drew salvos of applause from a huge Berlin audience tonight.

Opening the Nazi winter relief campaign, Hitler advised Germans to submit cheerfully to period "one-dish dinners" to swell the relief fund.

"To objectors I say maybe you are alive today only thanks to the victory of national Socialism over Bolshevism," he cried.

Shortly after Hitler finished his appeal it was announced that first subscriptions to the new winter relief fund totaled more than 18,000,000 marks.

HEAVY SHOWERS, COLD SEEN FOR CITY TODAY

More rain will fall in Atlanta today, and a warm spell predicted for the daylight hours will give way tonight to cooler weather that is sweeping in from the east in the wake of the rain, according to word from the weatherman yesterday.

Rain, which fell throughout the Atlanta area yesterday from 11 a. m. on, was to continue last night and will taper off into showers today.

"Heavy showers," is the way the weatherman describes today's outlook. "Temperatures will range between 66 and 80 degrees. The cold weather that is following the rain is coming from the west, where freezing weather has been recorded."

Yesterday's temperatures started at 64 in the morning and climbed only to 72 during the damp afternoon.

Yanks Blast Giants, 13-5, To Win Final and Capture Series

The K. K. K. is busy again out at Georgia Tech.

That is to say, the Knee Kap Klan has been recruiting some members.

As a consequence, the atmosphere at Georgia Tech is surcharged with medical odors and the diathermy machines are going almost constantly, baking the ailing knees of the members of the Klan.

There are some long faces out at Georgia Tech. Because the game with Old Kaintuck is coming up on Saturday. And Georgia Tech will be a-needing every man, woman and child at the battle front that afternoon. Yes, sir. All of them.

Because the Kentucky people are tough and mean and unusually shifty with that football.

Until a week or so ago, the Kentucky people needed only the Tech victory to be in a perfect setting. They have the Chet Wynne (Win) schedule. Seemingly Georgia Tech was the only vigorous foe on the card.

But in the past two weeks Mr. Frank Thomas has come up with a brawny, fast young team over at the Fountainhead of learning in Alabama. A heap of enthusiasm for old Alabama has been churned up by the two Alabama victories and the convincing manner in which they were obtained. In fact, you will find a lot of our long-distance football seers saying Alabama and Vanderbilt will meet for the title.

But, be that as it may, Alabama doesn't appear on the Kentucky schedule until October 31. And once past the Tech threat there will be time to rest for Alabama.

It will be a terrific day out there at the Flats. The fur will be flying shortly after 2 o'clock. And the Knee Kap Klan may decide the contest. When such players as Mit Fitzsimons and Dick Beard are initiated into the mysteries of the order the outlook isn't very bright.

RAIDING A FEW JOINTS.

When Old Man Trouble wants to do himself proud he goes out and raids a few joints—knee joints. The knee produces 60 per cent of all football injuries. It is a curious joint. It isn't a ball-and-socket type such as the shoulder or elbow.

The two bones meet in a shallow sort of pan and the ligaments holding them in place are few in number. Then, too, there are thin bits of cartilage about which break off and get into the joint.

These are known, individually, as a "football mouse." And when a player has a "mouse" in his knee, he is out of football until the doctors can go in there and take out the mouse.

Each university playing a major schedule will average one or two operations a year for the removal of "football mice." There are two doctors in the south who have a great reputation for these operations, one in Atlanta and one in Memphis. There are others, of course, but these two do a majority of operations on southern football players.

Most any sort of a blow will put a knee out of commission. A side, back or front blow will do in a knee. It is next to impossible to use steel braces on knees during a game because they cut down the speed.

The Knee Kap Klan is the worst injury menace in football. And the man who devises something to protect the knee without cutting down a player's speed will make some money out of football.

RETREAT FROM GLORY.

Never did I see such a retreat from glory—such a shoving away of laurel wreaths as is going on up in Nashville, Tenn-O-See.

The Commodores swamped Chicago and immediately found themselves elevated to a favorite's spot in the conference.

The reaction was immediate. The boys began to depreciate the Chicago victory. "It was nothing at all." "It was just that Chicago had nothing. A good prep team would give them a battle." And so on.

Mack Tharpe, who saw the Commodores play Chicago, reported the Maroons to be heavy and slow. But, he said:

"Vanderbilt has everything, speed, weight, power, good kicking, passing and reserves. The reserves of last season seem even better than did the regulars of 1935."

Vanderbilt's next conference foe is Georgia Tech. While Tech is playing Kentucky and Duke, the Commodores will be playing Southwestern, an easy foe, and S. M. U., in the Texas league.

I rather enjoyed the Chicago victory. Once I played on a Vanderbilt team which took an awful shellacking from the Maroons.

But the Commodores are seeking to minimize the victory to such an extent they seem almost to regret having won it.

A GOOD DAVID HARUM.

Marse Joe McCarthy, whose slugging Yankees just won the World Series at New York, might be said to have swapped himself into the championship.

He swapped Johnny Allen to Cleveland for Monte Pearson. And Monte Pearson won 19 games and one of the series contests.

He traded Ben Chapman to the Senators for Jake Powell and that young man was the hitting hero of the series and played a great game in the outfield all season.

The Yankees made their victory rather emphatic. And I rather imagine Carl Hubbell voiced the sentiments of all pitchers when he said: "It would be a dream to pitch for a club like the Yankees."

McCARTHY'S GREAT RECORD.

Joe McCarthy probably felt, some years ago, that he had been dealt a bad hand.

He was let out by the Chicago Cubs because of some mysterious reason, and Rogers Hornsby replaced him. The story went that Hornsby, hurt that year, had sat in the stands and second-guessed McCarthy. But whatever the reason, Hornsby got the job.

It was really a kick upstairs for McCarthy. He got the Yankee contract. And his record there has been one of the really great managerial performances.

Rogers Hornsby is now with the Browns. And they finished nowhere at all.

OUR MR. MANN.

Our Mr. Earl Mann will return home this week from the World Series.

He went there to kill a couple of birds with one railroad ticket. He wanted to have a confab with Mr. Connie Mack and with various other baseball owners.

The Atlanta baseball machine is to have some new parts next season. And our Mr. Mann was shopping.

He needs an infielder or so and a hitter who can go up there and belt that baseball. Plus a pitcher or so. And he got the deals started at the series.

The time to win ball games is in the winter. Which is why the Crackers have won two pennants in as many years. Their ball clubs were set during the winter.

Suicide Squad Finishes Giants In Loud Salvo

Joe McCarthy's suicide squad murdered the Giants yesterday to take the World Series in four out of six games. Jake Powell, whom the Yanks got in a trade for Ben Chapman, was the batting champion of the series, ending up with an average of .454. He got 10 hits in 22 times at bat. The big guns above, now familiar names to all baseball fans because of their prowess at the plate, are, left to right, Joe DiMaggio, Frank Crosetti, Tony Lazzeri, Bill Dickey, Lou Gehrig; the hero, Jake Powell; George Selkirk.

YANKEES HAPPY AS SERIES ENDS

It'd Be Dream To Pitch for Yankees—Hubbell.

By Paul Mickelson.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The hell-bent fury of "murderers' row" that exploded the Giants clear out of their World Series trenches in the final inning of the final game increased to a deafening roar as the Yankee marauders blew their vocal gaskets in a wild dressing room celebration today.

As the Giants wearily stared at the big wall separating the dressing rooms of victors and conquerors, the new world's champions of baseball turned their clubhouse into a "no man's land," belting each other around and shouting at the top of their lungs while flashlight bulbs and beer bottles popped a merry refrain.

Last in the clubhouse came Manager Joe McCarthy, struggling and fighting his way through his men who halted him at every step to wring his hand and wallop him on the back. But Marse Joe, only pilot to win pennants in both major leagues, went directly to Pitcher Johnny Murphy.

"PROUD OF YOU."

"Murphy, I'm proud of you; you were great," congratulated the Yankee boss to the grinning Irishman who held the Giants in check when the going was the toughest. "You won that one for us."

Murphy, a New York boy who made good before the homefolks, didn't get a chance to reply. Five Yankees, their faces beaming and streaming with perspiration, rushed and pummeled him.

Blubber Malone and Lefty Gomez, who raced around like a madman during the final Yankee rally, yelled for help for a quartet. Five mates tumbled all over their chairs and bat boxes to join in.

"East side, west side, all around the town," they sang.

"Hold it!" yelled a photographer.

"Hold what?" shouted Gomez, "my high C? Okay."

Lefty blew a gasket trying to reach it.

OFFER CONGRATULATIONS.

Following him came Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, and President Will Harridge, of the American league. Judge Landis stayed only a minute, dashing out with his fingers plugging his ears.

"Thanks, thanks," said McCarthy as he grabbed the outstretched hands of the baseball officials. "It sure looked tough for a while though, didn't it?"

"Who you gonna pitch tomorrow, Joe?" a wag yelled.

"Pillows, and lots of them," the Yankee boss laughed. "We all need some sleep."

Just then Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the world's champions, came in. A shout went up but the Yankee manhandlers handled him with care. Beaming all over, the old colonel happily posed with his boys.

"It's one of my happiest moments," he said between gasps. "Nobody thought last spring that the Yankees could win. Now they're champions of the w-w-world."

GIANTS DEJECTED.

Manager Bill Terry was the only man in the Giants dressing room who wasn't dejected.

"We had a great chance in that seventh but everything went against us," he sighed. "I was ready to stick Hubbell in there if we had gone ahead, but we didn't. You can't take anything away from those fellows, though. They sure have got power."

"It'd be a dream to pitch for a club like the Yankees," muttered Hubbell.

'A Good Ball Team,' Says Joe McCarthy

Championship Is Second for Yankee Pilot in Five Years.

By John Lardner.

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—When it ended, the Yankees swarmed into their half of the clubhouse and began to wreck things. They ripped up shirts, threw shoes around, jumped up on benches, yelled like Mohawks, pounded backs and pulled ears.

No one was safe. Massa Joe McCarthy, who likes to keep his dignity even in moments of supreme triumph, backed off into a corner and began to beam steadily. He was still beaming when night fell.

"That's a good ball club, isn't it, hey?" said Massa Joe, looking around at the world champions, his second assortment of same in five years. "It's better than anyone thought. Say, that was pretty good pitching they were hitting out there. They make good pitching look like bad pitching."

CURVE TOO WIDE.

"What good pitching are you talking about?" yelled Don Vernon Gomez, the singular Spaniard, from across the room. "Mine?"

"Naw, you were terrible, Lefty!" said somebody else.

"I was all right!" hollered Gomez. "My curve was just too wide for them Giants, that's all. They never seen nothing like it. They couldn't get their bats out of the way."

"What are you going to do with your dough, Lefty?"

"Maybe a car," said Lefty, still talking as though his audience were in California, and a bit hard of hearing to boot. "Maybe I'll buy a car."

"You already got a car," said Lou Gehrig. "You got two yalla cars, a blue car and a red car. You can't keep your hands off them yalla cars."

MAY BUY HOUSE.

"Maybe I'll buy me another," said Gomez. "Maybe I'll buy me a house."

"He's already got a house," explained Gehrig above the din. "He bought one in Boston once because he wanted to own a house. He's never been in it yet."

"I was in it twice," shouted Gomez. "It's a swell house. But I don't want to live in Boston."

Arthur Fletcher, the third-base coach and leading Yankee jockey, who jeered and jibed at the Giants throughout the series for purely practical reasons but is a nice enough guy off the ball field, came storming down the middle of the room through a hail of flying shirts and towels. He grabbed Jake Powell's neck.

"Too bad this guy can't hit," he roared. "Too bad him and Rolfe can't hit. They was both under .500 for the series."

"What did I hit?" demanded Gomez. "Has anybody got my average?"

SAVES CLIPPINGS.

"That lying bum has got 20 copies of his average. Whenever Gomez gets a hit he clips all the newspapers and hands the clippings around to guys on the street.

"I couldn't keep track of all my hits this series," said Gomez. "I was a slugging fool."

"What did DiMag hit?" asked Fletcher.

".345," yelled somebdy. "A newspaper guy was just here and said .345."

"How about that home run they stole off Lou?"

"Yeah, that looked fair to me, that one in the stands in the ninth," said Gehrig. "But they called it foul. I wisht they had called it right."

"That would have tied the record," said a visiting statistician. "If that poke of Lou's had gone fair it would have been three more runs, and that would have made ten runs for the inning, and that would have tied the Athletics—"

O. K.—WE WIN.

"Should've and would've have bellies like eels,' said Tony Lazzeri. "That's what Jack Quinn used to say."

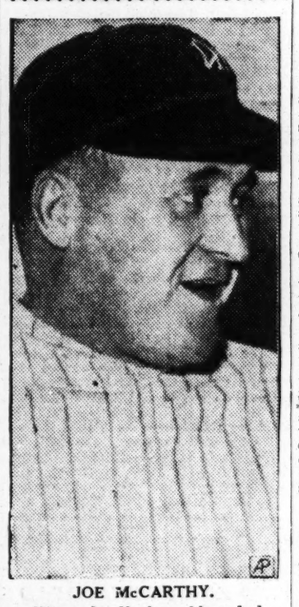
"That's all right," said Gomez, still yelling. "We win the series."

"And what are you going to do with your dough, Lefty?"

They were still shouting that to one another when they finally had their clothes on and were leaving the ball park.

"What are you going to do with your dough?"

Winning Manager



JOE McCARTHY.

When the Yankees blasted the Giants 13-5 yesterday to win the final game of the series and capture the 1936 classic, it made the second title that Manager Joe McCarthy has led the "Ruppert Rifles" to within five years. McCarthy succeeded Bob Shawkey as manager of the Yankees.

Gomez's Mother Reported Improved.

RODEO, Cal., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Joseph Gomez, mother of Vernon "Lefty" Gomez, New York Yankees pitcher, showed slight improvement today but she is still critically ill.

Earl Gomez, chief of the Rodeo fire department and brother of Vernon, said his mother was cheered by receipt of a letter in which Vernon said he was returning home immediately after today's World Series game in New York.

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 6.—For the convenience of the fans, Alabama Polytechnic Institute's 1936 football players are again numbered on both the back and front of their jerseys.

POWELL IS HERO OF WORLD SERIES

Ex-Senator Batted .454; Fielded Position Without an Error.

By Harry Ferguson.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(UP)—At 4:19 o'clock this afternoon, Lou Gehrig picked up a slow roller along the first base line and ended the World Series. Now some courageous soul has to set about the business of picking a hero and a goat.

So, pin the hero's badge on a bandy-legged little ball of fire, a package of T N T, a base-running fool and a gent who knocks in the runs when they are needed. Don't give it to Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio, Frankie Crosetti or George Selkirk. All of them played brilliantly in streaks, but the guy who was in there every minute bothering the Giants was little Jake Powell, the Yankee right fielder.

Figures tell his story better than anything else. He came to bat 22 times during the series and got 10 hits, which gave him an average of .454. He got three hits off Carl Hubbell in the first game. Today he got a home run and two singles—one of them with the bases loaded. He fielded his position without an error, and every time he got on base he was a threat to the Giants' battery. He scored eight runs during the series.

TRADED FOR CHAPMAN.

The chances of the baseball trade winds blew in Powell's favor this year. Last season he was a good dependable outfielder for the Washington Senators.

This season Manager Joe McCarthy, of the Yankees, traded Ben Chapman to the Senators for Powell. At the time it didn't look like such a good investment for the Yankees, but Jake wiped it all away during the World Series.

He got his start in baseball on a semi-pro team in Washington. One day Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators, went out to scout a pitcher on the same team. Instead of signing the pitcher, he took Powell, and farmed him out to Chattanooga. Jake played in Chattanooga, Youngstown, Ohio, Dayton, Ohio, and Albany, N. Y., before he got his chance in the big leagues.

MADE THE GRADE.

While Powell still was kicking around in the bushes, his girl told him she never would marry him until he got to the big leagues.

Soon Jake became a star with the Albany club of the International league and the Senators brought him up to the big leagues. He has been here, ever since, and the girl is now Mrs. Powell. She keeps control of the situation, however, by refusing to cook dinner for him on any day that he makes an error.

The goat of the World Series? Well, let's get it over with quick by saying it was the aging third baseman of the Giants—Travis Jackson. He lost balls in the sun, he made three costly errors and in 21 times at bat he got only four hits for an average of .190. He wasn't even in there at the finish today, because Manager Bill Terry took him out for a pinch hitter. Jackson didn't seem able to move fast to his left for hard-hit ground balls and two of them went past him today for hits that a younger, spryer man would have nailed.

SCRIBES BARRED.

WORCESTER, Mass.—For the first time in the history of football at Holy Cross, newspapermen are barred from practice as the Crusaders prepare for their important test with Dartmouth Saturday. The Crusaders were undefeated last year and have won the first two encounters this season.

Yankee Powerhouse Routs Giants, 13-5

Last-Inning Spree Converts 'Anybody's Game' Into Rout.

came apart in the ninth-inning debacle.

The Giants, trailing, 3 to 5, after Fitzsimmons had been driven from the box within four innings with a nine-hit, five-run assault, lost their big chance to regain command of the ball game in the seventh frame. They came within one run of tying the score when Dick Bartell doubled and Bill Terry belted Gomez for a base hit to center that Joe DiMaggio fumbled for his first misplay of the series.

Gomez gave way to the relief pitching of Johnny Murphy after Hank Leiber sacrificed and Mel Ott walked, but the Giants rushed three pinch-hitters into the crisis without being able even produce the tying run. Hitting for Gus Mancuso, Sambo Leslie, who had hit safely in his two previous turns as a pinch batsman, fouled weakly to Rolfe. Jimmy Ripple, hitting for Burgess Whitehead, walked to fill the bases, but Mark Koenig, running in from the bullpen to hit for Travis Jackson, took a third strike with his bat on his shoulder.

DIMAG HITS TWO.

After blowing this big chance, the Giants folded quickly with a lineup revamped in four positions for the last two innings. Dick Coffman, who relieved Clydell (Slick) Castleman in the box, yielded one run in the eighth and was knocked out in the ninth by the farewell salute.

Thirteen Yankees went to bat in the concluding frame, within two of the World Series record. The rookie star, DiMaggio, got two of the five base hits that punctuated the firing off the combined pitching efforts of Coffman and his successor, Harry Gumbert, both right-handers. Gumbert, victim of the six-run drive by the Yankees in the ninth inning of the second game, came in with two one, none out and three runs already in. He finally retired the side, after four more tallies rattled over the plate.

Three bases on balls, together with an error by Catcher Harry Danning on a dropped throw as DiMaggio charged for the plate, contributed to the record run-making splurge of the new world champions in their last turn at bat. Their final total equaled the old record which they had displaced with an 18-4 rout of the Giants in the second game.

MANY RECORDS FALL.

All told, at least a dozen World Series records were broken or equaled by today's finale. The Yankees displaced a flock of marks for a six-game series in the offensive department. Their aggregate totals of 43 runs and 41 batted in, 65 hits and 49 of the one-base variety, 26 bases on balls and 96 total bases, all established new records.

The attendance at the Polo Grounds for the sixth game was the smallest of the series, with 38,427 cash customers contributing to gate receipts of $169,213, but they were big enough to create new six-game records in both department of calculation.

The total attendance of 302,924 displaced the previous six-game mark of 301,430, set by the Yankees and Giants in the last intra-city battle, in 1923. The aggregate receipts of $1,204,399, topped the previous six-game mark of $1,073,794, set by the Detroit Tigers and Chicago Cubs last year, and were the second highest in all series history.

SWELL TOTAL.

The inclusion of the $100,000 received from radio rights puts the aggregate cash total beyond anything on record. The record "gate" from ticket sales of $1,207,864 was made in 1936 when the Cardinals beat the Yankees in seven games. That was before the club owners discovered they could increase their profits by selling the broadcasting privileges.

Single game records for attendance and receipts twice were broken at the Yankee stadium, Saturday and Sunday. New York's 1936 baseball civil war left considerable to be remembered by.

Today's triumph meant the difference between the winners' and losers' share of the gate receipts—nearly $60,000—in addition to the extra spoils for the players from the radio money.

Collecting well over $6,000 per man for their record-smashing exploits, the Yankees put an impressive finish to a year that also saw them blast many a pennant-season record to pieces in their overwhelming march to victory.

The club, managed by Marse Joe McCarthy, got a good share of the "breaks" in a series that was exciting but not particularly well-played. They won chiefly on their predominant hitting power, at the expense of the best pitching their opposition could produce.

GOMEZ WINS TWO.

The renowned Carl Hubbell, as well as Hal Schumacher and Fred Fitzsimmons, the "big three" of Bill Terry's staff, took turns being belted by the "Bronx Bombers." Hubbell and Schumacher each managed to win, but at the finish the Giants' flingers all looked pretty much alike to

ALEX STRESSES DEFENSE DRILLS FOR 'CAT GAME

Morgan Looms As Starting Left End Against Kentucky.

By Jack Troy.

Seeking the strongest defensive combination possible for the big game with the powerful team from the bluegrass, Coach W. A. Alexander indicated yesterday that he would start Jim Morgan at left end against the Kentucky Wildcats Saturday afternoon.

The move holds out Ed Jones, regular left end and a strong offensive player. Morgan is a more powerful player than Jones and power is what the Jackets need, especially on defense.

Defense is what the Jackets are stressing. And so a starting backfield indicated for the Kentucky game includes Fletcher Sims at quarterback Dutch Konemann and Red Collins at halfbacks and Harry Appleby at fullback.

WORK IN GYM.

Tech worked under lights in the gymnasium for more than an hour yesterday afternoon because of the heavy downpour.

The entire period was devoted to stationary work on defense. The Bee team walked through Kentucky plays. And Coach W. A. Alexander, acting as schoolmaster in the illustrative session, spent all his time setting the varsity defense against straight line bucks, off-tackle smashes, sweeping end runs and tricky reverses.

The Wildcats have a great variety of attack from the Notre Dame backfield set-up, and especial attention was devoted to the defensive play of the varsity ends and tackles.

When the rain abated, the squad swarmed out on Grant field in light gear and spent a long session in running signals.

NOT SATISFACTORY.

Such work is never entirely satisfactory. That is, gymnasium work. It serves its purposes in allowing coaches to illustrate offensive maneuvers of the opposing team on a slow-motion basis. It gives the defending team a clear idea of what to expect.

And yet it is always more satisfactory to test it out in scrimmage afterwards. However, it was too wet for scrimmage yesterday. The Jackets have plenty of injuries, as it is.

On the other hand, clearing skies today would pave the way for an extensive defensive drill this afternoon at the Rose Bowl.

The Jackets need at least two good days for scrimmage. They need one good defensive drill and another on offensive.

This season Tech has had plenty of chance to work on offense, however. And the big need for the Kentucky game is a defense that will limit the running of such backs as Bob Davis, Earl Sands, Bert Johnson and others.

Dick Beard was out in track clothing yesterday. He as limping on his game right leg. He hurt the leg in the P. C. game and later an infection set in.

TESTS HIS KNEE.

Walter Rimmer, a reserve guard, was out in track clothes also. He was running a bit to test his injured knee.

On the other hand, Henry Bynum, a reserve tackle, is definitely out of the game, along with Eddie Carmack, reserve guard.

The starting Tech line likely will include Morgan and Jordan at ends, Chance and Lindsey at tackles, Captain Fitzsimmons, who has an injured knee, and Jack Nixon, at guards, and big Charley Preston at center.

George Smith, a big sophomore end, and Glenn Cushing, husky sophomore tackle, are being counted on as important line reserves. Junior Anderson, husky, hard-hitting sophomore back, is also one of the dependable backfield reserves.

The second backfield for Saturday likely will embrace Lawrence Hays at quarter, Scrappy Edwards and Ernest Tharpe at halfbacks, and Anderson at fullback.

A terrific battle is in prospect for Saturday.

Wynne Predicts Loss for Kentucky.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 6.—(AP)—"Playing Georgia Tech at Atlanta, we will lose," said Coach Chet Wynne today when asked about the chances of the University of Kentucky against the Yellow Jackets next Saturday. "They have the best team they have had since 1928, in my estimation," added the Wildcat mentor.

Defensive drill on passes and line plays came in for the major part of the practice session today. A short scrimmage with the freshmen, who used Georgia Tech plays, ended the session.

Bob Pritchard and Bob Davis took no part in the scrimmage. Davis was on the sidelines with a cold. Pritchard, fullback, had a badly bruised heel. He is the only man on the injury list.

Coach Wynne plans a long, hard scrimmage tomorrow afternoon, tapering off with a short drill Thursday afternoon. The team will leave for Atlanta Thursday night.

N. A. P. S. Will Hold Swim Meet Tonight

North Avenue Presbyterian will hold its annual interclass swimming meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Briarcliff pool.

In addition to the regular class competition there will be exhibitions by Howard Duncan and Gay Thrash.

Sophomores and seniors will compete against the freshmen and juniors.

Dorothy Fugitt, coach at North Avenue Presbyterian, will be in charge of tonight's meet.

Five Rookies Signed For Lookout Club

GREENVILLE, S. C., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Five rookie baseball players were signed here yesterday for the Chattanooga club of the Southern association at the end of the baseball school conducted by Zinn Beck, Washington and Chattanooga scout.

The players, all residents of this area, are Marvin Hopkins, Fred Ross and Emery, pitchers; Fred Steading, shortstop, and Ford Garrison, outfielder.

Beck formerly was manager of the Greenville club of the old South Atlantic association.

BATON ROUGE.—Three shot putters, all of whom placed in the 1936 Southeastern conference track and field meet, are on the Louisiana State football team. They are Bill Crass, 200-pound halfback; "Big Ben" Friend, 245-pound tackle, and Gordon (Lefty) Lester, 195-pound tackle.

Giants' Dressing Room Resembled a Morgue

Bill Terry Tells Reporters Yanks Best Club He Ever Played Against.

By Henry Super.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(UP)—Bill Terry, his baseball pants draped on his knees and a sweatshirt hanging around his neck, stood alone in his combination office and dressing room. In back of him was a mirror. Over it was a sign which read: "Think."

Outside in the clubroom it was like a morgue. Carl Hubbell read letters and smoked a cigaret. Old Adolfo Luque, Giant coach, sat on a stool and looked like he was going to break into tears. Nobody spoke.

A few reporters—many of them men who had been with the Giants since the days of McGraw—stood about, afraid to speak. Finally one of them walked past the threshold of the open door to Terry's room. The others followed.

A few carefully worded questions were fired at Bill. He smiled wryly and said:

STORY NEXT DOOR.

"Why don't you fellows go next door? That's where the story is. Nobody cares what I say. Those Yankees deserve all the play in your papers. We were the losers, that's all."

He looked up at a pennant on the wall—a white and purple affair which read: "Champions of the National League, 1921."

What about that seventh inning where he took apart his infield? Was that smart baseball, Terry was asked.

"I don't know," he said sorrowfully. "We gambled and we lost—what more could we do? We were on the spot and we broke our necks trying to get off it.

"They are the toughest bunch in the world to pitch to and I think we did good staying them off the way we did. They knew they were in a fight—and we sure were, too."

Terry said today's probably was his last game. His injured knee pained him and he said that next year he was certain to do his master-minding from the bench, going into the game only as a relief man or pinch hitter.

OFFERS SYMPATHIES.

Ford Frick, the youthful National league resident, came in and offered his sympathies.

"It was a tough series, Bill, but you boys played nobly against that bunch of horsehide murderers."

None of the players had anything to say. Most of them started packing for their trips homeward. Freddie Fitzsimmons, who departed the game in the fourth inning, couldn't be found. Others in various stages of undress—just sat around and stared, smoked and muttered curses under their breaths.

When he got dressed Terry started over to the Yankee dressing room but couldn't get in because of the crowd. He said he would go downtown tonight and congratulate the "greatest team I ever played against." He will return to Memphis in a day or two and return to New York in December for the major league meetings.

PETRELS WORK FOR 'NOOGA TILT

Although most of the team is beaten up pretty badly from the Mercer game only one player will be out of the Chattanooga game. Adolph Speal, sophomore tackle, will be lost to the Petrels for the remainder of the season due to a wrenched knee. It is possible that he might be able to get in one of the last games of the season.

Other players who were carrying scars of the game were: Leonard Pickard, tackle, who was pounded so hard he wasn't able to get into the short scrimmage against the freshmen yesterday; Jim Sullivan, one of the halfbacks who Oglethorpe depends on, received a fractured finger but is out to practice with his hand in splints; "Fox" Clyburn and Henry Horton both have their hands taped up due to injuries sustained during the battle. All of these will be back in the lineup when the whistle sounds in Chattanooga Friday night.

Practice was called yesterday despite the fact that rain fell all afternoon. Realizing that the Moccasins are a tough club and this year have the best team in five years, Coach Patrick is putting his team through offensive and defensive drills daily in an effort to find a combination to stop "Scrappy" Moore's aggregation.

The team will leave for the game Thursday afternoon and return after the game Friday night.

The scheduled game between the Baby Petrels and Mercer Cubs, supposed to be played today, was postponed until a later date.

Carlton and Mauldin Tangle at Avondale

Red Carlton, the referee, will turn boxer and wrestler Thursday night to take on Gentleman John Mauldin in the main bout at the Avondale arena. The contestants will wear gloves, and will be permitted to box or wrestle as they prefer.

Red has confined his ring activities for the past two years to being merely the third man in the ring, but returns as result of some unfair play on the part of his opponent.

Carlton was refereeing Monday night at the Key arena, and got into several altercations with Mauldin, who was wrestling Ted Taylor. The fight was carried into the dressing room, and Mauldin struck Red with a black jack and fled.

Carlton then challenged Mauldin to this match, and Gentleman John accepted only after it was agreed that the bout would be mixed boxing and wrestling.

In the semi-final match, Glenn Cowan will tangle with Tarzan Jordan. The opening tilt brings together Frank Remille and Whitie Patterson.

Morris Brown Plays Claflin Here Friday

Claflin University, of Orangeburg, S. C., who last year defeated Atlanta's leading colored football aggregation, Morris Brown College, by a 3-0 score, will face the Atlantans again this Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Ponce de Leon park in the best game scheduled thus far this season.

Coaches Lockhart and Graves, mentors for Morris Brown, are working hard with their charges to iron out several faults that were noticeable in the game with Allen University whom they defeated 20-0 to officially open the season here. Hard blocking and tackling were being stressed and the veterans spurred on by their chances of revenge were working hard to be in the best of condition for this important game.

Several lettermen that were not in condition for the first game will see action Friday, the coaches announced. Big Brown, fullback, and King Dixon, two mainstays of the Wolverines last year, are ready to start Friday.

Gus Schrader And Collins Vie Today

Gus Schrader, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, dirt track champion, and Emory Collins, LeMars, Iowa, who Sunday tied Schrader for championship honors, this year, will renew their race warfare at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the second of three big automobile race days at Lakewood park and the Southeastern Fair.

Buddy Callaway, Macon boy, and popular with Atlanta's race fans; Terry Beackett, Shorty Drexler and Buddy Rush, others close to Collins and Schrader in the 1936 standings, are not to be overlooked and will be very much in this afternoon's race program.

Callaway, after setting a new track record Sunday afternoon, only to have it lowered a few minutes later by Schrader, had motor trouble and was forced out of the race. It was his first motor trouble on the Lakewood track and he will be back in there this afternoon seeking to raise his standing.

Fritz Tegtmeier, who Sunday narrowly escaped death as his machine crashed, turned oever three times and left him unscratched, also will be in the races today with another machine.

Eight events are booked for today, with a five-mile feature opening the program, after the time trials.

There will be more than 20 of the best racing cars in America on the track ready to go this afternoon and the list of drivers includes the best in the world.

No. 7, Miller, Emory Collins, LeMars, Iowa; No. 5, Miller, Gus Schrader, Cedar Rapids; No. 38, Hollywood Special, Dave Champean, Hollywood; No. 17, McDowell, Bob Cox, Orlando; No. 47, Frontenac, Jimmy Chi, Honolulu; No. 74, Peugeot, Ray LaPlante, Newark; No. A-1, Miller, Wes Argoe, Norfolk; No. 500, Fronty, Buddy Moquin, Springfield; No. 11, Belle Plaine, George Hildebrand, Evanston; No. 120, Ramnor Special, Fritz Tegtmeier, Roselle, Ill.; No. — Hal D. O., Cotton Grable, Houston; No. 15, Sheppard Special, Larry Beckett, Tampa; No. 21, Miller Shano Fitzgerald, Tampa; No. 35, Ford V-8, Gordon Chard, Atlanta; No. 6, Cragar, Harley Taylor, Atlanta; No. 77, Chevvy, Red Singleton, Atlanta; No. G-2, Hal Special, Eddie Wagner, Minneapolis; No. 75, Winfield Special, Pete Craig, Atlanta.

Although rain is predicted and the track is heavy from Tuesday's rain, the races will be run this afternoon, provided rain does not fall after 11 o'clock. The track is well drained and the Tuesday rain only served to make for ideal conditions unless it is raining at race time today.

Jacket Pin Leagues Will Start Friday

The Bulldog Club bowling league, composed of 20 different fraternities on the Georgia Tech campus, will open their schedule at the uptown alleys Friday evening, October 9, at 6:30 o'clock.

The league will bowl in two shifts, with 10 of the teams bowling at 6:30 and the other 10 slated to roll their games at 8:30 the same evening.

Series Figures

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Seven new attendance and financial records were written into the World Series books tonight as players of the two New York Clubs prepared to divide their share of the largest gross receipts in the history of the series.

With $1,204,399 taken in at the gate and $100,000 gained from radio broadcasting rights, the aggregate players' pool amounted to $460,002.66. The champion Yankees and the Giants divide 70 per cent of this or $322,001.86 on a 60-40 basis, with the Yanks getting $193,201.11 and the Giants $128,800.75.

The Yankees voted to divide their $193,201.11 into approximately 30 shares, with each player getting $6,440.03. The Giants divided theirs into 27 full shares plus several grants to club employes and came out with $4,656.40 each.

The remaining 30 per cent of the players' pool or $138,000.80, is divided among players of the second, third and fourth place clubs in both leagues.

Thus, the Detroit Tigers will get $34,500.20, the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs, who tied for second in the National league, get $28,750.16 each. The third-place money for the White Sox amounts to $23,000.14, and the fourth-place team, the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Washington Senators draw $11,500.06.

Twice during the series the attendance for a single game was broken. The old mark of 63,600, set in the Yankee stadium in the 1926 series between the Yankees and the Cards, was beaten Saturday when 64,842 paid admissions attended the game. This mark lasted one day. On Sunday, 66,669 paid to see the fifth game of the series.

YANKEES ROUT GIANTS, 13 TO 5, TO TAKE TITLE

the blasting brigade from the other side of the Harlem river.

Gomez, although he didn't go the route, gained his second pitching triumph of the series as his mates put the final crusher on their rivals, while Fitzsimmons was charged with his second defeat.

While the two heaviest guns in the Yankee batting order, Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey, got only one hit for their combined efforts this afternoon, the rest of the lineup gave the Giants' hurlers a brisk massaging.

DiMaggio, Red Rolfe, Jake Powell and Tony Lazzeri each contributed three hits to the Yankee total of 17 safeties. Selkirk's triple and Powell's home run, both hit off Fitzsimmons in the second inning, were the only extra-base wallops, but the attack of the American league champions was always a menace, from top to bottom of the list.

OTT HITS.

It was typical of the Yankee attack that it was never very long under control, at any given point in the lineup. There was rarely a spot where any pitcher for the Giants could afford not to bear down. Any time they did ease it they generally looked around to see a ball leaving the park.

The total of seven homers for the Yankees, two each by Selkirk and Captain Gehrig, was two short of their own record, while the aggregate of 11 for the series, by both clubs, was one shy of the mark of 12 set by the Washington and Pittsburgh clubs in the seven-game series of 1925.

Mel Ott, the Giants' clean-up hitter, emerged from his slump to slam out a double as well as his first homer of the series, driving in three of his team's five markers. His circuit clout, as well as Joe Moore's, in the eighth, both had the misfortune to come with the bases empty.

The Giants started out briskly with a two-run spurt in the first inning off Gomez. Moore singled, Bartell walked and Terry sacrificed both baserunners. Big Hank Leiber, back in centerfield instead of Jimmy Ripple, was passed to fill the bases. Ott doubled down the right-field line, scoring Moore and Bartell, but Mancuso and Whitehead both failed in the pinch where a single would have produced two more runs.

STARTS STRONG.

It was typical of weakness in the lower side of the Giants' batting order, as a consequence of which 10 baserunners were stranded during the afternoon.

Fitz retired the first five batsmen. He looked to have the same effective control he showed in his first start last Saturday, but the long-range guns boomed suddenly to upset his advantageous start.

Selkirk's triple and Powell's homer tied the score, with two out, in the second. The Yankees forged to the front in the third when Rolfe singled, ran to third on DiMaggio's base-hit to left and scored easily on Gehrig's towering drive to Ott.

Travis Jackson's limited fielding range off third base seemed costly in the fourth, but Fitz got himself into enough trouble anyway to cause his downfall.

With one out, Powell beat out a hit to deep short and Lazzeri punched the ball past Jackson's outstretched glove for another single. Gomez then boosted his already swollen series batting record by driving a clean single to left, scoring Powell. Crosetti flied out but Rolfe's base-smash to left-center scored Lazzeri and ended Fitz's work for the day.

STRIKES SIDE OU.

Fitzsimmons yielded five runs and nine hits, twice as many as he allowed in losing last Saturday's game, before turning over the mound to Clydell Castleman. The young right-hander quickly subdued the Yankee attack, retiring 10 of the 11 men he faced, yielding only one hit, and striking out the side in the sixth. Powell, Lazzeri and Gomez were his strikeout victims in that frame.

Ott's fifth-inning homer, which he pushed into the left-field upper deck, whittled the Yankee margin. Twice thereafter, in the critical seventh and again on Moore's circuit clout in the eighth, the Giants pulled up with one run of their opponents, but that was all.

Castleman was touched for the sixth and what proved to be the deciding run, in the eighth inning. He passed Dickey, who went to second on Selkirk's single and scored on Tony Lazzeri's basehit. The fourth straight pinchhitter for the Giants, George Davis, failed to do anything damaging as he hit for Castleman in the eighth.

Then came the crowning blow-off. DiMaggio launched the ninth inning attack against Coffman with a single to left. Gehrig sent Joe to third with a base hit to right. Dickey then grounded to Terry and DiMaggio was trapped but the Giants' manager pulled what looked like a "boner" by throwing to Eddie Mayo at third, instead of to the plate. DiMaggio was nearer home, at the time. He made the break for the plate and was safe when the substitute backstop, Harry Danning, dropped Mayo's relay. Danning was charged with an error but it would have been the closest kind of a play even if he had held the ball.

GEHRIG MISSES HOMER.

Selkirk walked to fill the bases, then Powell brought Gehrig and Dickey home with a drive through Shortstop Bartell's legs. Gumbert replaced Coffman and promptly filled the bases by walking Lazzeri. Johnny Murphy, not to be outdone at the bat by Gomez, singled to short right, scoring Selkirk and leaving the bases still thickly populated. Crosetti walked, forcing in Powell. Lazzeri scored the sixth run while Rolfe was forcing Crosetti on a hopper to Bartell. DiMaggio's second hit of the inning, a single to left, tallied Murphy.

Gehrig missed a home run by barely three feet on a terrific foul into the right field stands, then walked to fill the bases again. Dickey fanned and Selkirk hoisted to Ripple where all the Yankees needed was a home run with the bases full to equal the alltime series record of 10 runs for a single inning, made by the Athletics against the Cubs in 1929.

RATHER UNUSUAL.

DETROIT.—It's rather an unusual coincidence but both of the University of Detroit's regular tackles—Dave Crotty and Joe Cieslak—come from East High school, of Erie, Pa. Still another Erie boy on the Titan team is John Krkoska, who alternates at left end with Roy Larson.

Purples Play Decatur High Thursday

Boys' High and Decatur High will furnish Atlanta's prep fans with the only football game of the week Thursday night at Ponce de Leon park.

Tech High and G. M. A. scheduled for Friday night have moved their game to Monday night, due to Friday being a Southeastern Fair holiday for school children.

Both Boys' High and Decatur will conclude their week's work with long blackboard drills Wednesday afternoon, due to the rain.

Light drills were held in both camps Tuesday afternoon and both coaches are well satisfied with the showing of their proteges.

Commercial High will have an open date this week.

FIVE PARTIES ENTERED IN GEORGIA ELECTIONS

Independent Also in List of Congressional Aspirants as Certified.

Secretary of State John B. Wilson certified to Governor Eugene Talmadge yesterday a list of 155 candidates for national and state offices in the November general election.

The law requires Governor Talmadge to make up the ballot.

Included in Wilson's list compiled from party and independent declarations filed prior to closing of entries October 3 were candidates representing the Democratic, Republican, Prohibition, Socialist and Union parties.

The list of Democratic candidates covered all national and state offices. The Republicans filed the names of Alfred M. Landon and Frank Knox, a full list of presidential electors and three candidates for congress.

Certified for the Prohibition party were candidates for president, vice president, presidential electors, governor and lieutenant governor.

Social party candidates were listed for president, vice president and presidential electors only, and the same was true of the Union party.

Independt Entry.

L. Mitchell Johnson, of Acworth, Ga., was certified as an independent candidate for congress from the seventh district.

Wilson said in his letter to Governor Talmadge transmitting the list of candidates that he took the position candidates for the general assembly should file with the ordinaries in the various counties. He submitted a list of these candidates who had filed in his office for the Governor's information.

Candidates for president and vice president for the various parties were certified as follows:

Democratic—For president, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Hyde Park, N. Y.; for vice president, John N. Garner, Uvalde, Texas.

Republican—For president, Alfred M. Landon; for vice president, Frank Knox.

Prohibition—For president, D. Leigh Colvin, 605 West 184th street, New York, N. Y.; for vice president, Claude A. Watson, 536 Coleman avenue, Los Angeles, Cal.

Socialist—For president, Norman Thomas, 206 East 18th street, New York, N. Y.; for vice president, George A. Nelson, R. F. D., Milltown, Wis.

Union—For president, William Lemke; for vice president, Thomas C. O'Brien.

Senatorial Candidates.

Democratic—Richard B. Russell Jr.

For Governor—Democratic, E. D. Rivers; Prohibition, L. P. Glass.

For Lieutenant Governor—Democratic, DeLacey Allen, Albany; Prohibition, Charles F. Johnston.

For Congress—First district, Democratic, Hugh Peterson, Ailey; second district, Democratic, E. E. Cox, Camilla; third district, Democratic, Stephen Pace, Americus; fourth district, Democratic, E. M. Owen, Griffin; fifth district, Democratic, Robert Ramspeck, Decatur, and Republican, Henry A. Alexander, Atlanta; sixth district Democratic, Carl Vinson, Milledgeville; seventh district, Democratic, Malcolm C. Tarver, Dalton, and Independent, L. Mitchell Johnson, Acworth; eighth district, Democratic, Braswell Deen, Alma, and Republican, Ben J. Ford, Brunswick; ninth district, B. Frank Whelchel, Gainsville, and Republican, John M. Johnson, Hiawassee; tenth district, Democratic, Paul Brown, Elberton.

Other state offices were uncontested.

LEWIS REVEALS BASIS FOR PEACE IN A. F. OF L.

Federation's Executive Council To Hold Meeting Thursday.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(UP)—John L. Lewis, granite-jawed leader of the Committee for Industrial Organization, tonight laid down a two-point program which he said constituted the only basis for restoration of peace in the battling ranks of organized labor.

He demanded:

1. Revocation by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor of the order suspending 10 C. I. O. unions on charges of insurrection.

2. Isolation of certain mass production industries which would be organized strictly on Lewis' "one-big-union" theory.

The A. F. of L. executive council meets here Thursday to prepare final documents concerning the suspension of the C. I. O. unions.

TEN MINERS CRUSHED BY 900-FOOT PLUNGE

MULLAN, Idaho, Oct. 6.—(AP)—A mine cage, plummeting 900 feet after a hoisting cable broke, carried ten miners to death early today in the Morning mine shaft near here.

The body of Louis Goff, 25, of Mullan, was found this afternon crushed under the wreckage and debris at the bottom of the mine.

The lower deck of the elevator cage had just been loaded. Cageman Henry Aune, at the surface, was lowering it so men could enter the middle deck when the cable snapped 1,400 feet above. The cage shot downward with the men, with tons of cable whipping behind and crushing the wreckage at the bottom.

BARONS, TULSA CLASH TONIGHT

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 6.—(UP)—Holding a 2-to-0 lead in the Dixie Series, the Tulsa Oilers, champions of the Texas league, open their home stand against Birmingham here tomorrow night for the championship of the south.

The scene of the Southern association-Texas league series shifted here today after the Oilers slammed out a 6-to-4 victory over the Barons at Birmingham last night in a marathon 14-inning game.

Yesterday's victory made it two in a row for Tulsa, since the Oilers had won the opener at Birmingham Sunday afternoon.

BUSINESS ON UPGRADE, COL. ROEBUCK ASSERTS

Mail Order Executive, Visiting City, Says Confidence Is Back.

In Atlanta to visit friends and view the Southeastern Fair, Colonel A. C. Roebuck, co-founder of Sears, Roebuck and Company, yesterday said people are buying with more confidence now, not only of necessities, but for pleasure as well, and that business is definitely on the upgrade.

"The depression is long since finished," the executive said, "but depressions were known to the world long before 1933."

The well-known merchant, interested in many things, said he based his observations on contacts and interviews during extensive traveling of the last four years with residents of various parts of the nation.

"Retail merchandising is just one of my professions," Colonel Roebuck explained, "for I learned watch repairing, engraving out of a book, and I was one of th early telegraphers. My partner, Sears, and I had one of the first office intercommunication devices and carried on conversation between our offices by means of the telegraph lines.

Photography was also one of the early hobbies of the versatile merchant, who produced an etching of a pretty girl that he had scratched on a photographic plate before 1900.

He plans to remain here throughout the week and take in each day of the fair before continuing his trip back to Chicago.

MANY SEEK PLACE AS TAX ASSESSOR

Grand Scramble Seen for Office Held by Late Harry M. Perkerson.

A grand scramble for election as city tax assessor to succeed the late Harry M. Perkerson loomed yesterday as half a score of potential candidates already were mentioned as being in the field.

City council will elect a successor at its regular meeting October 19, it is anticipated. Perkerson was elected in July a year ago to a four-year term. The unexpired term will run until the first Monday in July, 1939.

Among those mentioned as candidates were Will L. Hancock, member of the 1926 Atlanta bond commission; L. Glenn Dewberry, superintendent of the city hall building; John Townley, former assistant city purchasing agent; John Faith, former councilman; W. N. Blankenship, attache to the tax assessors' department; R. Cliff Witcher, assistant purchasing agent; Marvin Thrower, real estate man; Marvin Roan, former city marshal, and A. C. Burton, former assessor.

Several potential candidates from council ranks yesterday were confronted with a charter amendment which precluded them from entering the lists. Among those mentioned were Alderman J. Charlie Murphy, William H. Joyner, Farris A. Mitchell and John W. Ball Jr. and Councilman Alvin L. Richards.

The office pays $5,000 a year but is subject to a 10 per cent cut imposed against nonschool employes of the municipality who make $100 or more a month.

DEMOCRAT WOMEN WILL MEET FRIDAY

Reports of Macon Convention, Discussion of Amendments on Program.

October meeting of the Georgia Women's Democratic Club will be held at 3 o'clock Friday in Davison-Paxon's tea room, at which time reports of the Macon convention and discussion of proposed amendments to the state constitution to be voted on November 3 will be major features of the program.

Preceding the executive meeting, the board of the club will meet at a luncheon at 1 o'clock to elect the nominating committee to report to the December meeting of the organization.

Members of the club who attended the Macon convention as delegates and who will report Friday are Mrs. R. H. Hankinson, Mrs. Regina Rambo Benson, Mrs. William P. Dunn, Mrs. Stacy E. Hill, Mrs. Lamar R. Lipscomb, Mrs. Eleanor Orr Roan, Mrs. Charles E. Stewart, Mrs. Louise L. McEachern, Mrs. Howard C. McCutcheon, Mrs. T. A. Suttles, Mrs. Elton Chapman, Mrs. George Woods, Mrs. W. JURY COMPLETED FOR TRIAL OF FRICK

Former Federal Penitentiary Chief Clerk Accused of Falsifying Accounts.

Selection of a federal court jury was completed yesterday afternoon for the trial of Harvey F. Frick, former chief clerk at the Atlanta federal penitentiary, charged with falsifying his accounts at the prison to cover a shortage said to have been on the books for a number of years.

Trial of the case will begin this morning, with Assistant United States Attorney M. Neil Andrews handling the prosecution and William Schley Howard handling the defense.

Jurors selected were Harrison P. Anderson, Benjamin Jones, Embra J. Shumate, Newdigate O. Arrington, Orris Donehoo, George A. Beam, Charles B. Everett, Dayton D. Shermer, Howard L. Waters, Arthur J. McClure, Bernard D. Ardinger and Evans A. Erwin.

The trial is expected to consume a week or 10 days.

Frick is at liberty under $5,000 bond.

John W. Snook, former warden of the penitentiary and now an Idaho rancher, has been summoned to Atlanta as a witness at the trial.

YOUTH IS BOUND OVER FOR HIT-RUN TRAGEDY

Grover L. Collins, 24, 373 Augusta avenue, was bound over for the Fulton grand jury in recorder's court yesterday on involuntary manslaughter charges in connection with the hit-and-run accident in which Walter B. Shockley was killed on September 13 at 392 Whitehall street.

Collins, arrested several days ago by Atlanta policemen, said in a sworn statement the man ran from the street into the path of his car and, after John Hudson, passenger with him, climbed out of the car and ran, he became scared and drove off hurriedly. He testified he went to Athens the next day and had the damaged fender repaired.

Collins was out on $1,000 bond, while Hudson was to be called on as a material witness.

NEW DEAL SPENDING IS SET AT 3 BILLIONS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Treasury Department's official statement of expenditures from the 1935 emergency relief appropriation showed today that 4.51 per cent of the $3,424,564,516 spent during the fiscal year ended last June 30 went for administrative expenses.

The cost of directing the relief program was set at $154,476,341, with $64,562,870 of it going for administrative expenses of the Works Progress Administration. This was 4.87 per cent of the $1,305,802,580 spent by that agency for the works program, the National Youth Administration and other projects under its direction.

Rexford G. Tugwell's Resettlement Administration had administrative expenses of $27,705,095 in carrying out its program which cost $134,518,438.

DECATUR WOMAN HELD FOR FATAL STABBING

Argument over a previous fight between their two brothers led to the fatal stabbing of Lula Middlebrooks, 1562 Acton street, by Florence Terrall, 19, of 112 Wesley avenue, Decatur, late yesterday.

DeKalb police said the Middlebrooks woman accused the Terrall woman of furnishing her brother a knife several days ago while he was fighting Middlebrooks. An argument followed and the woman was stabbed twice, in the chest and back, and was pronounced dead on arrival of police and the ambulance.

Police are holding the Terrall woman.

TECH HIGH BAND PLANS TO PLAY AT INAUGURAL

Members of the Tech High school band, foreseeing the re-election of President Roosevelt in the November 3 national election, have started a drive for funds to go to Washington to play for the second inauguration of Roosevelt in January.

Permission to hold "tag day" on November 21 to assist in raising funds during the band's drive was asked of city council Monday. A unanimous vote granted permission.

THIRTY-ONE INDICTED ON DRY LAW CHARGES

Five Others Named by U. S. Grand Jury in Narcotic Cases.

Thirty-one residents of north Georgia were indicted yesterday by the United State grand jury on charges of violation of the internal revenue laws in connection with the manufacture of alleged illicit liquor.

Those named in the indictments were Roy Lucas, Hubert Mabry, Hoyt Orr, Leamon Mealor, Jimmie Lowman, Etsel Hall, David Hall, David Robertson, William Barrett, Clifford Wages (alias Bob Wages), D. C. Patterson, Oldon Thompson, Robert Lee Ethridge, Thomas Patterson, Robert Stow and Fairest Hammonds, all of Gwinnett county; Harry Fullerton, J. T. Copeland, Robert Chambers and James Bryant Wallace, all of Henry county; Claude Cochran, William Cochran, Henry Goble and Paul Quarles, all of Gilmer county; Steve Pace, Sam Crow and Tasker Baxter, all of Paulding county; Eugene Gibson, Cherokee county; Cecil A. Rickerson (alias John Bates), Fulton county, and William Verner Sisk and Roy Sisk, of Habersham county.

Two women and five men, one of them a doctor, were indicted on charges of violations of the Harrison narcotic laws. They were Robert W. McAfee and Helen McDermott, alias Helen Roper; Irby McCain Topp, alias Mac Topp; Harold William Roberts, Gertrude Fink, Clarence Lee Smith, and Dr. Jake Cobb Orr, the latter of Gwinnett county.

Elmer Bentley Pickens, an inmate of the federal penitentiary, was indicted on charges of assault with intent to murder, for the alleged stabbing of Nicholas Chiusano, a fellow convict, with a dagger devised from the blade of a pair of scissors. The attack occurred September 4.

Carlton Ragsdale, alias Davidson Gunnell, was indicted on charges of mailing obscene matter.

Curtis Quarles and Homer Ledford were indicted on charges of stealing gasoline out of a government tractor.

GOVERNOR COMMUTES SENTENCE OF DEATH

Governor Talmadge commuted to life imprisonment yesterday the sentence of Jim Wilson, of Pike county, who was scheduled to die in the electric chair Friday. Wilson was convicted of killing William Hagen, also of Pike county, at a party in July, 1935.

The Georgia Prison Commission had declined to recommend clemency. A hearing was held before Talmadge today.

Wilson was represented by Chester A. Byars, of Griffin, and W. L. Dunn Jr., of Zebulon.

Hartsfield Plans Flight to Texas For Study of Dallas Government

Mayor-designate William B. Hartsfield plans to fly tomorrow morning to the Texas centennial celebration at Dallas and to study the Dallas government while there.

As a member of the city aldermanic board, Hartsfield was one of the prime movers in the acquisition of Candler field, now Atlanta's airport. He took a keen interest in aviation when flying was in its infancy, and was chairman of the first aviation committee of council.

His friends yesterday said he probably will be designated as "Atlanta's flying mayor" before the end of his trem, because of his known sympathy with aviation.

Hartsfield left yesterday for Macon to attend the celebration incident to the nomination of E. D. Rivers for governor and scores of other state candidates. He will return to the city late this afternoon and plans to leave the city at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow morning for Dallas.

Pilot George Shealey, veteran at the Atlanta airport and one of the few remaining aviation pioneers still here, will man the Hartsfield plane. Shealey and Hartsfield were personal friends of the late Beeler Blevins and Doug Davis, members of the old guard in local aviation circles.

DEKALB POLICE PROBE FULLER HOME ROBBERY

DeKalb Policemen C. M. Cloud and V. B. Hill yesterday continued their investigation of the Sunday burglary at the residence of H. N. Fuller, 1063 Clifton road. Thieves hurled a rock, wrapped in a handkerchief, through a windowpane and unlatched the window to gain entrance to ransack the house. They took jewelry and clothing valued at $500.

The burglary was similar to others reported recently in the Druid Hills section, being carried out in the same manner that has characterized previous robberies.

THEFT OF COUNTY CAR BRINGS PRISON TERM

Because he "woke up and found the keys in a Fulton county car and just drove off in it," Harry Trout, white youth, must serve a six-month sentence, Judge G. H. Howard decided in Fulton superior court yesterday.

Trout was charged with the theft of a probation officer's car from in front of the courthouse several months ago. He offered as defense that he sat down in the machine while a sheriff's auction sale was proceeding on Pryor street.

Whether he went to sleep or not he did not say but stated that "when he woke up" and found the keys in the switch, he simply went off in the machine.

FLUSH KIDNEYS OF POISONS AND STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS

Live a Healthier, Happier, Longer Life.

Thousands of men and women wonder why backache bothers them—why they have to visit the bathroom often at night—why flow is scanty and sometimes smarts and burns.

Any one of these symptoms means that your kidneys and bladder need attention now before these minor symptoms develop into serious trouble.

To flush out waste poisons and acid from kidneys, soothe your irritated bladder and put healthy activity into them, get a 35-cent package of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Capsules and take as directed.

This harmless, tried and true medicine always works—you'll feel better in a few days, as the supremely effective diuretic and kidney stimulant drives excess uric acid from the body which is often the aggravation of joint agony, sciatica and neuritis.

But be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—the original and genuine—right from Haarlem in Holland. All good things are imitated. —(adv.)

Mrs. Joe Brown Sips Tiffin With Royalty in Switzerland

By Sally Forth.

WHILE abroad last summer, Atlanta's own Mrs. Joe Brown had the honor of meeting the Duchess of Vendome, sister of the late King Albert of Belgium. It was during Mrs. Brown's visit to Mademoiselle Reybold de la Tour at her home in Switzerland that the Atlantan was presented to royalty. Mrs. Brown and her hostess rode with the Duchess of Vendome to the castle of Madame Frederic Dominice, a leader in Geneva's most exclusive social circles, where her royal highness was honor guest at an elaborate fete.

In her own inimitable style Mrs. Brown describes how the guests stood and bowed in silence as her royal highness, the Duchess of Vendome, was announced. As she passed, each guest bowed low, kissed her hand, and addressed the royal personage in the third person, in accordance with court custom.

Mrs. Brown found the Duchess of Vendome so charming, natural and unpretentious that she felt quite at ease in her presence. She found many congenial subjects to discuss with the royal honor guest, who is an artist, painter and writer. The Atlantan was impressed with the exquisite beauty of her water colors, as well as with her Book of Memoirs, an edition de luxe which is sold by the duchess for benefit of charity. The book's print is a copy of the author's own handwriting and is a work of real art, thinks Mrs. Brown.

Other notables attending the same function were the Duchess of Plaizance and his excellency, the former ambassador of Russia, Count Mouraviff. In her chat with the latter the Atlantan learned that the world is a small place after all. When she found that the Russian count was a friend of Dr. Peter Porohovshikof, who resides here with his nephew and niece, Dr. and Mrs. Hal Davison, close friends of the Joe Browns. While in Paris Mrs. Brown met Andre de Tchaikovsky, nephew of Mrs. Hal Davison, who accompanied the Atlantan to the Russian church. She was much impressed with the elaborate rites and beautiful music of that church.

Mademoiselle de La Tour, Mrs. Brown's hostess in Geneva, is quite a personality herself. She enjoys the friendship of celebrated Eurupean figures and has entertained many men and women famous in the literary and diplomatic world, including the late Edmond Rostand, the Countess of Noailles, and the late Sarah Bernhardt. Only recently did Mademoiselle de La Tour have the honor of interviewing Mussolini, Italy's powerful dictator.

IT IS fascinating to talk to the Hopkins sisters, Helen Hill, Elizabeth and Carroll, who have just returned from extensive travels in the west and Mexico. They are full of enthusiasm over their wonderful trip, and naturally so, for many interesting experiences added to the excitement of their journeys.

Accompanied by their grandmother, Mrs. Carroll Payne, they toured California with the deputy sheriff of Los Angeles, a former movie director, acting as their guide. His influence enabled them to go through famous motion picture studios, and they met handsome James Stewart and several well-known stars. They were thrilled to see Myrna Loy, William Powell and Jean Harlow enacting scenes for "Libeled Lady" in San Francisco.

How would you feel to have a crowd of autograph seekers stop you as you left the Vendome, famed restaurant frequented by Hollywood celebrities, and ask for your signature in their prized books? Yes, wouldn't it be thrilling, though? Well, that is exactly what happened to lovely Carroll Hopkins. But with Carroll's blond-haired, brown-eyed beauty, it really isn't so strange that she was mistaken for a movie star. The young Atlanta belle attributes the mistaken identity to the dark glasses she was wearing in true Garbo manner, but it isn't everybody who can look like a movie star simply by donning dark glasses.

WHEN Mrs. John Vine Turner and her small daughter, Rhett Dargan Turner, sail on Saturday for their home in Rio de Janeiro, South America, the former will have a cherished possession tucked away in her bag in the form of a dainty compact. It was a parting gift of her 13-year-old son, Jack, who will remain in the States at near-by Baylor Institute in Chattanooga.

With true banking instincts inherited from his father, who is engaged in the banking business in the South American city, Jack bought the compact with funds squeezed out of three weeks' somewhat slender allowance, no doubt using strong self-denial in the matter of ice cream and movies, for which he has a normal boy's liking.

Mrs. Sheahan's Tea.

Miss Willodeen Colson, of Brunswick, Ga., who is spending several days with Mrs. John Sheahan, will be honor guest at the tea at which the latter will be hostess, Friday from 4 to 5 o'clock at her home on Peachtree road. Thirty friends have been invited to meet the visitor.

Mesdames Robert Philip and Bayard Carson will pour tea and Mrs. Bonner Spearman will assist in entertaining.

Awtrey—Traylor.

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 6.—Widespread interest centers in the marriage of Miss Ray Norton Awtrey, daughter of Raymond H. Awtrey, of Acworth, to Claude H. Traylor, of Houston, Texas. The marriage took place on Saturday at the First Methodist church in Houston, where the bride resided with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Norton.

The bride is the granddaughter of Orlando Awtrey Sr., of Acworth, and is a popular visitor there, where she has a host of relatives and friends. She also has a wide circle of friends in Atlanta, where she has frequently visited her aunt and cousins, Mrs. D. F. McClatchey, Miss Adolyne McCatchey, and Mrs. Leroy Edwards.

Dr. Robert E. Goodrich performed the ceremony. Herbert Rohloff gave a prelude of organ selections and Miss Ida Lee Lawson sang.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Norton, wore a princess model of white transparent velvet fashioned with high neckline and flowing skirt extending into a train. Her veil of illusion was fitted from a cap of tulle trimmed with a pleated frill and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies and lilies of the valley. Miss Jewie Awtrey was maid of honor, Mrs. A. H. Cox, matron of honor, and Miss Frances Smith, bridesmaid. Best man was C. L. Keenan, of Galveston, and groomsmen were James Smith and A. H. Cox.

An informal reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. Norton at their home following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Traylor will reside at 1302 Waugh drive, Houston, following their wedding trip. The bride wore for traveling a model of black faille trimmed with white and accessories in black.

Lovely Member of 1936-37 Debutante Club

Pictured above is Miss Robyn Peeples, lovely member of the Debutante Club and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Peeples. Miss Peeples' formal presentation to society takes place at a reception at which her parents entertain on November 3 at the Piedmont Driving Club, when members of the married contingent will attend and the younger set will be invited for a supper-dance. Miss Peeples is of the beautiful Irish type with lovely dark brown hair and clear blue eyes. She posseses a charming personality and a sweetness of manner which have made her a social favorite since early girlhood. She is a graduate of National Cathedral school in Washington, where she made an outstanding scholastic record. The sketch of Miss Peeples was made by Grace Scarboro from a photograph by Asasno, Japanese photographer.

Dinner-Dance Set For Friday Evening At Ft. McPherson

FORT McPHERSON, Oct. 6.—The opening entertainment at the Officers' Club at Fort McPherson for the winter season will be in the form of a dinner-dance to be held on Friday evening. Hosts will be Colonel and Mrs. Ralph Glass and Captain and Mrs. Thomas Ramsey. The club will be artistically decorated with colorful flowers and foliage. The 22d infantry band will render musical selections and dance music.

Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Leland Hobbs and Major and Mrs. Clive Bomar will entertain a group of 75 at dinner. The centerpiece for their table will be roses and gladiolus. Captain and Mrs. C. C. B. Warden will be hosts to a number of their friends. A profusion of dahlias and ferns surrounded by ivory tapers will adorn the table. About 50 guests are expected to be present.

The Fort McPherson Chapel Guild met at the Officers' Club recently and elected the following officers: Mrs. Burton Seeley, president; Mrs. Robert O. Van Horn, vice president, and Mrs. Charles Bramlitt, secretary. Committees were named to take care of various activities of the guild.

Mrs. William H. Noble and daughter, Miss Susan Noble, are leaving Thursday for a three-week visit in New York city.

Mrs. S. W. Young, of Knoxville, Tenn., formerly of this post, is visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Lieutenant and Mrs. David Hedekin.

Parties Continue For Debutantes

Parties to compliment the season's debutantes continue to be announced. Miss Beverly Bailey will be central figure at a luncheon to be given by Mrs. Charles Nunnally on November 17. The latter part of October Mrs. Blewett Lee will entertain at a luncheon in honor of Miss Laura Maddox at the Piedmont Driving Club. On November 20 Mr. and Mrs Murray Shoun will give a dinner party at their home honoring Misses Kathryn Newman and Laura Maddox. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones entertain at an aperitif party on November 21 at their North Side drive residence in honor of Miss Nell Freeman.

Dr. and Mrs. LeRoy Childs will compliment Misses Laura Maddox and Kathryn Newman at an aperitif party on December 6 at their home on Tuxedo road. On December 28 Mrs. Harrison Atkins gives a luncheon for Misses Helen Hill Hopkins, Emily Smith, and Beverly Bailey, this affair to take place at the Piedmont Driving Club. Mrs. Glenville Giddings will be hostess on November 29 at her home in Druid Hills at a tea to compliment Misses Julia Colquitt Clara Haverty and Laura Maddox.

Ye Olde Friends Club.

Ye Olde Friends Club met recently and members present were Mrs. Ollie Cochran, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Butler, Margaret and Johnnie Butler, H. M. Council, Fay Council, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Vandeford, Kane Vanderford, Misses Vivian Baker, Evelyn Barfield, Eva Cochran, Elizabeth Conover, Eleanor Lewis, Margie Lee Pope, Claude Cochran, George Lewis III.

Visitors included Miss Harriett Hanlin, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; George W. Smith, of Clarkesville, and Claborne Hopkins, of Atlanta.

Important Pennsylvania Visitors Are Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kline,

Numbered among the important October visitors who will provide inspiration for a series of social affairs, are Mrs. Edwin Mixsell and Mr. and Mrs. Neuweiler, of Allentown, Pa. They are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Kline, at their Peachtree Battle avenue residence. Mrs. Mixsell, a niece of Mrs. Kline, has hosts of friends here, made upon frequent visits to her uncle and aunt. Mrs Norman Cooledge gives a luncheon today at the Capital City Club for the visitors, and this evening, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kalkhurst entertain at a buffet supper at their Muscogee avenue home for Mrs. Mixsell and Mr. and Mrs. Neuweiler.

Mrs. Charles Kessnich entertains at luncheon on Thursday at the Capital City Club for Mr. and Mrs. Kline's guests and Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Jenkins give a dinner party at the Capital City Club as a complimentary gesture to Mrs. Mixsell and Mr. and Mrs. Neuweiler.

Dr. and Mrs. William E. Campbell will be hosts at a dinner party Friday evening at the Capital City Club for the Pennsylvania visitors and Saturday evening they will be honor guests at the dinner-dance at which Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strickland will entertain at Brookhaven Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Kline entertained on Tuesday afternoon at an aperitif party at their home on Peachtree Battle avenue for their guests. Peach-colored dahlias and gladioli beautified the house and 40 members of the married contingent of society were invited to meet Mrs. Mixsell and Mr. and Mrs. Neuweiler.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, Monday.—Miss Laura Delano came down to see us last evening and brought Jill, one of our red setters, whom she has taken back to her kennels for a time. She is showing her and hopes to win some prizes.

It was quite interesting to see how reluctant the dog was to leave. She ran all over the house looking for the children and my daughter and son-in-law, smelled at their clothes and seemed quite unhappy not to find them. They had all gone to New York so as to be at school and at work this morning. At last, Jill found her brother Jack, and they licked each other all over and seemed so happy to be together again. I really felt that I had to console Jack when Jill was whisked away in Miss Delano's car, and he was left without a playmate.

I wonder if dogs' memories are long enough for them to realize that every five days their own people come back to them and that the intermediate days have to be lived through? I hope so, otherwise the separation must seem final each time!

Mrs. Scheider, Miss Cook and I left the country early this morning for New York. I have been dashing around doing a number of personal errands and seeing a few friends.

A very interesting letter came to me the other day from an old friend of my aunt, Mrs. Douglas Robinson. She told me of a charity which she has carried on through these years of depression and made an appeal which I am going to pass along to my readers. If she were not an old friend I should not feel justified in doing it.

It seems that many people have been unable to pay for lenses and are going without eyeglasses which might make it possible for them to read or sew or engage in certain occupations. They simply cannot afford new glasses. If all of us who have old glasses stuck away somewhere would find them and send them to Mrs. Arthur Terry, Short Hills, N. J., they could be fitted to many people that she can contact. It would mean renewed activity, comfort and happiness for many of them.

I pass this along to you because I think there must be people who find themselves in the same situation I am in. I have a drawer full of glasses which the children have worn at various times. As their eyes have changed, or they outgrow them, they have been put away with the idea we always have, that some time the things we cannot use today may be useful again.

"Let Your Stars Guide You"

By BERNICE DENTON PIERSON, Foremost American Astrologer.

"What chariots, what horses against us shall bide, While the stars in their courses do fight on our side?"

"ATLANTA'S WHO'S WHO IN THE ZODIAC."

MRS. CAM DORSEY.

February 6 marks the natal day of Mrs. Cam Dorsey, one of Atlanta's and the south's most outstanding women. This brings her birth date under the influence of the Zodiacal sign Aquarius. Aquarius is the sign of honesty popularity, intellectuality, kind heartedness.

Bernice Denton Pierson.

The Moon-Mercury position in this interesting chart gives quickness of perception and accuracy of observation. The Moon-Mars position gives great courage and a mind and a nature that is practical and enterprising. It also bestows marked executive ability.

The Sun-Uranus position is particularly favorable. This aspect gives originality and ofttimes actual genius. This position also endows her with intuitiveness, inventiveness and independence. The Sun-Mars position shows travel and adventure.

The Moon position gives a splendid sense of values, with caution and persistence in carrying out her purpose. She gains loyalty to friends from the same planet.

The Venus-Jupiter position strengthens the entire chart. It becomes the promise of success and achievement to continue throughout the period of a long life.

You can get your complete astrological forecast through The Constitution, compiled by Bernice Denton Pierson, one of America's best known astrologers. All you have to do it to fill in the coupon below, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, together with 10 cents in coin to cover the mailing cost. You will then receive through the mail certain pertinent facts which deal astrologically with the Sun at the time of your birth, called a Sun-chart, and with this Sun-chart, a series of numbers which will enable you to identify the planetary interpretations, which will be published in The Constitution each day, dealing with the influence of a given planet on the day of your birth, according to the rules of astrology When you have checked each of your numbers your forecast will be complete.

Below are planetary indications, according to the rule of astrology, one of which may apply to your forecast. Every day these interesting interpretations will be published, descriptive of the influence of the planets at the time of your birth. Your astrological forecast includes a Sun-chart and planetary interpretations, designated by numbers on your Sun-chart. Watch carefully day by day for your numbers.

Number 1020—You have excellent earning powers, but sometimes suffer from lack of opportunities. Watch for opportunities and make the most of them when they come. The indications are that your most successful dealings would be with large companies or through investments made with old established concerns.

Number 1021—Beware of speculation and quick turnovers. They are not always successful for you. You would find it better to concentrate on long-time investments with large and well-established organizations. Gains will usually come slow, but by being patient and using good judgment, you should eventually be free from financial worry. You are inclined to worry about trivial things.

Number 603—You have high ambitions and an accurate and practical mind. You have intuitive and receptive qualities, and by applying these assets to your business and social problems you should benefit, especially at this time.

Number 604—The indications are that you will travel a great deal through life and such travel will prove of benefit to you. You have many talents. You are fond of study, research, science and literature. There are also musical and artistic tendencies. By developing your talent or talents, you may register as great or as little prominence in the particular field that you select, as you may desire.

The Store All Women Know

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

THE INTERMEDIATE ZONE.

The intermediate zone is the largest, the most complicated, and, except for the slam zone, the most difficult. It is so called because the player, either as original bidder or after partner's first bid, does not see a certain game in his own or combined hands, and must therefore proceed in such a manner as to obtain from partner (or opponents) additional information. The intermediate zone includes all the initial bids and most of the middle range except the game forces, but including a special group of strategic bids, called one-round forces.

Bidding Levels in Relation to Strategic Bids.

It is not enough to know the underlying strategical principles and the bids derived from them. The next step is to know by what bidding device a bid that tells one thing about the hand is distinguished from a bid that means quite another thing. The answer is, by associating a bid with a definite bidding level.

There are 21 bidding situations, and to each situation it is possible to attach a bid containing a special meaning as to the strength of the hand or the bidding zone to which it belongs. Also, the same bidding level may be used to indicate a bid with a double and even triple meaning, like some English sounds: "Two, too and to," or "pair, pare and pear."

TODAY'S HAND.

When a player makes what may be recognized as a purely defensive bid, there is no logic in placing him with "tops" in the suit. Therefore, the opening leader should make his selection on the basis of his own hand.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	Pass	2 clubs
2 diam.	Pass	2 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

East fully realized that his two-club bid was dangerous, but who can blame him for at least a faint effort at defending against the 90 part-score.

West woodenly selected the club ace as the opening lead and, after that, there was no defense that could deprive declarer of eight tricks. The belated shift by West to a spade was won by dummy's queen, and the jack of hearts was led. East won with the ace and returned a trump, but the damage was done.

Declarer won, cashed his king of clubs and king of hearts, and then led three rounds of diamonds, ruffing the last with dummy's last trump. Then dummy's third club was ruffed with declarer's worthless low trump and the contract was made with an overtrick.

Had West used a little judgment he would have seen that nothing could be gained by laying down the club ace. A trump would have been the logical lead against South's declaration of two suits. Even with a trump opening it would have required careful defense to defeat the contract. On the lead of the heart jack from dummy, East should merely cover with the queen, not play the ace. Then, when West later gained the lead with the club ace, he would have to return a heart to East's tenace over the dummy, and thus gain the opportunity to discard a club, in order to overruff declarer when he should attempt to ruff a third round of clubs.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: When there is a misdeal, does the deal pass to the next player?

Answer: No, the same dealer redeals.

Miss Scott Meador Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. Harold Ebersole entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club in compliment to her cousin, Miss Scott Meador, whose marriage to Dr. Irvin Willingham will be a fashionable event of Saturday afternoon.

A low bowl of brilliantly tinted autumn flowers graced the luncheon table.

Mrs. James Williams entertained at tea for the bride-elect later in the day at her home on Ridgewood drive. A kitchen shower featured the event.

Assisting Mrs. Williams was her mother, Mrs. J. W. Morrow, and Mrs. Fannie Durand Williams.

For Miss Edwards.

Mrs. Earl Barton entertained recently at the home of her niece, Mrs. Scott S. Edwards, in Smyrna, honoring her great-niece, Miss Margaret Louise Edwards, whose engagement was announced Sunday to John Earle Lowry Jr. Assisting Mrs. Barton in entertaining were Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. C. T. Gause, another great-aunt of the bride-elect; Mrs. Max Pavolosky and Mrs. E. H. Mitchell.

Guests included: Misses Eleanor Ivy, Claudia Wooten, Elsie McDowell, Suejette Mitchell, J. P. Hughes, John Lowry, Betty Lewis and Hilliard Parker, of Atlanta; Misses Dinsmore McCollum, Sarah Miller, Margaret Barnes, Clara Smith and Louise Moore, of Marietta; Misses Evelyn Edwards, Bill Osborne, Florence Anderson, Alice Estees, Jean Skelton, Billie Skelton, Mary Mathews, Sarah Green, Sarah Pollock and Mrs. Claude Mitchell, of Smyrna.

A New Deodorant Cream That Is "Safe and Sane" and Disappears

BY MIGNON.

(The Mignon who writes this column does not sell, endorse or manufacture any cosmetics.)

No matter how little one perspires, clothes, especially in the fall and winter, have that disagreeable odor of perspiration. It is something that no fastidious woman can endure and it is worth the little effort it takes to apply a deodorant cream, provided you know it is a good one and will not harm you.

Manufacturers have become conscious of the fact that women will no longer tolerate a non-perspirant or a deodorant which is harmful either to the skin or to clothes. An excellent manufacturer whose products are most reliable has brought out a deodorant cream in a tube with a very convenient top that slides shut. It removes the odor of perspiration and retards it perceptibly. I find that it does not harm the skin—at least, not mine—and has that excellent quality of being greaseless in texture. It disappears almost as soon as it is applied.

I would say that the cream is not perfumed and yet it must have a little of something in it to give it a very, very slight fragrance which lasts but a moment. It is worth your consideration, certainly.

If you want to know where you can purchase any article mentioned in this column phone Mignon at The Constitution. Please do not write unless you live outside the city, in which case enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

SLIM DOWN AT THE WAIST.

If you relaxed and let yourself go this summer, chances are that vagabond, the waistline, has wandered from symmetry, for lazy muscles always follow the lines of least resistance.

IDA JEAN KAIN

With fashions styled for the waistlined only, several extra inches of waist space give your figure away . . . so get busy. If your weight is normal, or nearly so, that waistline roll is not due to excess calories, but rather to soft muscles and slumping. In this case, a scientific technique in exercise will retrieve a lost waistline in no time at all. On or before 30 days, the following exercises, conscientiously performed, will give you a slim waise:

Exercise 1.

Position: Standing erect, lower abdominal muscles pulled up, arms stretched high above head.

Movement: Pulling the waist slim by stretching every inch, swing the right leg forward and upward, keeping the knee straight and toes pointed. Swing the leg downward and back, still keeping knee straight. Stretch! This exercise slims the waistline and strengthens the abdominal muscles. Do the same with the left leg. Repeat 12 times.

Exercise 2.

Position: Standing on knees, arms stretched overhead.

Movement: Bend sidewards at the waist and swing over in the same direction with the arms until the body forms an arc. At the same time, slowly sit down on the floor at the side of the feet. The upstretched arms give balance, and the bending reduces the waistline. Keeping the back straight as you sit down slowly tones the abdominal muscles. Alternate sides and repeat exercise six times, later 10.

Exercise 3.

Position: Lie flat on floor on back, legs together, arms outstretched at sides at shoulder level, palms on floor.

Movement: Raise your legs off the floor about halfway up, knees straight, feet together, toes pointed. Now swing the toes to form a big circle in the air, swinging the legs around toward the right, upward over chest, down to left, and back around without touching toes to floor. As the legs swing up over the chest, the hips come off the floor. Describe three complete circles, then rest and try it again.

The special set of waistline exercises, "Stretch the Fat From the Waistline, Ribs and Wishbone," will smooth out all the bulges and tone the lazy muscles. These exercises will not only give you a 26-inch waistline, but will pull the waist away from the hips and streamline the entire silhouette.

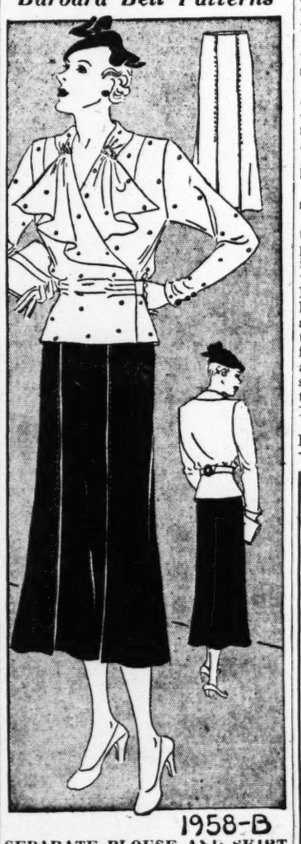
Barbara Bell Patterns



1958-B

SEPARATE BLOUSE AND SKIRT FOR FASTIDIOUS TASTE.

Today's pattern—two separate garments—gives you an idea how chic you can appear when clothes are chosen with taste and discrimination. Any blouse as clever as this one can be worn successfully with a dozen different skirts and any skirt, equally fetching and serviceable, can justify a dozen different blouses.

An unusually flattering neck treatment with the folds giving way to a jabot effect and surplice closing, lend distinction to the blouse fashioned in a solid crepe, pastel silk or gold metal, while the skirt relies on a slenderizing front panel ending in pleats to relieve its essential simplicity. Try a satin, velveteen, silk, crepe or velvet for the skirt.

Barbara Bell pattern No. 1958-B is available for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40, 42, 44 and 46. Corresponding bust measurements, 32, 34, 36, 38 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 16 (34) requires 2 5-8 yards 39-inch material for the blouse and 2 1-8 yards for the skirt.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

Send for the fall Barbara Bell pattern book. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming clothes, selecting designs from the Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Interesting and exclusive fashions for little children and the difficult junior age; slenderizing, well-cut patterns for the mature figure, afternoon dresses for the most particular young women and matrons and other patterns for special occasions are all to be found in the Barbara Bell pattern book. Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am about to land in the middle of a great big mess. I am engaged to a man that is not only jealous of my friends but jealous of my family, my boss and the men that work in the same office with me. At first I was flattered that he cared so much but finally it dawned on me that even before we were married I had absolutely no freedom. What is the trouble? Why can't a man trust a girl when she has never given him the faintest cause for suspicion? Will marriage make him different? ENGAGED.

Answer: Dear girl, the young man's trouble is dispositional and deep. There is no reasoning with, or about it. Marriage won't change him one iota. You are already in the middle of a great big mess and if you can't make up your mind to live in it, you had better get out now. Jealousy is one of the diseases of the mind and emotions for which no cure has been found. If you love a jealous person you can never have much freedom for there is always the remainder that if you get out of sight there will be a scene when you get back. It is said that Voltaire's wife didn't make but one excursion outside her home after she married him. He was so insanely jealous of her that her pleasure in going about was completely destroyed.

From Solomon, who said jealousy was cruel as the grave, through Shakespeare who wrote a play about it and said it was a green-eyed monster that mocked the meat it fed on, and on down to the modern mind-doctors there is plenty of reading on the subject, description of the symptoms, mental and physical but not even the psychologists have discovered the cure beyond telling the poor afflicted ones to exercise self-control. Dostoievski gave a good slant on the agony of heart and mind that the jealous endure. He said they died a thousand deaths. So the jealous do deserve pity; but they don't often get it.

I know a woman married to a man who has an alergy to wheat in all forms. If he eats anything with wheat flour in it he is likely to have an attack of asthma. Now stop and think what it would mean to keep house without using wheat in any form. It taxes the cooks' ingenuity to the limit. Yet this wife has cracked down on her job and manages to prepare three meals a day that reduce her husband's violent asthmatic attacks.

A wife of jealous man has a similar problem: She must live in perpetual hell unless she is willing to leave off the things that bring on her husband's fits. She can't cure them but she can reduce them to minimum. No, it isn't ideal to be married to a cripple, whether the trouble is in his head or his legs. But some wives do get away with it in swell style. A jealous man is an emotional cripple.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Bridal Couple, Visitor Honored at Supper.

An informal supper was given Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan V. Gray, at which Miss Lillian May Heptinstall was co-hostess, complimenting Miss Lalla Caroline Mason and her fiance, Embry Eve Jr., and Gerald B. Van Deene, of West Springfield, Mass.

The supper followed a lecture by A. B. Van Deene, of the National Library Bindery Association, at the High Museum of Art, on "The Art of Fine Book-Binding." In the exhibit the bindery has on display at the museum are a specially bound first edition of Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind," and the facisimile copy of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, which was bound in Germany.

Mr. Van Deene, long a friend of the bride-elect's family, will give her in marriage at the wedding on October 13 at the Procathedral of St. Philip.

KITE TRIAL POSTPONED SECOND TIME BY COURT

Trial of Earl Kite for possession of whisky was postponed for the second time yesterday in Fulton criminal court.

Kite, his wife and a negro were arrested at Kite's home on Clermont drive, N. E., recently after a large quantity of liquor was found in the residence by county police. On a plea of change of lawyers, Kite's trial was postponed until October 13.

On the Air Today

MAGAZINE OF AIR — Grand Duchess Marie, of Russia, and Prunella Wood, fashion expert, will be the guest speakers on the "Magazine of the Air" program to be heard over WGST at 10 o'clock this morning.

The grand duchess will discuss "Manners and Etiquette" and Miss Wood, entitling her subject, "Don't Be An Old Mrs. Grundy," will give interesting details of the new fall styles.

TED MALONE—Taking verses at random from an old scrapbook, Ted Malone, will present his broadcast to be heard over WGST at 11:15 o'clock this morning.

On this "little visit" Ted will read poems, both solemn and funny, while Fred Feibel will improvise at the organ in the background.

BURNS AND ALLEN—"Mouthies," old and new, will be offered by Gracie Allen with George Burns struggling futilely to keep cool, during their broadcast to be heard over WGST at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The strain on George will be relieved by the singing of Jimmy Newell, tenor, to the music of Henry King's orchestra.

NINO MARTINI SINGS—In his second program of the fall season with Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra, Nino Martini, opera tenor, will present Sandoval's "Adios Mi Terra" (Farewell My Country) as a featured selection to be heard over WGST at 8 o'clock tonight. The song is from the singer's new picture which opens in New York on October 8.

Martini will also sing "E Lucevan le Stelle" from Puccini's opera, "Tosca," to the tuneful music of Andre Kostelanetz and his orchestra.

THE GANG BUSTERS—"The Case of John Leonard Whitfield," nicknamed "The Cat," will be re-enacted by Phillips Lord's "Gang Busters" during their program to be heard over WGST at 9 o'clock tonight.

Astute deductions on the part of the prison warden and clever detective work led to the discovery of Whitfield's hide-out, where he was killed while resisting arrest.

AILEEN SISK ORDERED TO BEGIN PRISON TERM

Aileen Sisk, girl who figured in the dynamite terrorist gangs last year and who once swore she wanted to marry Marvin Honea, condemned slayer, will be sent to the state women's prison at Milledgeville today or tomorrow, Sheriff James I. Lowry announced yesterday.

She was taken into custody yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Sidney Wooten at a downtown hotel following the affirmation of a 12-month sentence by the state court of appeals last week.

Aileen was convicted of assault and battery on A. J. Eidson, deputy sheriff, at Fulton tower last year. She was out on bond pending the appeal and was ordered arrested when the sentence was upheld.

JONES WESLEY REAGAN FUNERAL RITES HELD

Final rites for James Wesley Reagin, of 609 Ormewood avenue, S. E., who died Monday, were held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Confederate Avenue Baptist church.

The Rev. E. L. Barlow officiated and burial was in Decatur cemetery, under the direction of H. M. Patterson & Son. Reagin was a son of the late Edwin O. Reagin, former DeKalb county sheriff and tax collector.

WEDDING CLIMAXES HOSPITAL ROMANCE

Secret Marriage at Hoschton Bared by Aunt of Bride in Decatur.

Following a friendship which began when Miss Ruth Lott, of Braselton, became a patient at the Allen hospital, in Hoschton, for removal of her appendix, the marriage of Miss Lott to Dr. Myron B. Allen, at Walhalla, S. C., late Saturday, was announced yesterday by Mrs. S. H. Allen, of Decatur, aunt of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Allen, who, with her husband, is in Decatur for a brief stay before continuing on their wedding trip to an unannounced destination, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Lott, of Braselton. Her father is a commissioner of Hall county and is operator of a large nursery.

Dr. Allen, tried and acquitted on a charge of murder after his first wife was shot and killed at their home at Hoschton, confirmed the marriage took place last Saturday.

Junior League Plans To Present Follies as Fund-Raising Project

The presentation of a Junior League follies, a smart and sparkling musical revue, to be given in the late winter or early spring, was selected by the Junior League as the main enterprise for raising funds for its charitable endeavors, at the meeting of the league held yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club. Mrs. Murdock Equen presided.

Jerome Cargill, of New York, who will be in charge of 25 Junior League follies in the larger cities of the country, outlined at the meeting elaborate plans for staging the show, which will include a cast of 75. The selection of the follies as the chief enterprise was made from three proposals presented by Mrs. Dan Conklin, chairman of ways and means, and the event will be staged instead of "store day," which the league has sponsored the past five years.

Mrs. Equen, assisted by her new corps of officers and committee chairmen, discussed with the league plans for an active and interesting year. The other officers include Mrs. Joel Chandler Harris, first vice president; Mrs. Colquitt Carter Jr., second vice president; Mrs. Reginald Fleet, treasurer; Mrs. Howard Candler Jr., recording secretary, and Mrs. Preston Stevens, corresponding secretary.

To Sponsor Psychiatrist.

Mrs. Lawrence Willett, member of the finance committee, presented for the league's approval details of a new demonstration project in parent guidance to be undertaken by the league which would include the employment of a full-time psychiatric worker to work with parents in developing problem children along constructive lines into useful channels of activity. This work, to be conducted in co-operation with the Family Welfare and other social agencies, is a specialized type hitherto included in only a limited scale in the general welfare activities and offers an opportunity for service for which a definite need has been demonstrated. The league voted to carry on the work for a year with the view that when its usefulness is fully demonstrated, provision will be made for its continuance as a community service.

The league also voted to continue limited financial support of the Grady Thyroid Clinic and the purchase of needed medicinal supplies at the Good Samaritan Clinic. Acknowledgment and expressions of appreciation were also made at the meeting of the oxygen tent given last spring to Egleston, the Dolly Black Hut at Camp Civitania, presented to the local Girl Scout Council, braces for crippled children at the Scottish Rite hospital and of several summer campships given through the Family Welfare Society.

Mrs. Carter informed members that letters proposing new members must be received by October 13 and that restrictions passed by the board limited each member to the indorsement of not more than three new members. Mrs. Carter announced a new orientation course in social service, concentrated during a 10-day period, to be given for the new members following their admission in November and which would be open to all members interested in welfare work.

Mrs. Joseph Cooper Jr., chairman of welfare, announced that members were active in 11 local welfare and other service agencies and requested additional volunteers for the agencies with which the league is co-operating.

Volunteers Wanted.

Mrs. William Minnich stated that a limited amount of work had been conducted at Egleston throughout the summer and asked for additional ward aides and other workers to augment the group of 12 who have already volunteered to serve at the hospital.

Mrs. Edwin Lochridge, civic chairman, announced that Miss Laura Troutman has been appointed chairman for the league of the Forget-Me-Not drive and that she had assembled a group of members to work in the forthcoming project.

Congratulations were extended to Mrs. Albert Howell Jr. on the attractive edition of the Cotton Blossom, just from the press, and Mrs. Howell announced that the publication would appear in its enlarged form four times each year instead of the customary nine, with increased space devoted to feature and informative articles.

Mrs. R. B. Pegram IV announced that invitations had been received by the marionette committee to give performances in three Georgia cities and several Atlanta schools and that permanent quarters had been secured to enable the work to be developed on a larger scale.

Mrs. Gaston Gay invited interested members to join the new class in journalism, being conducted by R. B. Nixon, head of the department of journalism at Emory, at the Driving Club twice each month. Announcement was made by Mrs. Equen that a director would be elected to represent this region and proposals for nominations were to be considered before the next meeting.

Mrs. Rutherford Ellis stated that a play would be presented by members of the children's theater committee in several public schools this winter and Mrs. John Ottley Jr. requested all members who had not volunteered for specific work to make an early selection of the field of activity in which they wished to work during the year.

Hymn Selected For Month's Study.

"O Worship the King" was selected as the hymn of the month for special study in October by the department of music in religious education of the Atlanta Music Club and the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs.

Based on a portion of Psalm 104, it is a metrical version of the sublime imagery in which the psalmist extols the six days of the creation as told in the first chapter of Genesis. The six stanzas are great in every element—spiritual conception, literary finish, grace of measure and beauty of style enhanced by double rhyme in the middle as well as at the end of the line.

Sir Robert Grant, of Inverness, Scotland, was prominent in English letters and politics, a member of parliament, privy councilor, author of a bill granting rights to the Jew, also governor of Bombay. He yet found time to write hymns of a high order, two of which are among the world's greatest, his immortal litany hymn, "Saviour When in Dust to Thee," and the creation hymn, "O Worship the King."

Two hymn tunes, of similar style and majestic beauty, are used for the words "Lyons," arranged from a larger work by Michael Haydn, brother of Franz Josef Haydn, and "Hanover," by William Croft, organist and composer of the Chapel Royal and Westminster Abbey.

Y. W. C. A. Opens Fall Season With Many Interesting Classes

Classes in gymnasium, tap dancing, swimming and volleyball for women, business girls and children began at the Y. W. C. A., 37 Auburn avenue, Monday with Miss Frances Keller directing and Miss Mildred Kelly in charge of swimming. Classes on Mondays and Thursdays at 3 o'clock give a hard workout and are recommended for teachers. The Monday and Thursday 5:30 p. m. class is suited to the needs of business girls, and Tuesdays and Friday morning class at 10 o'clock is the favorite for matrons. This class, followed by a swim, is splendid for weight normalizing. Volleyball at 5:30 on Wednesdays affords active competition and tap dancing for adults will be held on Mondays and Thursdays at 6:30 p. m. A class for children 12 years and under will be held on Wednesdays at 3:30 o'clock.

The indoor pool exclusively for women, is open from 11 to 1 o'clock and 4:30 to 6:30 daily except Saturdays, when the pool is reserved for children and swimming instruction is available.

A posture contest will be conducted on Friday, October 9, at the Y booth at the Southeastern Fair, with free tap lessons given to the girl between the age of 9 to 12 who has the best posture. Walter Goodpasture, chairman of the health education committee, and Miss Mildred Kelly will be the judges.

Classes have begun in the Rainbow Club in current events and economics, food preparations, contract bridge, sewing, tap and social dancing, swimming, tennis, etiquette and personal appearance and personality development.

Clover, S. I. S. P., S. O. S. and the Bell Club opened Tuesday evening and the Business Girls' League will hold a candle-lighting installation service Thursday evening and select new classes. Wednesday will be registration day for unemployed girls out of school wishing to join the free classes given each Wednesday.

All members are invited to the luncheon Friday at 12:30 o'clock to hear Dr. W. W. Young, psychiatrist. Reservations should be telephoned to Walnut 8961 by Wednesday noon.

The Girl Reserve setting-up conference were held at Camp Highland Saturday and Sunday. Taking part in the programs were Mrs. Robert B. Church Jr., chairman of the Girl Reserve committee; Misses Mildred McMullen, Bernice Martin, Sarah Lawrence, Elizabeth Burson, Margaret Richards, Cornelia Christie, Elizabeth Simpson, Mesdames W. H. Bohannon, Cullen Gosnell, Geoffrey Crickmay. Miss Isabel McCain, president of the Y. W. C. A. at Agnes Scott College, led the worship service. Miss Anne Pridmore announces that club officers and leaders will plan for Saturday morning activities at 37 Auburn avenue, suggesting that social and tap dancing, dramatics, handicrafts and music be available for all Girl Reserves on Saturdays.

Trio of Parties Honor Miss Thomas.

Miss Ida Thomas and her fiance, Dr. Dewey T. Nabors, whose marriage will be a social event of Saturday, were central figures last evening at the buffet supper given by Miss Clara McConnell at her home on Fairview road. The guests were limited to members of the Thomas-Nabors bridal party.

The reception rooms of the home were thrown en suite for the occasion and were decorated with quantities of palms, ferns and pastel-shaded flowers carrying out a color scheme of pink. In the dining room the table was covered with a real lace cloth and was centered with a mirror bubblebowl filled with pink roses and pink snapdragons. Crystal candlesticks placed on either end of the table held pink tapers. The ice punch bowl was embedded in pink roses.

Miss McConnell was handsomely gowned in a midnight blue crepe model trimmed in sequins. Her flowers were gardenias. Miss Thomas was beautifully gowned in a green taffeta model fashioned on empire lines, and she wore gardenias. Mrs. Lucius McConnell, who assisted her daughter in entertaining, was gowned in black lace with a shoulder bouquet of pink roses.

Mrs. Dan Clarke presided at the coffee table and assisting in entertaining were Misses Jule McClatchey, Jennie Champion, Bright Bickerstaff, Aileen Timmons, Marjorie Carmichael, and Mrs. Kenneth Keyes, of Miami, Fla., sister of Miss Thomas.

Miss McConnell entertained several hundred members of the younger set at tea for Miss Thomas preceding the buffet supper.

Miss McConnell was also hostess at tea for Miss Thomas yesterday afternoon. Receiving with the hostess were the honor guest and Mrs. Lucius McConnell, mother of Miss McConnell.

Mrs. Claude C. Smith, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. Dan Clarke poured coffee. Misses Ray King and Alice Thomas served punch. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Kenneth Keyes, of Miami, Fla.; Misses Jule McClatchey, Bright Bickerstaff, Jennie Champion, Marjorie Carmichael and Aline Timmons.

Mrs. Dean Paden's luncheon yesterday at her home on Beverly road was another compliment to Miss Thomas. A charming arrangement of pastel-shaded flowers centered the luncheon table, and the favors marking the guests' places were miniature umbrellas made of dainty handkerchiefs which were presented to the bride-to-be.

Covers were placed for Miss Thomas, Mrs. Kenneth Keyes, of Miami; Mrs. George Niles, Mrs. Lawrence McCullough, Misses Jule McClatchey, Nesbit LeConte, Clara McConnell and Mrs. Paden.

Day of Prayer.

W. M. S. of the Baptist Tabernacle will observe a day of prayer for state missions today at 10:30 o'clock. Mrs. E. B. Goodwin will lead the devotional and the pastor, Dr. W. H. Knight, will speak. There will be special music.

Quickly Crocheted Squares Make a Handsome Rug

PATTERN 5699

Pattern 5699.

Just a simple square, repeated and joined together forms this smart rug. You'll love doing the colorful squares in varied colors, and, in no time at all, you'll have enough completed to make this stunning rug. Here's one way to turn useless rags into something worthwhile, though rug wool or candlewicking may also be used. Done in Germantown the squares would make a handsome cushion or chair set. In pattern 5699 you will find complete instructions and charts for making the square shown; an illustration of it and of the stitches needed, material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

Miss Burney Weds Thomas R. Simmons In Bainbridge, Ga.

BAINBRIDGE, Oct. 6.—Miss Sara Elizabeth Burney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glover McCall Burney, and Thomas Randolph Simmons were married at the First Methodist church Saturday evening in a ceremony that was of interest to a wide circle of friends. The Rev. T. H. Thompson performed the ring ceremony. Mrs. T. L. Smith, the organist, played the musical program and Mrs. Herbert Miller sang several selections.

Ushers were Ned Hinson, of Tampa, Fla.; Milton Woodbury, of Jacksonville; Bernard Nussbaum, of Atlanta, and Osler Wheat, of Bainbridge. The bride's sister, Miss Martha Ann Burney, as maid of honor, wore a pink velvet dress and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The bridesmaids were Misses Sara Callaway, Elinor Piper and Dorothy Piper, all of Covington; Miss Martha Camp, of Bainbridge; Mrs. J. T. Edge, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Ralph Williams, of Atlanta. Their dresses were of rose pink, and they carried bouquets of pink roses tied with yellow satin ribbon.

Little Misses Mary Edna and Sarah Simmons, of Tallahasee, Fla., were flower girls. The ring-bearer was Ramsay Simmons Jr.

The groom's best man was his brother, Willian Simmons. Groomsmen were Robert Stubbs, of Atlanta; Robert Dykes, of Miami; Jack Simmons, of Tallahassee; George Carswell, of Atlanta; Ramsay Simmons, of Bainbridge, and Glover Burney Jr., of Bainbridge.

The bride was a vision of beauty as she entered with her father, Glover McCall Burney, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of ivory satin, cut princess style, with Peter Pan collar and cuffs of lace, and white satin buttons from neckline to waist. The long train fitted from the beltline on the back. Her cap of tulle and illusion veil were adjusted with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Easter lilies and button chrysanthemums.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Glover McCall Burney entertained with a formal reception at the hotel at which several hundred guests were present.

Mrs. Glover McCall Burney, mother of the bride, wore a gown of chartreuse velvet with neckline of rhinestones and a shoulder bouquet of roses. Mrs. John Middleton Simmons, mother of the groom, wore a Dubonnet velvet gown. Her corsage was of tube roses and gardenias.

For her going away suit, the bride used a three-piece woolen ensemble in egg plant shade trimmed with grey squirrel. Her accessories were grey. The bride and groom left on an extended wedding journey that will take them to New York and Canada before returning to make their home in Bainbridge.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR DR. T. R. KENDALL

Final rites for Dr. T. R. Kendall, prominent minister for 49 years, who died Monday at the age of 90, were held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Wesley Memorial church.

The Rev. W. A. Boring officiated and burial was in Oakland cemetery, under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Dr. Kendall, a veteran of the War Between the States and one of the oldest retired ministers of the North Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, was active as supply pastor of the Haygood Memorial church since his retirement.

He was a native of Upson county, Georgia, and during his long service in the ministry filled important pastorates in the north and south Georgia, and Louisville, Ky., conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Besides his leadership in religious affairs, he was active in civic and philanthropic work.

DOUBLE MURDER CLUE IS SOUGHT IN DEBRIS

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 6.—(AP) Authorities sifted the charred ruins of a modest little home near Vivian, La., today for clues they hoped would lead to a solution of the brutal murder Monday night of a young mother and her 19-month-old child.

The mother, Mrs. Frances Boyter, 21, died here this morning without regaining consciousness. Her baby, Kay Frances, was found dead in the debris of the burned home.

Coroner Willis P. Butler reported the mother "apparently" was the victim of a criminal assault and termed both deaths "murder."

Mrs. Boyter's death, the coroner found, was the result of a fractured skull and numerous abrasions and bruises. The child's breast, Dr. Butler said, showed signs of having been slashed.

Woodcutters working near the Boyter home were attracted by the fire and screams. They found Mrs. Boyter lying near a fence a few yards from the burning structure, unconscious.

The husband and father of the victims, J. P. Boyter, 23, was at work at a near-by refinery when informed of the tragedy.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at 10 southern spot markets was 12.09 cents a pound.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, middling, f.o.b., 12.65.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Cotton sold off 50 cents a bale today. The decline occurred almost entirely in the last hour after the market had held within a point or so of previous closing levels for most of the season. An increase in hedging and reports that the American Cotton Co-operative Association was out with a crop estimate of 11,900,000 bales was said to be partially behind the decline.

Weather developments offered little change. Higher temperatures in the northern half of the belt was considered favorable, as this region is always the first to feel frosts.

December closed at New Orleans at 11.88, January at 11.87, March at 11.87, and May at 11.84. The average spot price was 11 points lower with middling at 10 markets at 12.09.

A tapering off in the recent heavy demand for goods was reported from Worth street. The record turnover of last week was believed to have filled immediate demands. Prices held firm, however. This tended to reduce price-fixing purchases in the cotton futures market.

Liverpool made a good showing and prices, counting a lower sterling, were about as due to a point or so higher.

Most of the day's activity was made up of hedging in December, with a light trade demand holding prices within a few points of previous closing levels. Co-operatives sold December, reportedly hedging 30,000 bales.

Port receipts 56,688; week 168,459; season 1,965,724; last season 833,351. Port stocks 2,052,084. Stocks on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston were 78,171; last year 62,199. Spot sales at southern markets were 69,716. Last year 61,147.

COTTON PRICES EASE ON N. Y. EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Cotton sagged slowly from slight early rallies today under a moderate volume of hedge selling.

December sold off from 12.04 to 11.90 and ended at the low with the market barely steady at net losses of 8 to 12 points.

The market opened 2 points higher to 2 points lower and rallied to net gains of 1 to 5 points before halting. October liquidation influenced by the circulation of notices against 7,800 bales, local and New Orleans selling supplied contracts on the decline. Final prices were about for the lows of the day.

Another private crop report indicated production of 11,536,000 bales against 11,887,000 by the same authority last month and a condition of 59.9 against 62.1 a month ago.

The average of five reports thus far is 11,504,000 bales against 11,770,000 at the end of August.

Exports today 37,219, making a total of 923,947 for the season. Port receipts 55,581. United States port stocks 2,040,469.

TARZAN AND THE MAYAN GODDESS No. 87

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan was puzzled. The gasping cry reverberated as if it were constricted by cavern walls. Its course was an impenetrable mass of jungle growth. It was a human cry—fearful, pitiable, imploring aid—yet how could any man enter that tangled mesh?

"Chop through there!" Tarzan commanded, and the jungle slowly receded as the metallic clang of axes and machetes mingled with those weird, incoherent cries. Then, suddenly, a tumbled pile of stones was revealed, in the midst of which yawned a dark, forbidding hole.

In the aperture lay a man, haggard and disheveled, gazing upward with mouth agape. "D'Arnot!" Tarzan exclaimed. The feverish glaze lifted slowly from the man's staring eyes. "Tarzan, Tarzan!" he cried; "you have come. Thank God I am in time to warn you!"

Then poor D'Arnot lapsed into unconsciousness. Tarzan lifted him up and carried him to a more comfortable spot, while Ula Dale busied herself with a medical kit. Then D'Arnot's eyes opened again. "We must run away" he whispered hoarsely; "the monsters!"

Detective Triumphs

By GEORGE BARTON.

On April 26, 1859, $10,000 in bank notes mysteriously disappeared from a pouch of the Adams Express Company at Montgomery, Ala. One week later $40,000 in another pouch vanished in an unaccountable manner between Montgomery and Atlanta.

In each case the messenger was one John Chase and the receiving agent Nathan Moroney. There was no clue of any kind to the missing money. Moroney had a receipt signed by Messenger Chase showing that the packages of money had been dropped into the pouch in the presence of Chase. He proved in addition that the pouches had been sealed in the presence of Chase.

The messenger also had a perfect alibi. He said the pouches had been delivered precisely as they had been handed to him. They were never out of the locked safe in the express car. The pouches had been locked by the dispatching agent and unlocked by the receiving agent. And the messenger had no key!

In their bewilderment the officials of the express company called upon Allan Pinkerton, then a rising young detective, to solve the problem. Moroney, seemingly indignant at the suspicion cast upon him, resigned his job. But although he had quit the company, the company did not quit him. Pinkerton assigned two of his operatives to shadow the man, and also detailed Mrs. Kate Warne, one of his most trusted subordinates, to win her way into the confidence of Mrs. Moroney.

The first promising bit of information obtained was that Moroney was well supplied with money and that he had been playing the horses at the southern race tracks.

The second clue came with a report from the men who were on the trail of Moroney. They said he had traveled from Montgomery to Natchez and thence to New Orleans and Mobile. And he was always accompanied by a small nail-studded black trunk which he guarded jealously.

The third tip came one day when Mrs. Moroney asked her dear friend, "Madame Imbert," what was the best way to hide bulky valuables "that one did not wish to carry from place to place." The Madame suggested that the easiest plan was to bury them in the cellar or the back yard.

Armed with all this information, Pinkerton decided that the time had come to strike. When Moroney came on to join his wife in New York city he was arrested and put in jail in default of $100,000 bail. The excessive bail was for the purpose of keeping him in custody until the evidence was sufficient to take him into court.

On the second day of Moroney's imprisonment he found he was going to have company in the person of one John R. White, an alleged pork packer, wanted for the misappropriation of funds. Actually he was another Pinkerton detective. The meeting of Moroney and White was the beginning of a beautiful friendship. Birds of a feather are presumed to flock together and soon the two men were exchanging confidences. So, when John R. White was released on bail, it was with the understanding that he should undertake a highly important commission for his pal. It was to take care of a large sum of money until Moroney was able to leave his prison cell.

Mrs. Moroney was reluctant to confide in White at first, but her husband's instructions left her no alternative. Accompanied by "Madame Imbert" and two other supposed friends—all Pinkerton detectives—the unsuspecting woman took them down to the cellar of her home and they dug up the money that had been stolen from the express company pouches.

When Moroney walked into court he had the shock of his life in seeing John R. White seated among the witnesses.

It developed that when the bank notes were shipped he had kept Chase, the messenger, busy with the way bills while he handled the parcels He dropped each package of money next to the mouth of the pouch and down behind the counter.

Ten years in the penitentiary was the sentence.

PRISONER SEEKS PERMISSION TO WED

Tennessee Convict Says He Wants Someone To Live With His Mother.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Robert L. Jones, though faced with the prospect of remaining behind prison bars another 16 months or more, petitioned today for permission to marry.

Jones is at Bushy Mountain prison under five-to-ten years sentence for robbery. His letter to Institutions Commissioner E. L. Pardue did not reveal the name of his prospective bride but said she is a church member "and of irreproachable character."

"My mother, who is 63 years of age, is having to live all alone," Jones' letter said. "She needs someone to live with and take care of her. I do not mean financially, for I am giving her enough out of my government compensation for her living necessities but she needs someone just to live with her.

"You must realize that her life must be a lonely one, having to live there all alone, and that out in the country besides."

"If the girl wants to try it, it's all right with me," Pardue said, although he forwarded the letter to Governor McAlister for a final decision. The Governor said he would decide later.

Jones was sentenced at Knoxville December 7, 1934. With time off for good conduct, he will become eligible for parole February 7, 1938.

MEXICO AND U. S. SIGN STOLEN AUTOS TREATY

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Eduardo Hay, Mexican foreign minister, and United States Ambassador Josephus Daniels signed a reciprocal treaty today for the return of stolen automobiles, trailers and airplanes. It was the fifth treaty signed during Daniels' ambassadorship.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Some traders still believe technical readjustments downward may be in order after the strength and activity of the past three sessions but few have any doubt as to the main trend still being upward.

THOMPSON & McKINNON—We continue to be impressed with the optimistic feeling in the market and look for higher level of prices.

BEER & CO.—The rise has not as yet reached a climactic stage as we view it, consequently we would maintain commitments.

FENNER & BEANE—For the time being, automobile, steel, machinery and retail store stocks are considered attractive for speculative purchase.

DOBBS & CO.—We believe the main body of stocks have advanced far enough without any reaction.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—The market gave evidence Tuesday of consistent confidence with the result that the long side is gaining fresh adherents. Higher prices over the near term would seem to be plainly indicated.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—We continue to favor accumulation of contracts during these easy spots.

THOMPSON & McKINNON—We believe present prices have reflected to some extent an increase of 200,000 to 300,000 bales in the crop.

BEER & CO.—A pre-bureau market, with evening up the principal activity will likely prevail pending the bureau.

FENNER & BEANE—An irregular, possibly some lower market is to be expected before the bureau but the general view is that the market will do better afterwards unless we get another surprise.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—We look for an irregular market pending bureau report but favor constructive side for long term.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—We believe the strong foreign situation justifies purchases on fair reactions and that higher prices will shortly be seen.

THOMPSON & McKINNON—World news continues bullish with evidence of larger demand than expected from the continent. On this basis higher prices should be expected.

BEER & CO.—We look for irregularly lower prices in wheat for the time being.

FENNER & BEANE—Trade volume is light and it would take but little broadening to make a much stronger market.

DOBBS & CO.—We still feel our market will not much longer ignore the independent strength shown in foreign markets.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Raw sugar was firmer today and spot prices 5 points higher with a little better inquiry.

Sales reported were 10,000 bags of Puerto Rico and 71,154 bags of Cubas in October positions at 3.40.

Reflecting an upturn in the spot market, futures advanced 2 to 4 points early on trade covering against spot sales and some investment buying of new crop positions, but reacted under liquidation and hedge selling.

Final prices were 1 lower on November and 1 to 2 higher on later positions. Sales 6,850 tons.

The range follows:

	High	Low	Last
November	2.50	2.47	2.47b
January	2.47	2.44	2.45b
March	2.44	2.41	2.42b
May	2.45	2.41	2.42b
July	2.45	2.42	2.43b
September	2.47	2.45	2.44b

b—Bid.

Refined was advanced 5 points by one refiner for November-December delivery to 4.50 but January-February delivery was left unchanged at 4.45. Other refiners continued to quote 4.75. Demand was limited to nearby requirements.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Coffee futures moved irregularly today. Distants were sold against purchases of forward shipments.

Santos opened 2 to 6 higher and closed unchanged to 6 higher. Sales 25,000. New No. 7 opened 5 to 7 higher and closed 1 higher to 1 lower. Sales 4,000. Closing quotations: Santos, December 8.85; March 8.67; May 8.64; July 8.59; September 8.59. New No. 7, December 5.30; March 5.37; May 5.42; July 5.47; September 5.50.

Spot coffee quiet, Santos 4s, 9-@9½; Rio 7s, 7½. Cost and freight offers included Santos Bourbon 3s and 5s at 8.95@9.20.

Perkins Names Board To Supervise Federal Contract Labor Conditions

Madam Secretary Moves for Strict Regulation of Plants Doing $380,000,000 Business With Government; Frank Healy Heads Group.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(UP)—Strict federal regulation of hours, wages and working conditions in manufacturing plants doing more than $380,000,000 worth of business annually with the government drew nearer tonight when Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins named a temporary board to administer the Walsh-Healey act.

The board, which will function in a quasi-judicial capacity, is headed by Frank Healy, former NRA official and now in the office of the labor solicitor. Hugh L. Kerwin, director of conciliation of the Labor Department, and Telfair Knight, counsel for the Textile Labor Relations Division, will serve with Healy.

In announcing the appointments, Secretary Perkins explained the seventy-fourth congress which enacted the measure failed to make appropriations to defray the cost of its administration. The trio, she said, would serve in a temporary capacity and chiefly as advisors. Because of the nature of the work involved and the inability of the secretary of labor to concentrate full time and attention to the problem, it was explained the board's recommendations later "will grow to be conclusive."

Secretary Perkins said a panel of advisors to be recommended by the United States Chamber of Commerce and by the American Federation of Labor will work with the board in its investigations of minimum wages, maximum hours, sanitary conditions and other labor standards to which manufacturers holding government contracts in excess of $10,000 must conform in the future.

Co-operate With States.

Heads of labor departments in the various states likewise will be asked to co-operate with the federal government by supplying information on working conditions existing in industries in their localities.

"The act will provide an interesting example of co-operation between states and federal agencies in the enforcement of a federal law," Secretary Perkins said.

Exemptions and exceptions may be granted under the act and several manufacturers already have made application for special treatment, the cabinet minister said. Most of these requests, she explained, have come from textile manufacturers. The Walsh-Healey law prohibits employment of youths under 16 and girls under 18 on government contracts. Textile operators, it was said, protested that under NRA the age limit for boys and girls was fixed at 16 and they would like to continue this level.

The position of the cotton textile industry was placed before the board at a hearing today. Claudius T. Murchison, head of the Cotton Textile Institute, asked the age limit for girl workers be fixed at 16 and appealed for exemptions of watchmen, engineers, dyers, firemen and repair shop crews from overtime pay regulations.

Union Objects.

Thomas McMahon, head of the United Textile Workers, agreed to a three-month test period concerning employment of girls 16 years of age but flatly opposed Murchison's proposal on overtime pay. McMahon declared it is necessary to absorb the textile unemployed industry by eliminating overtime hours and spreading the work.

The board took the case under advisement.

Requests for exemptions also have come from lumber operators, copper and brass foundries and machine tool manufacturers, officials said. All pleas will be considered by the board in open hearings and the vote by which the decisions are made will be made public, Secretary Perkins said.

The primary object of the act, Mrs. Perkins asserted, is the elimination of the sweat shop and the board's first inquiry will be made of working hours and wages in the clothing manufacturing industry where, she said, "the problem of low wages arises the most frequently."

The 40-hour week is mandatory under the act. The minimum wage is fixed at the prevailing wage in a given community which is to be determined by the secretary of labor.

Use of convict or child labor is banned. No part of the federal contract is to be fulfilled through the use of material furnished or manufactured under working conditions which are insanitary or hazardous.

The act became effective on September 28.

FASCISTS OF FRANCE ARE TIRING OF LEADER

Failure of Government To Make De La Rocque Martyr Hurts Prestige.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The star of Colonel Francois de la Rocque, head of the "Social party" and chief of the dissolved "Criox de Feu," was clouded tonight by dissension among his followers and the government's decision not to make a "martyr" of him through criminal prose tion.

De la Rocque, who not so long ago gained serious recognition as a potential dictator of France, tonight found his rightist followers turning from him because they contended he had shown weakness in not causing more trouble in his anti-Communist demonstration Sunday, and because he had not outfought the government's careful suppression campaign against the Social party.

Deputies Tire of Leaders.

Chamber lobbies buzzed with reports that De la Rocque's two most prominent deputies, Jean Ybarnegaray and Xavier Vallat, had threatened to desert their leader.

The criticism that descended upon De la Rocque from those who believed he had stood by too passively when the government of Socialist Premier Leon Blum disbanded the Criox de Feu, tonight turned to accusations that De la Rocque had exposed his followers to loss of prestige through a "vain" counter demonstrations against the Communists over the past weekend.

See Chiappe as Chief.

Jean Chiappe, former prefect of Paris police, was named by many as the most likely success to De la Rocque should the latter be ousted as Social party chieftain.

The action of Minister of the Interior Roger Salengro in banning all demonstrations likely to disturb the public peace was welcomed enthusiastically by the press of virtually all political factions.

Political sources said this course had been adopted by the government as a method of curbing De la Rocque's activities without making a "martyr" of him through criminal prosecution as originally planned.

The newspaper Action Francaise, an extreme Royalist-Rightist organ, termed De la Rocque's latest efforts "inopportune" and declared, "we leave him all responsibility."

U. S. COURT DECREES RETURN OF AAA TAXES

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Processing taxes paid under the defunct Agricultural Adjustment Act, declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, should be refunded to the manufacturers who paid them, Judge Luther B. Way ruled today in the federal district court for eastern Virginia.

This is the first such decision by a district court, it was understood here, and should it be upheld by the supreme court would have the effect of deciding whether billions collected under the AAA will have to be returned to processors. A similar case in an Alabama court was decided in favor of the government.

The case involves the suit of the Charles W. Priddy Company, manufacturers of jute bagging, for the return of $77,731.41, with interest from April 15, 1935, which the company paid the collector of internal revenue in processing taxes before other payments were impounded by the court and returned when the AAA was declared unconstitutional.

BOY SCOUT EXECUTIVES TO MEET HERE TODAY

Charles N. Miller, associate director of the division of operations, Boy Scouts of America, will attend a one-day convention of Scout executives of Georgia today at the Ansley hotel, it was announced by W. A. Dobson, regional Scout executive.

Scout problems will be the theme of the conference, and in addition to Dr. Herman L. Turner, president of the Atlanta council, among other executives expected to attend are: C. L. Adams, Columbus; J. Rucker Newberry, Augusta; H. G. Bradshaw, West Point; J. M. Molder, Griffin; V. Carl Sullivan, Macon; T. S. Brown, Savannah; Freeman E. Self, Rome; Charles N. Wilson, Athens; Thomas Morgan, Waycross; W. M. Marr, G. P. Freeman and C. H. Westin, Atlanta; A. W. Allen, Asheville, N. C.; O. B. Gorman, Greenville, S. C., and William E. Czarnitzki, Columbia, S. C.

BRITAIN IS CRITICIZED IN ARAB-JEW TROUBLE

Hull's Trade Agreement Praised During Discussion by League.

GENEVA, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Sharp criticism of Great Britain's slowness in ending the Jew-Arab disturbances in Palestine, voiced by Christian L. Lange, president of the League assembly mandate committee, stirred the League of Nations today.

An ardent champion of the Jewish cause, Lange expressed "astonishment that a mandatory power was unable to halt violence."

(British efforts to stem the violence in Palestine have recently been speeded on a large scale, with the dispatch of more than 15,000 British troops to Palestine and the proclamation of martial law throughout the strife-torn area.

(Twenty-five weeks of terrorism in the Holy Land have taken a toll of more than 200 lives since the Arabs declared a "general strike" last April in protest against the sale of land to Jewish immigrants and other measures of the British mandate, which many of the country's 700,000 Arabs never recognized.

Entreaties Refused.

(The Arabs have persistently refused all entreaties to suspend violence—mostly sniping and bombing—and await the outcome of an inquiry by a royal commission.)

As president of the League assembly committee handling the question of Britain's mandate over Palestine, Lange's outspoken criticism today created no little comment.

Commendation of Secretary of State Cordell Hull's trade agreement initiative marked the economic discussions of the day's session.

Hull Praised.

Stanley M. Bruce, former president of the League council and former prime minister of Australia, praised Hull's efforts to revive world trade, and said he hoped the United States would co-operate with other creditor nations in carrying forward the work begun by the tri-power monetary accord.

Great Britain and France, as a sequel to their tri-partite monetary accord with the United States, introduced a resolution urging nations to remove excessive obstacles to international trade.

The resolution said the three countries attached "the greatest importance to action being taken without delay to relax progressively the present system of quotas and exchange controls with a view to their abolishment."

Such action, it said, would "effectively contribute to the consolidation of peace, the restoration of international order, the growth of world prosperity and the improvement of the standard of living of peoples."

MARCUS J. WRIGHT, 74, PASSES IN WASHINGTON

Marcus J. Wright, 74, retired field observer of the United States Weather Bureau and lieutenant in the army, who died Sunday at the residence in Washington following a long illness, was buried in Arlington National cemetery. He was a brother of Howard P. Wright, 128 Eighth street, northeast.

Mr. Wright was a lieutenant during the World War and burial was with military honors.

During his service with the weather bureau, he had been stationed in Memphis, Tenn., Pensacola, Fla., and other southern stations. He retired in 1918 because of ill health.

Ex-Messenger Indicted In Credit Fraud Racket

S. H. Truitt, alias Shorty Truitt, alias S. H. Leonard, alias Shorty Leonard, negro, was given a quiet tip by the United States grand jury yesterday that his system of establishing his credit undoubtedly will prove costly in the long run. He was indicted.

Truitt, said to have worked as a messenger in the government service many years ago, is charged with having visited a drug store and a grocery store and having represented himself as a postoffice employe.

At the drug store, the indictment charges, Truitt offered a check, but on his statement that he was a postoffice employe, he was given a dollar's worth of credit. At the grocery store, he is said to have obtained $7 in goods and merchandise.

He is charged with impersonating a postoffice employe.

MILITARY RULE ASKED TO OUST MILL GUARDS

UNION, S. C., Oct. 6.—(AP)—A magistrate and hundreds of Union county residents petitioned Governor Olin Johnston today to declare a state of insurrection in the Monarch mill strike so national guardsmen camped near by might replace deputies of whose conduct they complained.

John Nates, state commissioner of labor, presented the governor with a petition he said was signed by 953 Union county citizens who felt the actions of 75 special deputies warranted placing the strike zone under military control.

Troops were called out Sunday to take charge in an emergency upon the order of Governor Johnston.

Meanwhile, the plant operated today with what mill officials said was a full shift for the first time since the strike.

Slain War Vet Reported Not Dead; Tennessee Town's Folk Puzzled

Application for Bonus Money Reveals Fingerprints of Man Conform With Those of Soldier Who Served in World Conflict.

SOUTH PITTSBURG, Tenn., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Amazed citizens of South Pittsburg tried tonight to piece together the picture-puzzle mystery of Jesse Owen Gifford, the report of whose death has been greatly disputed.

Eight years ago Gifford, a World War veteran, disappeared. Five years ago a body identified as his was discovered in the Tennessee river. A few months afterward a man was charged with killing him but was acquitted after a preliminary hearing.

Thus, three years after he vanished his disappearance was interpreted as a slaying and the people said that there the case ended. "Jesse Gifford is dead," they said.

Today the government, through the Veterans' Administration in Washington, said the case is not ended because, a spokesman declared, Jesse Gifford is not dead.

To back up its statement the Veterans' Administration had an application for Gifford's bonus money.

"It couldn't have been faked," the spokesman said. "Fingerprints prove that the Gifford who applied for his bonds was the same who served in the war."

Further than that the administration would not commit itself. The spokesman said that records of veterans are not public records. He would not reveal where Gifford is supposed to be living or what he is supposed to be doing.

The news stirred up great excitement here, although Mrs. Gifford had received first word of it some days ago. Her brother-in-law, Henry Gifford, Chattanooga contractor, said she had received a letters from the Veterans' Administration.

The letter made inquiry about the fact that Mrs. Gifford had obtained payment on her husband's adjusted compensation certificate some time ago.

It was Mrs. Gifford who identified the body found in the river as that of her husband. Her testimony was substantiated at the preliminary hearing when a merchant identified clothing that he had sold Gifford and a dentist said he recognized the dental work.

Henry Gifford said he didn't know what to make of the situation but he couldn't believe his brother is still alive. "I am positive that my brother's body was taken from the river in 1931," he said.

The folk of South Pittsburgh considered it a picture puzzle from which some of the pieces were still missing.

3,000 ARE REPORTEDLY EXECUTED IN MADRID

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press.)

HENDAYE, France, Oct. 6.—Bands of amateur "executioners" have killed secretly some 3,000 persons in Madrid, reliable advices brought by refugees from the Spanish capital reported tonight.

The executions, they said, were not done with the knowledge or consent of the constituted Madrid government, but were summary executions of those suspected of sedition or Fascist sympathies.

Advices they brought indicated part of the executions were the result of secret sentences of the "Cheka," or people's tribunal, while others were the spontaneous work of Anarchist and Syndicalist gunmen.
